Silver Certificate Redemption Ends

By RAY BROUSSARD
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

The Treasury Department Monday takes the giant step its critics hope will get it out of the silver market.

This step Gazette Telegraph stories have said in past weeks will return the silver market to private enterprise.

That's the last day for persons holding silver certificates to present them to the department and get silver in return. They must be presented at either the New York or San Francisco assay offices by the regular 3 p.m. closing time to claim silver.

The Treasury has served formal notice that no time extension will be granted. Even persons waiting in line at 3 p.m. will not be given a chance to redeem their certificates. But officials don't expect a line to develop on the last day.

After Monday no more silver will be available to the bearer on demand, but the department will continue to sell it to domestic industry.

Silver certificates — paper money placed in circulation between 1929 and the early 1960s — can still be used as money after Monday, but the Treasury plans to continue withdrawing them from circulation as they work their way through the banking system.

The major problem with those people retaining them is that the bill will not be worth as much as they were worth in weeks preceding the June 24 deadline when silver futures rose as high as $1.95 on the dollar.

An official of the Treasury Department said it probably would be withdrawing silver certificates in isolated amounts 20 years from now. The deadline for redeeming silver certificates was fixed by a law which went into effect on June 24, 1967, but the history of the Treasury's purported desire to get out of the silver business goes beyond that.

Such a purported desire goes back to the coin shortage of the heavy industrial use of silver ranging from film processing to storage batteries.

Silver certificate owners Sunday were crowding coin shops and exchange offices in a last minute drive to sell their $1, $5, and $10 bills for more than their face value. The government has said that after Monday it no longer will redeem the scarce

Collision for 'Resurrection City' Feared

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the Poor People's Campaign steered a steady course Saturday toward a collision with the federal government over their right to stay in Resurrection City.

Waving a "permit" from American Indians to the parkland now occupied by the shantytown headquarters of the campaign, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy said the campaigners have no intention of leaving Resurrection City at present.

The official permit to camp on the land, granted by the National Park Service, expires at 8 p.m. Sunday and Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference which is sponsoring the campaign, said he had received no word that it would be extended.

U.S. Denies Red Korean Spy Ship Sinking Claim

By KAY TATEISHI

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Korea declared a spy ship dispatched by "U.S. imperialist aggressor troops" sank with all hands in the Yellow Sea Saturday under fire from North Korean patrol boats.

An English-language broadcast from Pyongyang by the official Korean Central News Agency told of the alleged sequel to North Korea's seizure last Jan. 23 of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo, still held with 82 American crewmen.

Independent confirmation was lacking.

The Pentagon in Washington denied an American ship had been sunk off Korea. Phil G. Goulding, assistant defense secretary, said: "No U.S. vessel has been involved in any such incident."

Fragmentary information on an SOS from a South Korean fishing boat suggested it might have been the craft to which the broadcast referred.

A U.S. spokesman in Tokyo said he was informed by the 314th Air Division command post in Korea a distress signal had been picked up from one of the fishing fleet, but the report did not specify the time or the boat's location.

The North Korean account said the "spy ship" was sunk about dawn near Boopo, also known as Pukpo, a small west coast fishing village 18 miles southwest of the North Korean city of Haeju. It said nothing about the size of the vessel or how many men might have been aboard.

The area is near Yunpyung Island, one of the favorite fishing grounds of South Korean fishermen. Many South Korean craft have been seized by the North Koreans in that area in the past few months.

The Korean Central News Agency dispatch declared in its report on the incident that provocative acts of the United States were endangering the Korean armistice of 1953.

"U.S. imperialist aggressor troops, who are engrossed in incessant provocative acts on the ground and the sea and in the air, of late brought a mother spy ship near Yunpyung Island in the West (Yellow) Sea," it said, "and, around dawn of June 22, perpetrated brigandish provocative acts by dispatching again a spy ship near Boopo port."

"Patrol boats of the navy of our People's Army instantly opened a counterfire, sinking the enemy spy ship and sending the spy group aboard the ship to the bottom of the sea to the last man."

Soldier Hit On Head While Playing Golf

A Ft. Carson soldier suffered a concussion Saturday when he was struck on the head with a golf ball while playing at Patty Jewett Municipal Golf Course.

James Patrick Gaffey, of 3915 Mariposa Ave., was treated at Ent Air Force Base dispensary for a scalp cut then transferred to the Ft. Carson hospital when it was determined he had suffered the concussion.

Gaffey was a member of a foursome playing on the ninth fairway at the time he was struck. His companions were identified by Policeman L. L. Huscher as James Scott Lofland and William Theodore McNelly, both of the Fifth Administration Co., Division of Finance, and Robert John Luxen of 110 N. Bonfoy Ave.

The three companions said they heard another golfer teeing off on the sixth hole yell "fore" and they covered themselves but Gaffey apparently didn't hear.

Tremors Harm Venice, Italy

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Earth tremors shook Venice Saturday and sent hundreds to their boats on the lagoon to get away from falling masonry. A number of old buildings were damaged.

Two tremors hit the canal city in quick succession. No one was reported injured.

Buildings swayed especially in the San Guiseppe-Castello quarter, probably the poorest in the city. Many roofs and chimneys were damaged. Hundreds of women, men and children fled on gondolas and other boats.

MEDICAL MIRACLE — Tiny Tina Gracia, 5, of Commerce City, Colo., squeals with delight as she cuddles one of her stuffed toys. Tina's left arm was severed in a car-train accident three years ago. The arm found lying alongside the railroad tracks was rushed to the hospital with the injured child. Surgeons at the University of Colorado Medical Center in Denver performed a five-hour operation to reimplant the arm. Tina uses the arm actively today even though it is smaller than her right arm. Policeman, Negro Youth Injured in Denver Gunfire

DENVER (UPI) —A Negro youth and a Denver policeman were wounded Saturday in a predawn exchange of gunfire at a northeast Denver shopping center.

The injured patrolman, Robert A. Moravek, was treated for a grazing head wound at Mercy Hospital and released. Police said Nathan E. Jones, 19, of Denver also was wounded in the exchange of gunfire.

Jones was taken to Denver General Hospital in serious condition with stomach and chest wounds.

Also shot in northeast Denver last night was Eric Franklin, 19, of Denver. He was released from Colorado General Hospital after treatment for a bullet wound in the leg. It was not known how he was shot.

The incident began when officers were called to a shopping center shortly after midnight to quell a disturbance.

Police said Moravek and his partner, Patrolman Arthur M. Hutchinson, called Jones over to the patrol car when they saw a pistol in his belt. Police said he drew the gun and the exchange of gunfire ensued.

A crowd estimated at about 200 persons gathered at the scene throwing rocks and bricks and at one point police were required to use tear gas to disperse it.

Police Chief George Seaton said the crowd was hostile.

"They kept getting worse and worse and worse until we had to use the gas," Seaton said. He said the crowd had later moved down along Welton Street between 24th and 27th Streets throwing missiles at motorists. The crowd quieted down by 5 a.m.

Seaton denied charges that Jones was carrying a toy gun. He said part of a bullet was found in the back seat of the patrol car and two witnesses said they saw the flash and heard the report.

"This has been a normal thing for two or three weeks," Seaton said. "Some of these people are militants and they have been dealing in weapons."

He said he believed if police had been able to check the members of the crowd they would have been able to find 200 weapons.

Reds Step Up Pressure On Saigon's Perimeter

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands of U.S. troops have been pulled in from the countryside to defend the perimeter of Saigon against increasing enemy pressure, U.S. military sources disclosed Saturday.

The redeployment is a countermeasure designed to cut off infiltration routes and ground assaults and to deter enemy gunners who have terrorized the capital and its three million people with rocket and mortar fire since May 5.

The troop shift indicates that the U.S. Command takes a serious view of the threat to Saigon and illustrates the changed fortune of the South Vietnamese capital this year.

Except for occasional terror bombings and shellings, Saigon had existed for years relatively untouched by the battles that surged through the rest of South Vietnam. But with the Tet offensive early this year, the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese brought the war to the heart of Saigon—a band of guerrillas even managed to invade the U.S. Embassy.

The enemy's "peace talks" offensive that began May 5 brought more street fighting and more shelling of Saigon and its outlying areas. Senior U.S. officers believe the enemy is attacking Saigon to demoralize its people and to strengthen Hanoi's hand in the Paris peace talks.

It was not disclosed how many U.S. troops were involved in the newest response to enemy

Profs Find Money Plays Vital Convention Roles

PRINCETON, N.J., (AP) — Money plays a significant role in shaping the national political conventions of both Republicans and Democrats, two studies of the nominating process reported Saturday.

The studies, sponsored by the Citizens' Research Foundation, were made by John F. Bibby, assistant professor of political science, University of Wisconsin; Kevin L. McKeough, assistant professor of political science, Loyola University, Chicago; and Herbert E. Alexander, the foundation's director.

"The delegates to national nominating conventions are, in the main, upper-income people who can personally afford the high costs of nation-level politics," Bibby and McKeough concluded in their study, "The Cost of Political Participation."

While they said that "money is a determinant of who can participate in this phase of the presidential nomination process," they added:

"It is impossible and it would be imprudent to conclude that the relationship between money and convention participation re-

Corruption in Vietnam Charged by Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee reported Saturday that South Vietnamese refugees are "the victims of rampant inconceivable corruption." And it said U.S. and Saigon authorities are not doing enough to correct the situation.

It says refugees are victimized "both in the siphoning off of commodities and in the stealing of meager assistance and resettlement aid."

The report of the Senate Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on refugees estimates the number of South Vietnamese uprooted by the war at more than three million and perhaps closer to four million.

Its findings and recommendations are based on extensive hearings here and on an investigative trip to South Vietnam last January by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the chairman, and staff aides.

The subcommittee says that over the last three years the United States has contributed approximately $100 million for refugee relief and adds:

"There is general knowledge among U.S. officials both in Vietnam and Washington that the program has been crippled by rampant corruption and thievery.

"In staff interviews with the Indian Firefighters Sent Into California Firestorm

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Highly trained Indian suppression crews were flown in Saturday to join the fight against wind-whipped California brush fires sweeping across thousands of acres in rough mountain country.

Two large fires raged in Southern California's Angeles National Forest, where five firemen were injured Friday. A third blaze roared onward in Los Padres National Forest of west-central California.

All were out of control.

Some outbuildings have been burned, but no communities or country homes have been threatened thus far, forest officials said.

More than 250 Indians, airborne from Arizona and New Mexico, were rushed to the biggest of the Southern California fires, which has blackened more than 28,000 acres in the Liebre Mountain district, a valuable watershed 50 miles northwest of Los Angeles. This blaze briefly closed U.S. 99, main highway linking Los Angeles and Bakersfield, near Castaic.

Twenty miles away, near Bouquet Canyon Reservoir, the burned area apparently had been stabilized at about 3,500 acres by 450 firefighters.

The central California fire in Los Padres forest grew steadily to 2,100 acres after an overnight flurry. This blaze started Thursday in grasslands 17 miles southwest of King City. Half of the 950 men fighting it were drawn from the Army's Ft. Ord and Hunter Liggett Military Reservation.

Crews in the Liebre Mountain area said ashes swirled about them "so thick it's like driving through snow." It was here that five men were injured. One, Fire Capt. Phillip Goodel, 45, of Lake Hughes remained in critical condition from burns over 32 per cent of his body.

Winds ranging from 28 to 30 miles per hour were blowing in the Liebre Mountain area. Forest service spokesmen said temperatures remained near 100 degrees during Friday night.

Riot-Tired France May Seek Stability in Vote

By HARVEY HUDSON
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — In a switch from the ferment of social revolution that gripped the nation as little as two weeks ago, France is expected to show political stability in the election of a new National Assembly Sunday.

Excesses in the student revolt, street fighting and far left appeals for razing of the old social order jarred the essentially conservative French people.

Strikes by from eight to ten milion workers and leftist demonstrations that shook President Charles de Gaulle's 10-year-old regime led to fears of a popular front takeover.

Public opinion polls indicate the reaction has been to stabilize political positions. The polls have shown a shift of only 1 to 2 per cent, mostly within closely allied political groupings.

De Gaulle is not directly involved and has taken no official part in the lackluster two-week campaign. But the personality and prestige of the 77-year-old general have been dominant issues.

De Gaulle has warned that "everything will be lost" unless his followers get a big majority in the new assembly. He spotted the danger as coming from "totalitarian communism" and Gaullist candidates have been playing up this theme.

The Communists, with a loyal electorate that consistently captures about 22 per cent of the total vote, are fighting the "personal power" of De Gaulle. The Federation of the Democratic and Socialist Left and the small Unified Socialist party echo the charge that the Gaullist government must be thrown out because it failed to foresee and was unable to deal with the unrest among students and workers.

The election will be held in two rounds. In the first vote Sunday, any candidate getting a majority is immediately elected. Where no one gets a majority, a second ballot will be held June 30, and the high man on the list will then be the winner.

Third American Arrested by Russian Police

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet police have arrested a third American in the southern city of Tashkent on charges of smuggling Hashish, the U.S. Embassy said Saturday.

An embassy spokesman identified him as Frederick Abney, 24, and said he was arrested June 9. Abney was born in Milwaukee, Wis., the spokesman said, but his closest relative is his brother, Albert, of Newbury Park, Calif.

Two other Americans, a Britain, three Swedes and a Canadian are known to be in Soviet custody in Tashkent, held on similar charges.

Formal smuggling charges have been filed against Dale Reed Warren, 32, of Oakland, Calif. The other American held, but not yet charged, is Pedro Generalao, 28, of Somerton, Ariz.

Under Soviet law a drug smuggling conviction carries a penalty of up to 20 years in prison.

Class of 1923 Sets Reunion For Saturday

The Colorado Springs High School Class of 1923 will hold its 45th reunion Saturday, marking the occasion with a luncheon at the Antlers Plaza. The luncheon will be held starting at 1 p.m. in the Douglas Room.

The Class of 1923 was the largest one to graduate from the old High School up to that time, there being 262 graduates. The class also enjoyed the distinction of being the first group to use the then newly constructed Municipal Auditorium for its graduating exercises.

Sponsors of the class were Miss Lillian Bateman, of Colorado Springs, and the late Edward E. Hedblom. It is anticipated that a number of members from out of the city will attend. Reservations should be made, not later than June 26, with Mrs. Grace Hendricks Rose, 114 No Sheridan, telephone 473-8382.

Carson Officer Hopes to Be a Combat Artist

"My parents always encouraged me and came up with interesting, original and artistic ideas for projects," said 2d Lt. David L. Brown of Ft. Carson's 1st Battalion, 29th Artillery, a potential combat artist.

He was explaining the motivation which caused him to aim at a career in art. It probably started when he was 10 and won first place and $10 for his class in grade school in a city-wide window-painting contest at Hallowe'en. That was back in his home town of Quincy, Ill. and the lieutenant was in the fifth grade.

After high school, where he maintained his interest in drawing and painting, he was a student at Culver-Stockton College, Canton, Mo., majoring in art before he entered the Army.

That was April 11, 1966, and after basic at Ft. Leonard Wood and an enlisted assignment working with missile systems at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., Lt. Brown took officers' training at Ft. Sill, Okla.

During this period he took first at Ft. Sill in the graphics section of an Army art contest.

Carson duty has been his first assignment as an officer, and the lieutenant has been taking instruction in art history at the University of Colorado center here. He has orders to Vietnam in August.

He has applied for a combat artist assignment there, but doesn't expect to learn what he will be doing in Vietnam before he leaves the U.S. Pen and ink and charcoal pencil are his favorite media—preferences appropriate to a combat artist.

Brown will complete his Army service in August 1969. He plans to take his bachelor's degree here, and to work toward a master's degree at the University of Colorado in Boulder.

Long-range plans include a career in teaching and illustrating (he once worked as an advertising illustrator for Sears in Quincy) and a permanent home in the mountains. Interested in architecture and design, the young officer has drawn plans for the mountain cabin he hopes to build on mountain land already purchased.

Permission to Graze Idle Land Is Allowed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Farmers in 13 drought stricken counties in parts of North Dakota, Oregon, Montana and Colorado have been given permission to use livestock forage from lands idled under federal farm control programs.

Lands idled under the programs normally cannot be used to feed livestocks. But in emergencies the agriculture department has authority to allow haying or grazing on such lands.

The department announced haying and grazing permission for farmers in Crowley and Elbert counties in Colorado.

Thieves Make Off With Auto Licenses

Thieves went to a great deal of trouble Friday night to steal two sets of license plates.

The license plates, which are valued at $2, were stolen from the home of Charles Munson, 568 Dexter Drive, after the thieves removed the screen from a window and forcibly entered the home.

The stolen license plates are JZ-6619 and KE-9597.

Students From 23 Countries Coming Here

A touring group of 40 American Field Service students from 23 countries will stop over here Tuesday.

The group has spent a year as members of families and as students of local high schools in communities cross the country.

Activities planned for the youth group includes a get-acquainted party, sightseeing, activities at the White House Ranch and an evening at the Jaycee Chuck Wagon. Some 37 families are hosting the students during their three-day stay here.

Handling local arrangements are Linda Armstrong and Carole Woolley. Hosting the students are the following from Palmer High School: Karen Reimer, Peggy Carroll, Jane Lawrence, Angel Smith, Janie Wahler, Carla Crawford, Georgia Moen, Becky Litchfield, Bernie Jarequi, Marsha Robertson, Nancy Yannias, Diane McCormack, Deana Ferguson, Pat Musick, Linda Gemmil, Pam Little, Kris Lesiw, Jan Martin, Steve Hile, Manning George, Carl Cameron, Mike Burroughs, Fred Drum, Wayne Dugan, Dan Dwyer, Loren Wright, Ann Geddes, Gary Custer, Doug Kennedy, Mike Armstrong, Tom Perkins, Steve Matthieson, Rik Jonson, Sid Johnson, and Steve Christopher.

The American Field Service is a privately-sponsored, nonprofit organization "for the promotion of understanding between people." It tries to attain this objective, its originators say, through an international scholarship program where selected U.S. and overseas students, 16-18 years old, are given personal educational involvement in the community life of another country.

About 4,300 scholarships are awarded annually, since the inception of the program in 1947. More than 28,000 students from 78 countries have come to the U.S. for a school year and more than 14,000 U.S. students have lived in 52 countries.

Drops Dead While Waiting At Stop Light

A 72-year-old man died of an apparent heart attack Friday while he and his wife were waiting for a traffic light to change at the intersection of Pikes Peak Avenue and Union Boulevard.

Walter Guy Chance, 1912 Eastlake Drive, was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Francis Hospital where he was taken by E & E Ambulance. He failed to respond to oxygen administered him by the ambulance crew.

The widow, Mrs. Grace Margaret Chance, told officers she was driving her husband home and had stopped at the traffic light when he suddenly said he was sick and slumped over. She pulled into a service station drive and summoned help.

Mrs. Chance said her husband suffered a heart attack about 11 months ago but recovered. She said he complained of not feeling too well on Monday but had been feeling well Friday until he suffered the fatal attack.

Armed Forces News

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON (Special to Gazette Telegraph) Charity organizations continuing their annual drive for funds among Federal employes must now be active participants in the Equal Opportunity program. These organizations will have to eliminate racial bars in every respect. While there is no word on how this new program will affect military posts there is no doubt but that the same rule will apply to the Armed Services.

The drive on the part of members of the Senate and the House to increase mail from voters, both affirmatively and negatively, on pending bills, has started a faint reaction from military retirees and Civil Service retired employes at the local or state election level.

Some candidates are being asked for specific positions on measures that concern these two groups of Federal retirees. As the word concerning this initial effort gets around it is expected that the action on the part of both categories of retirees will increase.

There is no question but what the 1969 session of Congress will initiate action to liberalize the benefits for the Federal Civil Service retirees, with excellent chances that the move will include Civil Service retirement for the National Guard technicians.

The chances that the Hubbell pay and retirement program will even get a hearing are very dim. More and more the various groups speaking for military retirees are expressing doubts about the program. More and more members of Congress are expressing doubts about the desirability of the Hubbell program as it now stands.

With a new leadership in the making, for the Armed Services Committee of the Senate, the Defense Department may have to prepare a new program which would include definite provisions for handling of Reserve non-active duty retirement, especially the costs for these retirements.

At this time the major changes readily concernable in the Hubbell program is that it would increase the Federal and State income taxes for the man in uniform.

The 1968 West Coast meeting of the Naval Reserve Association is scheduled for June 29 at Seattle, Washington.

One of the new legal headaches for the Defense Department has to do with the recently enacted anti-crime act with respect to its relationship to military law. This is now under study by uniformed JAG's.

Look to see an intensive drive in next session of Congress to give dental care for dependents of active duty personnel.

ROAD RUNNERS GET DECALS — Second Lt. Bernie Ploshay affixes a Plymouth Road Runner decal to the helmet of Sgt. Johnnie Bimbo while Wilfred Perkins of Perkins Motor Co. and Pfc. Willie Price look on. The platoon of which they are members were nicknamed the Road Runners by its commanding officer for its ability to negotiate rough terrain in a short period. Perkins presented the decals to the platoon to place on helmets and equipment to further identify the Road Runners when they are deployed overseas in the near future.

Piccadilly Circus To Be Streamlined

LONDON (AP) — Piccadilly Circus, London's tourist and night life center with a naked statue of the god of love in the middle, will be streamlined with underground traffic, new buildings and hotels, the Greater London Council announced Thursday.

The plan to give the downtown traffic circle a new look will keep the present bright lights and the famed statue of Eros—a winged figure with a bow and arrow.

The work will begin, the council said, in about three years. The bright lights attract countless visitors, and the base of the statue in the past few years had become a hangout for London's hippies.

DOCTORS ILL

LONDON (AP) —Fifteen doctors were taken ill and rushed to a hospital Wednesday with suspected food poisoning after a cold lunch at London headquarters of the British Medical Association—BMA.

The doctors had eaten chicken and ham salad in the BMA dining room and later collapsed with stomach pains and vomiting. They had been attending a conference.

MILITARY TAXICABS

In 1914, Gen. Gallieni organized the famous 'taxicab army" of Paris to move troops from that city to the Marne River to halt the Germans at the first battle of the Marne.

PAY

NEW YORK (AP) — Tow truck operators will have to pay for their protest—a traffic-snarling demonstration near City Hall Thursday.

The turckers double-parked 32 tow trucks, linked by tow chains, for four hours on the Broadway side of City Hall. Each driver was issued a summons for double parking and, in some cases, an addition citation was made for blocking pedestrian crossings.

The truckers demonstrated in support of legislation to raise towing rates, but in protest of making towing service subject to sales tax.

Hubert Asks 'New Morality'

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey spoke Friday of a "new morality" that calls for an easing of tensions both at home and abroad.

And Humphrey expressed hope that, "given a change in the international atmosphere," he would be able to discuss with "some future Chinese leader" a reduction of tensions.

Humphrey, in a speech prepared for a fund raising dinner of the Minnesota Democratic Farmer Labor party, said that "we have to get down to the hard work-right now with the Soviet Union, and in the future with Communist China—or reducing the tensions that increasingly take our resources for the wrong things."

The vice president returned to the campaign trail Friday for the first time since the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy.

BY JOHN FETLER

THE NEWS MEDIA: A JOURNALIST LOOKS AT HIS PROFESSION—BY JOHN HOHENBERG—HOLT, RINEHART AND WINSTON—$6.95—Working newspapermen are not, as a rule, given to philosophizing about their craft, or "profession," as it is sometimes called euphemistically, perhaps for the simple reason that they are immersed in the daily work of "putting out the product" and do not have an excessive amount of time for introverted reflection.

But once in a while a professor will try to communicate his cogitations to the general public—and hopefully, to a few of his students, if not to the working press.

Hohenberg is a professor at Columbia University, and he has been a newsman since 1923, and it is perhaps because of his Columbia association (though we have no way of really knowing) that he proposes what may be a new approach to journalism which actually is not new itself, but is as old as any party press in the world, and is subject to criticism in turn.

The professor uses the term newsmedia for radio, television, news services and news magazines, but he focuses mainly on newspapers, and although he mostly summarizes various opinions about newspapers, he seems to have a highly critical approach which may, at least in part, explain why over ninety per cent of Columbia journalism graduates do not go into the newspaper field.

He repeats the by now old and well-worn charges that advertisers influence news columns on some newspapers, that most editorial pages have little influence, that only superficial coverages is provided in many departments such as real estate (which, by the way, is business and advertising) women, (who are very much interested in reading the ads) business (which is business) travel (which is an industry) and education.

He further repeats the charges that, for instance "herd" coverage is sometimes overdone and may affect such things as race riots, as in the case of Detroit, where, it was charged, news reports fed the flames of rioting.

As Victor Hackler of the AP pointed out, however, in a review of Hohenberg's book, the professor also points out in all cases that there "are shining examples of good coverage, honest and courageous publishers, and reasons why some things are done."

As Hackler quotes Hohenberg: "Without doubt there are serious risks to the continued coverage of civil rights disturbances by the news media without major limitations: yet, these risks are unavoidable in a democratic society that is committed to the principle of a free press."

But then Hohenberg apparently proceeds to try to reduce these risks, and perhaps in the process to demolish the freedom of the press, for if one looks a bit closer at the argument, then it should become evident that without risks there can risks are inherent in a free press, and a free press remains so depending only on whether the risks are assumed as part of the responsibility of freedom or not.

Hohenberg seems to propose "self - regulation," but he seems to tie this with "public service." This, in turn, he seems to tie with his advice to newsmen to abandon the roles of the detached observer and the soulless representative of a prosperous business, and by that he seems to fall through the trap-door of political sophistry as it affects journalism, as he says: "If he (the journalist) is to continue to merit constitutional protection for his work, his best resource is to concentrate on the practice of journalism as a public service. Merely saying that the public interest comes first in journalism does not make it so. A greater emulation of the deeds of the substantial journalistic minority who recognize their public obligation is called for from the rank and file of the news media." And here, Hohenberg is on slippery ground, no matter how good his intention, for it has to do with the essence of the freedom of the press.

Nobody would quarrel with him, of course, that newsmen should be responsible. But—

Responsibility is a product (or byproduct) of the freedom of the press, not the other way around. At first glance this may sound specious, but if one insists that the press be first of all a public service, then one already shackles the press, and the press is not free.

Actually, the term "public service" is misleading. What a newspaper actually does is to provide as objective a report of news as it can obtain for the benefit of each individual reader—not just for a mythical "public service." The service which a newspaper provides is for the individual, reader, not for any anonymous mass. But in order to do this (and the Founding Fathers saw this very clearly) those who gather the news and report about it must be unhampered, must be entirely free from any preconceived notions about the nature of the work which they are doing. For, the moment the notion of the nature of the press is preconceived, then it becomes a tool of one ideology or another; for no two people will agree on just what the "public service" really is.

As a matter of fact, the communist countries have shackled the press with just the "public service" argument which Hohenberg proposes. This is not to mean that Hohenberg's proposal is communist; far from it, we are not at all acquainted with his politics, if he has any, but both fascist and communist governments, that is, all extremists, have used the argument of "public service" in order to shackle the press, in order to force it to do the kind of work which they determine is "public service," and which, of course, inevitably, means the kind of public service which does them, the rulers, the most good—and extinguish any dissent whatever, ending all objective reporting.

In the final analysis, the responsibility of "the press" but the responsibility of each individual newspaperman and editor and publisher. It is a personal thing, and cannoto be divorced, for instance, from the person's character, morality, or conception of ethics—and freedom to act in his best judgment. This is what the men who founded the American press fought for, and this is what has kept the American press much freer than the press of other nations, despite all the faults that have accrued throughout the years. The faults that have accrued through the years could in all likelihood be traced to an erosion of personal responsibility, and to the shifting of the burden on a mythical "public service."

The conundrum is resolved by the perhaps repetitious statement that the more responsibility a newspaperman has, the more responsible he will be if, of course, he is capable of responsibility in the first place. If he is willing to abdicate his responsibility, to a group, or to a myth, or ideology, then, of course one cannot expect him to exercise his objectivity in his news gathering or reporting, for then he becomes a "public relations" man for whatever group of interest he works for, be it political or any other kind.

So that the freedom of the press, as the Founding Fathers saw it, is entirely an individual matter, as protected by the Constitution, but if this guaranty is voided, on any grounds, then in all likelihood the freedom of the press to report objectively will be a thing of the past, and the press will be changed into a "party press."

CRISIS IN THE COURTS—BY HOWARD JAMES MCKAY — $5.50 — Because "justice is a sometime thing for most" who never go to court, few people really know how justice is dispensed in the United States.

But even a casual look at Jame's breezy but well-documented account of contemporary American justice is sufficiently convincing that the courts are not as sacrosanct as judges and lawyers would have others believe.

The book is based on Jame's Pulitzer Prize-winning, 13-part series of the same name that appeared in the Christian Science Monitor. It leans heavily on the 1967 report of the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice.

James starts by making the judges, detailing how many courts are run by the hacks, retirees, failures, misfits, inexperienced, prejudiced, lazy, weak and the inattentive: "In Miami, Fla., Judge T . . .leaned back in his chair with his eyes closed, his arms up behind his head, as he tried two men for running a bookie joint. A few minutes later he admitted in open court that he 'wasn't paying attention' to some of the evidence. Both men were sentenced to a year in jail."

James also examines:

—Lengthy delays in getting cases to trial: "If you are arrested on a hot summer day in Cleveland on a serious charge and can't make bail, you may still be in jail awaiting your day in court when Christmas rolls around. Even if you are innocent."

—The problems of juvenile delinquents, youngsters and the divorce courts: "Most states pay little attention to the rights of children. As one lawyer told me: 'The courts simply act as a butcher, hacking the marriage to pieces.'"

—How the legal game is played by lawyers and judges who "have led us to believe the courts belong to them — not to the people."

James also examines the prosecutors, lack of qualified legal help for the poor, a corrections system that does little to correct, witnesses who lie and the jury system.

If there is any central theme in this book, it is: the courts won't change until the American people force them to change—the judges and the lawyers either prefer, or simply don't want to change, the present system.

Food Heads List, Cars Next in Sales in County

In El Paso County, consumer spending for food, clothing, furniture and other goods was at a high level in the past year, according to a new report on retail store activity in the local area and elsewhere.

With most families enjoying better incomes than before, they were in a position to spend more freely and they did so but without going all out.

With the war going on and with infaltion and higher taxes facing them, they chose to put a considerable amount into savings.

The manner in which local residents and those in other areas spent their retail dollar in the year is brought out in a nationwide market study, just released by the Standard Rate and Data Service.

It shows that, in El Paso County, a large part of the consumer dollar was spent in stores selling food and automotive equipment. Between them, they accounted for 40 percent of all local retail business.

Food expenditures alone, in bakeries, meat markets, delicatessens, supermarkets and the like totaled $52,766,000, an increase over the previous year's $52,070,000.

This sum, which represented 21 percent of all retail business locally, was solely for food purchased for home consumption. It is exclusive of money spent in restaurants and in other eating and drinking places.

Just how mucn the take-home food purchases averaged, on a per family basis, was determined by apportioning the total outlay equally among the local population. It came to $934 per family.

As for stores selling automotive equipment, including cars, motorcycles and boats, they accounted for $45,727,000.

Most other retail lines also hit high figures for the year, the report shows.

Those selling general merchandise chalked up a total of $27,240,000.

Shops selling coats, suits, shoes and other apparel had a gross of $15,016,000.

Stores carrying furniture and other home furnishings reported a volume of $15,122,000.

Story Hours Scheduled For Children

The vacation reading program which has been customary for the past 10 years by the Pikes Peak Regional Library District will be discontinued this summer because of the move into the new Penrose Public Library.

During the summer months, the story hours for children will be run as follows:

—Penrose Library, 10:15 to 11:15 a.m., Thursdays, July 25-Aug. 15.

—West Side Branch, 9:30 to 10:30 a.m., Thursdays, now through July 25.

—Palmer Lake, 10 to 11 a.m., Wednesdays, now through July 31.

—VZR Branch, 2:30 to 3 p.m., Tuesdays, July 2 and 16, younger children; 2:30 to 3 p.m., Wednesdays, July 9 and 23, older children.

—Extension: Bookmobile, 604 S. El Paso St., 3:15 to 4:15 p.m., Tuesdays, July 23 and 30.

—Midland, 10 to 11 a.m., alternate Fridays, July 26, Aug. 9 and 23.

—Esperanza, 12:30 to 1:30 p.m., Fridays, July 19 through Aug. 23.

—N.E. Action Center, 2 to 3 p.m., Thursdays, July 18 through Aug. 22.

As Bookmobile stops in county the librarian will read to the children as size of group permits.

FEDERAL TAX TIPS

By AUGUST W. EICKMEYER
Colorado Springs Representative of the District Director Internal Revenue Service

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I planted some flowering shrubs around my house this spring. Can I treat this landscaping cost as a capital investment for tax purposes?

A—Yes, expenditures for landscaping can be added to the cost of your property. However, this would not include normal maintenance and care of the shrubs and lawn.

Q—My daughter opened her first bank account and was asked for her social security number. How can she get one; she's only 13?

A—A person can obtain a social security number regardless of age by filling out Form SS-5 available at local Social Security of IRS offices. Banks and other savings institutions are required by law to identify annual interest payments of $10 or more by the social security number of the recipient.

If the refund doesn't come within ten weeks from the time you filed, write the regional service center. Give your name, social sceurity number and the date you filed to help them trace it.

A—I'm making a gift of stock to my grandchildren. Will I have to pay a gift tax or will they?

A—Federal gift tax is imposed on the giver not the receiver. This section of the law does not apply unless a gift of more than $3,000 ($6,000 if your wife joins in making the gift) is made to any one person during a calendar year. Even then each giver has a $30,000 lifetime exemption to use up before the gift tax applies.

A—Somehow I mislaid my supply of tax deposit forms. How do I go about getting more?

A—Write to your regional service center and give your business name, address and employer identification number. In your letter indicate the type of tax, the tax period and the number of Federal Tax Deposit Forms you need.

Q—I received a refund for a 1967 state income tax I had deducted on my federal tax return. Do I need to file an amended return?

A—No, the refund should be reported on your 1968 return under miscellaneous income.

Q—I just got a letter asking me to send in my records on medical and contributions expenses. What records should I send?

A—Send copies of cancelled checks, paid bills and similar records that indicate the nature of the expense and the date paid to substantiate your expenses. To avoid loss of your original records send copies of these documents.

Humphrey Speaks In Denver Tuesday

By MIKE NOLAN

DENVER UPI —Vice President Hubert E. Humphrey, frontrunner for the Democratic presidential nomination, will be in Denver next Wednesday to give the keynote address to a meeting of the Education Commission of the States.

The vice president will speak at a 7:30 p.m. Wednesday dinner meeting of the commission.

The commission said Humphrey's speech would be both "major and non-political."

Argument Leads to Leg Slash

A 17-year-old youth may have convinced a friend he was driving the better car early Saturday but he suffered a seven-inch gash in his left leg in return.

The youth was taken to Memorial Hospital by two companions where the leg was sewn up. He was released after explaining to Police Officers G. H. Mills and Harry W. Killa how it happened.

He said he and a good friend of his, both accompanied by other friends, got into a discussion over the relative merits of the two cars they were driving while they were parked in the 900 block of North Pine Street about 1 a.m.

When nothing was decided with words, the youth and his friend then decided they'd have a "fair fight" between themselves, with no outside help, to resolve the matter.

They squared off and proceeded with the fair fight until a third person stepped in. That stopped proceedings momentarily until the ground rules were again laid down and the two resumed their fight without help.

The slash victim said he won the fight and drove away with his companions then began to feel sharp pains in his leg and saw he had been cut. He drove to the hospital where doctors said the wound was 2½ inches deep.

None of the several individuals at the scene who were interviewed by police, including the victim, recalled seeing any weapons used although the examining doctor reported finding numerous scratches about the cut youth's leg and back indicating he'd also suffered some near misses.

No prosecution statements were signed immediately.

Colorado Guard Ends Training Today at Carson

More than 2,700 Colorado Army National Guardsmen will return to civilian life today at the close of their 15-day annual field training.

The two-week summer camp was held for the third straight year at Camp Red Devil, a Ft. Carson training area about 20 miles south of Colorado Springs on State Highway 115.

It featured the usual training in artillery firing and support missions and the traditional visits from dignitaries, incuding Colorado Gov. John A. Love.

There also was something out of the ordinary — a little unscheduled experience in fighting a range fire.

Some 200 Guardsmen joined 500 troops from Ft. Carson June 13 in battling fires that swept two mountainsides within sight of the Camp Red Devil headquarters.

The fires were indicative of the generally dry conditions that have plagued the training area during the last month. The largest of the two blazes was on Wild Mountain, just acorss Red Creek from the camp's ranch house headquarters.

Gov. Love was to visit the national guardsmen Friday afternoon, primarily to speak at graduation ceremonies for 31 seniors of the Army and Air Guard who successfully completed their 13-month training in the state's officer candidate school.

Maj. Gen. Joe C. Moffitt, Colorado adjutant general, visited the camp several times, late in the first week and again in the second week.

Maj. Gen. Rolland M. Gleszer, commanding general of Ft. Carson, also was a frequent visitor to the Guard's field headquarters. Commanding general of the Colorado Army National Guard is Brig. Gen. Milton Ehrlich.

Most of the Guardsmen spent the entire two weeks — except for a short weekend break — camped in tents on the dusty and sprawling ranges of Camp Red Devil.

The two companies making up the Guard's 193rd MP Battalion, however, alternated between Denver and the Ft. Carson main post. The more than 300 members of the five-month-old unit trained with the 5th Division Military Police, and spent some time performing guard duty on the gates to the Army base.

Another 100 Guardsmen, members of the new "Green Beret" unit, Company H of the 19th Special Forces, spent three weeks beginning June 2 taking Airborne training at Ft. Benning, Ga.

The main thrust of training for most of the Colorado Guardsmen came on Wednesday and Thursday of the second week, when the two howitzer battalions practiced firing their big self-propelled guns.

On Thursday there also was field communications demonstration for visitors put on by another big Guard unit, the 140th Signal Battalion.

The Colorado Guard also includes medical companies, a maintenance company, a band, state headquarters detachment and other units.

The 28 Guard units, from 22 Colorado cities and towns, will return to their home stations by military convoy.

Evans Seeks Third Term As 3rd Dist. Congressman

REP. FRANK EVANS

By GLENN URBAN
Gazette Telegraph
Political Reporter

Rep. Frank Evans, Democrat, Saturday announced he is a candidate for reelection and at the same time thanked local Democrats for the support they have given him.

This puts Evans against Republican Paul Bradley, who announced earlier this year. Bradley will be the third Republican Evans has faced.

He wrested the seat away from J. Edgar Chenoweth, who was seeking his 12th term in office in 1964, and in 1966 defeated former District Court Judge David Enoch, who had bested Chenoweth in the GOP primary.

Neither Enoch nor Chenoweth chose to seek their party's nomination this year. Bradley is a state senator who so far as is known will have no opposition in the GOP primary — his earlier potential rivals having decided not to challenge him.

Evans had a tough battle in 1964 to get the Democratic nomination. Local attorney and former El Paso County commissioner, Hugh Ross, and Evans, then a member of the Colorado House, were each trying for the nomination.

Evans won a surprising victory in the district assembly with such a show of strength that Ross didn't even get on the party primary ballot.

Subsequently, Henry John Olshaw of Rye petitioned onto the ballot, and was swamped in the primary. Again in 1966 Olshaw petitioned onto the ballot and again he was swamped by Evans, this time he was more badly beaten than in 1964.

Olshaw has threatened to be a candidate this year, and so Evans may again face a primary challenge.

In making his announcement, Evans noted the progress that he has seen in the time he has been in Congress and further recognized there still are challenges.

Two of the main challenges he sees in the future are:

—"The crisis in our major cities."

—"The ever increasing rawness of nerves in the relationship between the races in this country."

Before a crowd of Democrats and the press at a Holiday Inn press conference, Evans said: "I am impressed more than ever before that the man who holds this office holds it in trust not only for those who support him, but for those who live in the district."

"I want to make it perfectly clear that while I am a Democrat, I have attempted to serve this district and all of the people in it. I have tried to take the services of this office to all of the people in it regardless of their political affiliations, race, creed or color."

The congressman said that his experiences in Congress have "had personally more meaning in my life than anything else I have ever done."

He said that this 3d Congressional district "is comparable to most of the districts in the nation."

Looking back at his three and one-half years of service, Evans said that he has seen dramatic changes, and listed these:

1. Medical care for the elderly. 2. Homes for the aged. 3. Availability of funds in the form of loans and grants to areas that have been short of capital for the purpose of developing the areas.

"These funds have been forthcoming under the requests and under the plans of local municipalities to accomplish all kinds of things that have been most meaningful."

4. Grazing associations, 5. assistance in education, primary, secondary, college and university, 6. developed a partnership to help develop new areas of recreation, 7. helped develop additional water supplies.

"We have developed a way by which cities in this district that historically have never had a public water system or public sewer system to acquire such systems."

8. "We also have addressed ourselves to the farm problem and have secured for the farmers of this area a four-year program which although it has not done all we would want it to do has at least eliminated the uncertainty that farmers faced in the past about legislation."

These ccomplishments, the congressman said, have been achieved through a partnership with the district, the state and the federal government.

Evans added that there have been changes in the post office system, but admitted that more are needed.

Additionally, he said, "We've had Urban renewal programs and have taken areas that have been a blight in the past and turned them into better housing, and in some cases even new college campuses."

In thanking El Paso County citizens for their support, Evans said, "I will need your support in the future."

Reds Step Up Pressure in Saigon Area pressure, but it was believed that about 3,000 infantrymen were newly assigned to man the outer limits of the capital while another sizable number was deployed further out to guard approaches to the city.

A senior U.S. officer confirmed some troops had been shifted and said: "A troop redisposition is going on to get better balance. Some troops are being moved in closer to Saigon."

Informants said the troops were not taking up static positions but were carrying out sweep and patrol actions in areas near the capital.

In one such action Friday, paratroopers of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division killed 35 enemy in a fight northwest of Saigon. One American was killed and 36 were wounded in the fighting in which the paratroopers were supported by artillery, air strikes and helicopter gunships.

Government sources, said the Viet Cong is increasing the number of its divisions around Saigon from three to five with the two new divisions composed of local guerrillas and North Vietnamese regulars. The sources said prisoner interrogations and captured documents indicate the Viet Cong plans a third offensive on Saigon in July.

ITU Spending Over $5 Million On Free Press

International Typographical Union (ITU) subsidies to the Free Press passed the $5 million mark, according to figures released for April.

The April subsidy as published in the Typographical Journal was $60,000 bringing the known total since 1947 to $5,042,407.35.

Subsidies from September 1951 through September 1955 have been concealed by the union though estimates are that more than $600,000 was poured into the newspaper during that period. There are other shorter periods for which no figures are available.

Subsidies to the Free Press for the first four months of 1968 total $180,000. A total of $40,000 went to the Free Press for each of January, February and March.

The record for one year is $680,000 which the Free Press received from the ITU to maintain publication in 1966.

Driver Dies In Fire When Truck Hits Car

A Denver truck driver was burned to death early Saturday morning in an accident 21.6 miles South of Colorado Springs after the semi-truck he was driving crashed into the scene of an accident which occurred about a minute earlier.

A 1965 automobile driven by Eugene Roland Robinson Jr., 21, Ft. Carson, had been traveling north on Colorado 1 when the driver apparently fell asleep at the wheel. The vehicle traveled along the shoulder for 48 feet and crashed headon into the concrete bridge abutment.

State Patrolman Kenneth W. Shiflet reported the time of the accident at 3:45 a.m.

About a minute later, the truck driven by Rudolph Wallace, 52, Denver, came on the scene where the car was partially blocking the traffic lane. Wallace applied his brakes to avoid the previous accident, losing control of the vehicle for 190 feet.

The front right duals of the semi-trailer hit the right rear of the Robinson vehicle and the truck then careened to the left for 123 feet, crashing through the bridge railing. It then careened down through the median strip for 100 feet going into the southbound lanes for 39 feet before it rolled on its top and burst into flames.

Wallace was trapped in the vehicle and burned to death. The body was taken to Swan Funeral Home by E and E Ambulance.

Robinson suffered head injuries, cuts and bruises and was taken to Ft. Carson Hospital by E and E Ambulance. He was then air evacuated to Fitzsimmons Army Hospital in Denver.

A passenger in the Robinson vehcile, Alphonso Williams, 22, also of Ft. Carson, suffered severe head cuts, a bruised foot and broken ribs. He was taken to the Ft. Carson Hospital by E and E Ambulance.

Patrolman Shiflet was assisted at the accident scene by Sgt. Jake Abendschan, military police from Ft. Carson and the El Paso County Sheriff's office as well as the Fountain Police Department.

The Fountain Volunteer Fire Department went to the scene to extinguish the fire and to wash the gasoline from the roadway.

plywood huts, a clamor is certain to arise on Capitol Hill for their forcible removal. Several House members have served notice they will demand enactment of a law calling for immediate evacuation.

That such a confrontation is building was made clear by Abernathy at a news conference when he said the weekend will be devoted to getting the campaigners ready "for serious business on Monday."

Abernathy accepted the Indian "title" to Resurrection City from George Crow Flies High, a Mandan Indian from North Dakota. Resplendent in full Indian regalia that jarred slightly with his sun glasses, Chief Crow Flies High said the land had been stolen from the Indians by the white man but that the Indians had never relinquished title to it.

Showing concern over recent violence in Resurrection City and an apparent breakdown of discipline among demonstrators, Abernathy said he intends to purge the camp of undesirables.

Abernathy called off a round-the-clock demonstration at the Agriculture Department and said no new demonstrations would be mounted until the campaign enters its "new phase" on Monday. He declined to say in advance what the new phase would be.

Silver Certificate Redemption to End

bills for silver bullion or granules.

Dealers, who have been paying premiums ranging from two cents to 90 cents on the dollar during the nearly year-long silver certificate boom, have begun slowing their buying for fear they may not have enough time left to exchange the bills for silver. Many were lowering their premiums as the deadline draws closer.

Prices ranging from $1.55 for a $1 silver certificate Wednesday of this week scaled down to $1.45 Thursday and $1.30 Friday. Many dealers said holders were lucky to get $1.15 Saturday and maybe even less than that Sunday at the exchange houses that were scheduled to be open Sunday.

It's said that the law of supply and demand is responsible for the activity in silver. For years, the Treasury held the price of American silver at a ceiling of $1.29 an ounce although silver consumption was outstripping production. In an effort to get more silver on the market, the government purportedly began removing all silver certificates from circulation and eliminating or cutting the silver content of coins.

The $1.29 an ounce price was abandoned last July as the demand for silver continued to outstrip supply, and the price of the metal since has soared as high as $2.52 an ounce.

Dealers buying the certificates exchange them for silver which they sell at a profit to industrial users or trade on the commodities market.

When the coin shortage developed, the Treasury stepped up its production but at the time all dimes, quarters and half dollars contained 90 per cent silver. With the Treasury's silver stock dropping fast and industrial use rising, Congress approved the Coinage act of 1965 which took all silver from the dime and quarter and reduced the silver content of the half dollar to 40 per cent.

But the Treasury continued to sell silver at $1.29 an ounce to all comers until last year when a run on the metal by foreign buyers prompted the department to limit sales to domestic industry and to ban the private melting and export of silver coins.

The department later abandoned its policy of maintaining the price at $1.29 an ounce by melting the entire demand for industrial use of silver and limiting government sales to two million ounces a week at the going market price.

The Treasury continued to redeem certificates at the $1.29 an ounce ratio, a figure which prompted dealers to offer a premium for silver certificates so that they could obtain Treasury silver at that price and sell it to industry at the higher market price.

Profs Find Money Has Role At Conventions

Their study, based on interviews with 1964 delegates to the two conventions, said, "The median income of the delegates is high, with Republican delegates being slightly more well-to-do than their Democratic counterparts."

The median income of GOP delegates was $20,192, while for Democrats it was $18,223, while fewer than 15 per cent of the delegates to each convention had incomes of under $10,000.

"Clearly," Bibby and McKeough said, "those who participate in the electoral process as national convention delegates are sharply differentiated from the mass electorate by their high incomes."

More than half of the delegates, 54.6 per cent for the Democrats and 60.6 per cent of the Republicans, were party officials, while 36.8 per cent of the Democrats and 20.8 per cent of the Republicans were public officials, a reflection of the Democratic position as the nation's majority party.

Lt. Gen. Hackett Retires June 30; Parade Set Friday

A distinguished military career spanning 37 years will end June 30 for Lt. Gen. Robert Hackett, commanding general of ARADCOM, the Army Air Defense Command.

Retirement ceremonies for the general will be held at 11 a.m. Friday in Memorial Park, Pikes Peak and Hancock avenues. The public is invited.

Replacing Gen. Hackett will be Maj. Gen. George V. Underwood Jr., commanding general, U.S. Army Air Defense Center, Ft. Bliss, Tex., and commandant, U.S. Army Air Defense School.

Gen. Underwood's promotion to lieutenant general has been confirmed by the Senate and will become effective July 1.

The commanding general of ARADCOM has a dual role. He heads all Army units committed to air defense of the United States and also serves as top advisor on Army air defense matters to the commander-in-chief of NORAD, the North American Air Defense Command.

Gen. Hackett, a native of Philadelphia, graduated from the U.S. Military Academy in 1931 and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the field artillery.

His early service included assignments as battery commander of various artillery units in the U.S. and the Philippines.

Prior to World War II, he served as an instructor and assistant professor of Physics at West Point.

During World War II, Gen. Hackett served in the Far East with successive duty stations in Australia, New Guinea, and the southern Philippines.

At the close of the war he was assigned to general headquarters, U.S. Armed Forces, Pacific, in Manila and later in Tokyo.

The general was responsible for establishment of the organization charged with recovery of Americans held in Japanese prison camps and, later, for the general supervision of the program for returning American troops to the U.S.

In the post-war era, his assignments included duty in the offices of the Comptroller of the Army and the Comptroller of Defense from 1948 to 1952 and in headquarters, U.S. Army, Europe, from 1953 to 1957.

During these periods Gen. Hackett was closely associated with the various studies concerning the economic impact on member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) caused by rebuilding of their armed forces as well as with negotiations with the Federal Republic of Germany for rebuilding the West German armed forces.

From 1957 to 1959 the general served in Hawaii as commander of Division Artillery, 25th Infantry Division.

Prior to assuming the Army's senior air defense post, Gen. Hackett headed two other ARADCOM units. From 1959 to 1960, he commanded the 56th Air Defense Artillery Brigade and from mid-1960 to mid-1962 served as Commanding General, 1st Region ARADCOM, with headquarters at Fort Totten, N.Y.

Before coming to Colorado Springs in 1966, Gen. Hackett spent four years at the Pentagon. He was director of the Army Budget for a year and Comptroller of the Army for three years.

The general holds the Distinguished Service Medal, the Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf Cluster, and the Army Commendation Medal.

2 Injured in Auto Accident

Two persons suffered minor injuries early Saturday morning in a one-car accident .9 miles south of Colorado Springs on Colorado 115.

According to the state patrol, Alfonso Via, 19, 1003 W. Colorado Ave., was driving north at a high rate of speed and ran off the west side of the road shearing off a utility pole and rolling the car three and a half times.

Via was taken to St. Francis Hospital suffering from a broken arm and multiple contustions.

A passenger in the vehicle, 16-year-old Frank Amadrid, 804 Prairie Road, suffered cuts and a possible broken arm. He was also taken to St. Francis Hospital by E and E Ambulance.

Corruption in Vietnam Charged By Investigators hard-pressed American refugee personnel, it was repeatedly estimated that less than half the supplies ever reach the refugee.

"The officials of the Government of South Vietnam and the province chiefs supported by them have the keys to the warehouses, and they diverted much of the goods to their own use."

The report says also that while refugees are supposed to receive an allotment equivalent to $43 at the time of resettlement, a top U.S. adviser estimated that 75 per cent of this was being siphoned off before it reached the people.

Aside from corruption the subcommittee reports deplorable conditions in refugee camps with shortages in food and supplies, inadequate school and sanitation facilities, and an almost total lack of work.

It reports also "a greal deal of resentment toward the United States among the refugees."

"The majority of refugees interviewed claimed they were either deposited in camps by the Americans or fled to camps in fear of American airplanes and artillery," the subcommittee says.

Hospital and medical care also are reported inadequate for civilian casualties, estimated by the subcommittee to be running between 150,000 and 200,000 a year prior to the Tet offensive.

Rites Set Monday For Mrs. Irene Mykle

Graveside services for Mrs. Irene E. Smykle, who died Friday in a local nursing home, will be held 2 p.m. Monday at the Evergreen Cemetery with Rev. Wayne Williams officiating.

Mrs. Smykle, a housewife, lived at 426 Redwood St. She was born Aug. 12, 1889 in North Tonawanda, N.Y. and had lived there for 17 years.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Betty Miskho of Colorado Springs; two sisters, Mrs. Alma Luck and Mrs. Edith Well, both of North Tonawanda, and two grandsons, Michael J. Miskho of Colorado Springs and William G. Miskho, U.S. Army, Japan.

Looking at Hollywood

BY FLORABEL MUIR

Seems as if producers just won't take Tina Louise seriously. The tall, lithe and beautiful redhead has long been a member of the very serious Actors Studio and was one of the original organizers of the West Coast branch. But she made her biggest impact on Hollywood with her light and airy role in the long-running TV series, "Gilligan's Island," and the movie makers can't seem to forget it. She even flew over to Italy last year to make a film with Alberto Sordi without seeing the script and upon her agent's assurance that it was a fine acting role. It was, but it was also a wild comedy. So now, probably with a sigh of resignation that will last her all the way to the bank, she has just signed for a top role in a picture that has no pretensions to anything but straight, outright fun. She will portray the role of Jackie Gleason's girl friend in the picture in which he co-stars with Bob Hope for Paramount, "How to Commit Marriage." They should make a great couple. The 5 feet 9 Tina is about as tall as Jackie is round.

The picture has a nice deal for Bob Hope, too, who, incidentally, is recovering nicely from his second eye operation. A considerable part of the footage will be shot at the Lakeside Golf Club, which just happens to be next door to Robert's Toluca Lake home.

Lee Marvin prerecorded some of his songs for "Paint Your Wagon" before the company left for location this week and was so delighted, not to say surprised, with the results that now he wants to essay an album like his buddy Richard Harris' "A Tramp Shining," which has had an astounding success.

There are likely to be a lot of stiff necks in Wichita, Kan. after the next couple of weeks. Director John Frankenheimer and his crew have arrived there to film three weeks of sky-diving sequences for their MGM version of the James Drought novel, "The Gypsy Moths." But the local residents will have their gazes leveled out when the main cast arrives around the end of this month because it includes such top stars as Burt Lancaster, Deborah Kerr, John Phillip Law, Gene Hackman, Bill Windom and Sheree North. A lot of interest will probably also be accorded the new Broadway actress MGM is beating the drums for, Bonnie Bedelia.

If you've wondered what has become of that delightful Israeli couple, Esther and Abi Ofarim, who made so many friends during their recent fast tour of the U.S., I've just received a note from them from London saying they're there preparing a TV series. Describing it, Esther says only, "We just sing, sing, sing." That should be good enough.

Another newcomer who is getting a big buildup from her studio, 20th entury-Fox, is the stunning Jacqueline Bisset. The promotion started lightly when she was cast opposite Frank Sinatra in "The Detective," but is reaching a crescendo with her new film with Michael Sarrazin, "The Sweet Ride." It's a film about surfing and from some of the stills of Jackie I have seen apparently she thinks the sport is best done without benefit of even a bikini. Strangely, very few people in our town know or have met the luscious Miss Bisset.

Director Mike Nichols is surely too young to remember what World War II airports looked like but he says there are none left in Europe that look at all like the airports of that period. So, for his forthcoming filming of Joseph Heller's comedy, "Catch-22," Mike has been ranging far afield in his search for an airport which will be the setting for a large part of the action in the picture. He found it—in Guaymas, Mexico. And what a windfall the shooting of this logistically gigantic picture will be to this charming village which has been previously noted for its great sports fishing. The film will have a budget of over $6,000,000 and will probably do for Guaymas what the Burtons and "Night of the Iguana" did for Puerto Vallarta. It too was a sleepy little village and is now one of the preferred vacation spots of the international set.

Nancy Sinatra, who will make her major night club debut at Las Vegas' Caesars Palace in August, puts it this way: "I'm going to warm up the room for daddy." Daddy Frank will play the same spot later in the year.

French Election Campaign Closes Without Tension

PARIS (AP) — France's National Assembly election campaign, which opened in an atmosphere of death and violence two weeks ago, drew to a close Friday night without excitement or tension.

Government sources feared President Charles de Gaulle might be denied the massive support he has demanded because more than a million Frenchmen are on vacation and abstentions could be higher than usual in Sunday's first-round balloting.

Opinion polls indicated no major shift in the intentions of voters who gave the Gaullists and their allies a one-seat majority in the assembly in the March 1967 election.

Analysts did not foresee a political upheaval even though the elections follow a long convulsion of strikes and civil disorder that brought the Fifth Republic to a virtual standstill.

The campaign had been expected to be crucial for the 10-year-old regime of De Gaulle, who called on Frenchmen to rally to his side to prevent "totalitarian communism" from taking over.

Most French political commentators, however, have called it one of the most torpid campaigns in memory.

The 28.3 million French voters will choose among 2,267 candidates for 470 National Assembly seats for the homeland and 17 for overseas territories. A second round of voting June 30 will decide the winners in districts where no candidate wins a majority Sunday.

The campaign officially opened June 10, the day a 17-year-old high school student demonstrator drowned in the Seine while trying to escape pursuing police. The next day a militant striker was shot dead in a demonstration in eastern France. That night police and students fought a night-long battle across Paris.

Even so, the campaign has been unusually quiet.

Why the change?

"We are fed up with politics," explained one businessman in the Nievre Department of central France. "We have had nothing but political turmoil and political harangues since the beginning of May. We're tired of politicans and want to get back to work."

"The elections won't change anything, so why get excited," said a university student in Tours.

New York was known as New Orange from Aug. 9, 1673, when the Dutch recaptured the city from the English, until Nov. 10, 1674, when New Netherland, including the city, was ceded to England.

Innocent Pleas Are Entered Before Calvert

Eight defendants pleaded innocent in district court Friday before Judge William M. Calvert.

The first was John F. Sachse, 26, Phoenix, Ariz. who will be tried Sept. 3 for short check,

He is alleged to have written a bad check for $25.10 Feb. 9 which he gave to Safeway Supemarkets and another for $25 Dec. 22, 1967 with intent to defraud Simms Supermarket.

A second short check defendant, James F. Davidson, 27, who also is from Phoenix, Ariz., entered an innocent plea and trial was set for Sept. 3.

According to the information he wrote a $63.87 short check Dec. 21, 1967 and passed it with Montgomery Ward and Co.

Roseberry, 22, Ft. Carson is charged with breaking into the Fountain Enco Station, Fountain Crest Shopping Center, June 2.

A husband and wife, Roy Allen Sappington, 24, and Lorraine Calirta Sappington, 21, both of 806 Prairie Rd. pleaded innocent to narcotics charges.

Sappington will be tried Sept. 3 and his wife Oct. 2.

Aaron Luton Jr., 19, Ft. Carson, charged with two counts of aggravated robbery will go on trial Sept. 3.

Luton is alleged to have robbed Benjamin Lindsey and Delbert Danney Moss, both of 19 S. Corona St., June 8. The incident is said to have happened on the 100 block of South Cascade Avenue and an automatic pistol was used. Approximately $30 was taken.

In a companion case Jesse Caesar Pugh, 21, Ft. Carson, has also been charged but has not yet be arraigned.

Theft defendant Terry Lee McDonald, 23, Zanesville, Ohio, will be tried Sept. 3.

According to the information he stole a ring May 28 belonging to Inez Lilly Hail, 2331 W. Bott Ave.

The eighth defendant, Anthony Clifton Williams, 20, Ft. Carson, pleaded innocent to assault with a deadly weapon and trial was scheduled for Sept. 3.

Major Political Developments

Politics at a Glance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

These were the day's major political developments Friday:

Republicans—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller expanded his attacks on rival Richard M. Nixon, criticizing his positions on urban problems and the war on Vietnam in a Washington speech. Nixon observed a light schedule as he marked his 28th wedding anniversary.

Democrats—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey returned to the campaign trail for the first time since the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Speaking in his home state of Minnesota, Humphrey called for efforts to reduce tensions with the Soviet Union and Communist China.

American Independent—former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace—said his candidacy will be the pivotal factor in deciding who the next president will be. He said in Jackson, Miss., "If we don't win, the least we can do is decide who does win."

Cong Continue Shelling Saigon, Hit British Ship

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong shells fell on Saigon and struck a merchant ship in the Saigon River Saturday, the day that the Vietnam war became the longest war in American history. There was a lull in ground combat across the country.

The latest bombardment in the series of enemy terror barrages against the capital included seven rounds that fell harmlessly in the river on the city's southeastern side. One round hit the British ship London Statesman near Tan Thuan Bridge, causing some damage, and shrapnel from the blast killed a Vietnamese civilian in a nearby junk.

Saturday marked six years, six months and one day since the first American soldier was killed by enemy bullets in Vietnam. More than 25,000 Americans have been killed since then and the U.S. commitment has grown until there are now 535,000 U. S. servicemen in the country.

The Vietnam war has lasted one day longer than the American Revolutionary War.

In other developments, U.S. sources said Friday that misinterpreted radar blips and the sighting of "flying lights" may have caused reports that enemy helicopters were operating around the demilitarized zone.

The sources said it was highly probable that American planes and artillery mistakenly attacked allied ships last weekend that may have appeared on radar scopes to be low-flying helicopters. A U.S. patrol boat was sunk and American missiles damaged an Australian destroyer.

The U.S. Command had no further comment and a spokesman said an investigation was continuing.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported Saturday three other enemy shellings around the country. Light casualties were reported in the bombardments of a government military headquarters at Duc Hoa, 12 miles west of Saigon, at My Tho, in the Mekong Delta, and on a district headquarters in Darlac Province in the central highlands.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command said 10 enemy artillery rounds that hit the American base at Dong Ha below the DMZ Thursday caused heavy loss of ammunition stores. Casualties were reported light.

American pilots, pressing the bombing campaign over the southern panhandle of North Vietnam, reported that heavy raids above the Mu Gia Pass Friday killed some 100 North Vietnamese soldiers. The announcement of a death toll was unusual, as U.S. sources have generally included only damage estimates in reports on the raids over the North.

MINISTER KILLED

TELLURIDE, Colo. (UPI)— The Rev. Denver J. Bennett, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Telluride, Colo., was killed Thursday when a four-wheel drive vehicle he was working on fell on him. The minister had the vehicle up on blocks when it slipped, crushing him. The accident was witnessed by the minister's wife who called a doctor.

Innocent Pleas Entered by Two

Two co-defendants, Marvin Lee Whaples, 53, and Vincent George Carpinelli, 28, both of Denver, pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity in district court Friday to a theft chrge.

Judge William M. Calvert ordered that both of them be transferred to the Colorado State Hospital Pueblo, and continued the case to July 12.

They are alleged to have stolen a car May 30 belonging to James Theodore Martinez, 2318 W. Cucharras St.

Another defendant, Jarol Don Cockell, accused of forgery, also pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

The judge appointed Dr. Thomas J. Hurley to examine him and the matter was continued to July 19.

Cockell, 36, 3014 Gomer Ave. is alleged to have forged a $115.14 check Nov. 10, 1967 with intent to defraud the Wagon Wheel Night Club, 2308 E. Platte Ave.

High Court Looked Back 100 Years for Decision

By JIM C. BARDEN
United Press International

The Supreme Court went 102 years into the nation's past this week to show that it is against the law to discriminate in the sales and rentals of all housing.

By deciding that Congress had done in 1866 what it declined to do in 1968, the Supreme Court turned the Civil Rights Act of 102 years ago into a sweeping fair housing law that goes beyond this year's act.

The 1968 law, even when it is fully operative in 1970, will not bar discrimination in sales and rentals by private homeowners and the owners of housing units with fewer than five families. Congress resisted the efforts of civil rights groups to bar discrimination in all sales and rentals.

But the Supreme Court decision means any individual can sue immediately to obtain any housing barred to him because of his race or color.

While a court order can be obtained under the 1866 law to prohibit such discrimination, it was unclear just what punishment might be in store for someone who violated the order. Under the 1968 law, an individual can not only get a court order prohibiting discrimination in the sale or rental of property, but obtain damages up to $1,000.

In its decision, the Supreme Court said the 1866 law provides that: "All citizens of the United States shall have the same right . . . as is enjoyed by white citizens thereof to inherit, purchase, lease, sell, hold and convey real and personal property."

The decision grew from a suit filed three years ago by attorney Samuel H. Liberman, representing Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lee Jones. Liberman asserted the owners of a subdivision in St. Louis had refused to sell a $30,000 house to his clients because of Jones' race. Jones is a Negro and his wife is white.

Mrs. Jones, who is expecting the couple's first baby in December, said the decision was "wonderful" and that she and her husband still want to buy the house. But she said they could not afford the higher price, so the Joneses' attorney is trying to reach a compromise price with the real estate company.

Around the world:

Washington: The U.S. Supreme Court, in decisions handed down after its final 1967-68 term, found that jailing of alcoholics for public drunkenness does not violate their constitutional rights and that a state cannot deny welfare benefits to dependent children if their mother engages in extra-marital sexual relations.

Saigon: Viet Cong guerrillas continued to rain rockets on Saigon while U.S. B52 Stratofortresses bombed guerrilla camps and trails around the city. Heavy outbreaks of fighting occurred around the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and U.S. officials said they were investigating reported radar spottings of North Vietnamese helicopters in and just below the DMZ.

Washington: The Poor People's Campaign staged a "Solidarity Day" march at which some 50,000 persons paraded through Washington in support of congressional action to aid the poor. After the march, leaders of the campaign launched civil disobedience demonstrations, which led to the arrest of at least 77 persons.

Waggoner Goes To Rocky Camp

DENVER (UPI) — Robert Waggoner, Gov. John A. Love's chief aide, has left his state house job on a leave of absence to work on the presidential campaign of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Love confirmed Friday that Waggoner quietly began his leave of absence last Wednesday. Love also was quick to note that Waggoner's new job doesn't mean Love has endorsed Rockefeller's candidacy.

While considered a Rockefeller supporter, Love has taken a publicly uncommitted position. He said Friday there had been "no change" in his earlier position.

Waggoner, in his new duties, will be based in Denver. But he will be traveling around the country in an effort to win delegate support for Rockefeller.

New Directors Take Over SA Center Here

Capt. and Mrs. Dale E. Johnson have been assigned to direct the activities of the Salvation Army Men's Social Center in Colorado Springs. They succeed Major and Mrs. Ben Wold who have been reassigned the directorship of the San Diego Center.

Capt. and Mrs. Johnson have served as officers of the Salvation Army for 13 years. They have spent 10 years in Corps work in the Western Territory, two years in Anchorage, Alaska in Division Headquarters and the past year in managerial training at Seattle, Wash.

They have three children, Kathy 13, Karen 11, Bob 8.

Maj. Johnson said, "We have been aware of the growth and accomplishments of the Colorado Springs Center, and are looking forward to carrying on the rehabilitation work here.

"The Salvation Army operates 25 such centers in the West. Each is responsible in its area for providing the all important hand to the handicapped, homeless man who earnestly seeks to rehabilitate himself."

The center's rehabilitation program is more than merely "bed and board" and a pat on the back. It is a long range program which provides time for social re-orientation. It provides therapy for body and mind, and spiritual renewal.

The important factors in the center's program for the treatment of men who have lost their place in society are work, and time to regain confidence in their ability to hold a job. A large percentage of the men who come to the center for help have a complusive drinking habit or other psychological problem, and are unable to hold a job.

The center provides the men with work, spiritual and psychological guidance, as well as food and shelter. The work is provided through gathering, sorting, mending, painting and general repairing of discarded household items and clothing donated by the general public.

Financial support comes entirely from the sale of these items in Salvation Army Thrift Stores such as the one at 421 S. Tejon St. and 2235 E. Platte Ave.

Salvation Army Red Shield trucks are maintained by the center for at-the-door pick up of discards. Free pick up service may be had by calling 473-6161.

LBJ Pushes Button to Blast Tunnel Project

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Johnson pressed a button at a White House ceremony Friday setting off the final blast for the seven-mile Flathead Tunnel in northwestern Montana as part of the Libby Dam project.

In brief remarks in the fish room, Johnson said the setting off of the explosives to relocate about 84 miles of the main line of the Great Northern Railway "represents a step forward" toward completing the hydroelectric power dam.

Libby Dam was authorized following the Canada-United States Columbia River Treaty, Dec. 16, 1964, providing for the cooperative development of the water resources of that basin. The dam on the Kootenai River, a tributary of the Columbia has required major rerouting of railways and highways.

"Forty years ago, from the White House, President Coolidge sent a signal that fired the final blast linking both ends of the new Cascade Tunnel on the Great Northern Railway," Johnson said.

"Today, we begin the era of Flathead Tunnel, and it is my turn to send a signal that will join together a new tunnel and a new era of progress for Montana."

He said Montana and the Northwest are on the move. In a broadcast to the area, he said "you are not only blessed with natural beauty and vast resources, but with the wisdom to harness nature's abundance for the greatest good of all."

Kennedys See Yachting Race

MYSTIC, Conn. (UPI)—A Kennedy family yachting party including several of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's children sailed to Newport, R.I., Friday to view the start of the Newport to Bermuda yacht race.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his wife, Joan, were hosts for the party which arrived here Thursday night. The senator and the younger Kennedys, including his own children, those of the late senator, and John F. Kennedy Jr. spent some time viewing this seaport restoration before embarking for Newport Friday morning on the 60-foot yawl Mira.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy remained in New York and her daughter, Caroline, was visiting friends in New Jersey. Mrs. Kennedy returned earlier this week from Newport where she had been staying with her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss.

ONE WAY OF TELLING

HONOLULU (AP)—Seeds, planted and grown under police care, produced marijuana plants and led to the arrest of a 31-year-old Honolulu woman on a charge of illegal possession of marijuana.

Police said they found the seeds when they arrested the woman several months ago. She denied, police said, that they were marijuana. Police planted the seeds and proved her wrong.

Classes Boycotted By Tokyo Students

Some 6,000 students skipped classes at Tokyo University to protest the use of riot police to evict several medical students from an auditorium Monday.

Student leaders accused university authorities of violating the university's autonomy by calling in riot police.

About 500 students occupied a building at Nihon University to demand greater freedom on the campus and an accounting for the expenditure of more than $5.5 million which the students claim was spent without any explanation.

University officials said they are studying the student demands.

Tokyo University has an enrollment of 16,000 students; Nihon has 10,000.

Viet General Surrenders

SAIGON (UPI)—The Official Vietnam press agency Friday reported the surrender of Lt. Gen. Lam Van Phat, one of the leaders of an attempted coup d'etat against the South Vietnamese government more than three years ago.

Phat had been in hiding ever since the plot against a regime headed by Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, an army officer who was ousted in a subsequent coup and later sent into political exile.

Kanh was appointed ambassador at large in the reshuffle, and went to New York for a time where he helped represent South Vietnam at the United Nations. South Vietnamese officials there said Friday Khanh is now an exile in Paris.

Vietnam press said Phat walked into the Interior Ministry with a member of the senate who was not identified and surrendered. Phat served as interior minister in the Khanh administration.

Norgren Veep Will Address ASMC Banquet

Thomas P. Corwin, a vice president of the C. A. Norgren Company in Littleton, will be the speaker at a banquet Wednesday of the Pikes Peak Chapter, American Society of Military Comptrollers.

The banquet will be held at the Air Force Academy Officers Club at 7 p.m., according to chapter president Col. Jack M. MacGregor, who is academy comptroller.

Corwin is a retired brigadier general who was formerly commander of the Air Force Accounting and Finance Center in Denver.

He is a graduate of the University of Maryland and earned a law degree from Georgetown University in 1942. Near the end of World War II, he was concerned with the development of various special procedures for handling novel fiscal problems arising toward the end of the war and during demobilization.

He contributed materially to the system developed to settle the accounts of U.S. repatriated prisoners of war, and helped draft the legislation covering the integration of temporary officers into the Regular Army.

TAX DATA SWAPPED

CHICAGO (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service now has agreements with 43 states and the District of Columbia to swap information to help track down and collect taxes. These pacts allow the exchange of all types of tax information.

It includes names and addresses of workers covered by state employment security programs, state motor vehicle registration lists, and data about licensing and sales.

Commerce Clearing House said automatic data processing systems check on information relating to income, sales, use, estate and gift as well as motor fuel and highway use taxes.

The data is put on high-speed magnetic tapes which can be used in each of the systems employed by the states and the federal government.

Alaska is the latest to join the list. Only Alabama, Connecticut, Georgia, Louisiana, Nevada, Rhode Island and Texas have no agreements.

Charles D. Peterie, right. Company D hosted a dinner at Ft. Carson for the club and many of the company members have been guests of Centennial Sertoma at its weekly luncheons.

New Strife Seen In Trying to Form Italian Cabinet

ROME (AP) — Giovanni Leone's chances of forming an interim Italian government that could enjoy a calm, uneventful summer, diminished today following rebuffs from the Communists and Socialists.

The Communists told the 60-year - old premier designate Thursday they were "totally opposed" to an all-Christian Democratic Cabinet and would immediately launch a drive in Parliament for action on such controverscal issues as workers' conditions, schools, pensions, recognition of North Vietnam and farmers' problems.

The Socialists, who Christian Democratic leaders hope will rejoin them in a coalition government in the fall called the proposed interim government "the worst of the possible solutions."

The Socialists said they would only support Leone if he promises the full program of legislation they want passed. Leone is in no position to make such a promise because the left wing of the Christian Democrats is opposed to him and the right wing opposes the reforms the Socialists want.

The crisis began June 1 when the Socialists withdrew from Christian Democratic Premier Aldo Moro's center-left coalition. The Socialists suffered badly in the general election May 19-20, and they blamed the setback on the government's failure to put through various pieces of reform legislation.

President Giuseppe Saragat asked Leone to form a minority Cabinet to govern through the summer.

"We will not agree to putting Parliament in cold storage," said Pietro Ingrao, a member of the Communist party's central committee.

Continuing student violence added urgency to Leone's efforts.

University of Rome students demanding a franchise to operate their own restaurant made a gigantic bonfire of chairs and scrap wood near the university Thursday night. When a large force of police and firemen rushed to the blaze, the students retreated inside the university dining hall.

In Venice, leftist students trying to close the Biennale art show dumped a boatload of sodium chemicals into the Grand Canal and turned many of the city's canals bright green. The students charge that the show, competition for contemporary art, is a bourgeois exploitation of art, but their chief motive probably is to call attention to the general student unrest.

The students have seized and barricaded the Academia, the art school off the Grand Canal, and hoisted a red flag on the building. They also fought with police in the Piazza San Marco Tuesday and Wednesday night while tourists watched from the arcades around the square.

MUST MAKE AMENDS

GRANITE FALLS, Minn. (AP) — The illegal shooting of one rooster pheasant by three boys in Yellow Medicine County will result in the area having 60 more pheasants. When a state conservation officer brought the three lads before Judge Frederick Osatensoe, he ordered each boy to buy 20 pheasants from a game farm and raise them until they are old enough to be released. They then must be released in the area where they killed the bird.

CARSON LANDSCAPING — John A. Wojtacha, supervisor at the Quartermaster Central Issue Facility, checks the rock garden he designed and built in front of the warehouse through which most of Ft. Carson's thousands of soldiers pass arriving and departing. Soldiers are accustomed to rocks at Carson, but not so artistically displayed. Lt. Col. R. E. Maze, inspector general, suggested improving the space in front of the ramp. Phil Martinez, CIF foreman, asked for suggestions from his staff and Wojtacha thought of the rock garden which utilizes native, on-post materials. (U.S. Army Photo)

Peruvians Are Killed By Severe Earthquake

LIMA, Peru (AP) —The Peruvian government flew more tents, food and medicine to the remote Moyobamba region on the eastern slopes of the Andes today after a severe earthquake early Wednesday.

Rescue workers reported 17 persons killed and more than 100 injured.

The quake struck hardest at Moyobamba, a city of 7,500, and neighboring Chachapoyas was also hit. Both are about 440 miles north of Lima. The government said about 150 buildings were destroyed or damaged.

The National Scientific Observatory reported the quake, which was felt throughout northern Peru, registered six on the nine-point Richter scale.

President Fernando Belaunde Terry flew to the area and said the damage was not great and he would not declare a state of emergency in the area. He said he had appointed an emergency committee, however, to help in the relief and reconstruction work.

Proposed Amendment One Calls for Popular Election of Mayor's Post

(EDITOR'S NOTE: On July 2, voters in Colorado Springs will decide the fate of six proposed amendments to the city's charter. Three of these proposals were sponsored by Voters Organized To Express Responsible Solutions (VOTERS) which instigated the special election with a successful campaign for signatures to petitions. The other three were placed on the ballot at the behest of two other groups, the Colorado Springs Charter Association and the local League of Women Voters. Following is the first in a series of Gazette Telegraph articles explaining the issues involved.)

By W. J. McGLASSON
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

The protagonists in the present campaigns for and against the proposals which will be voted upon at the city's special election on July 2 are certainly not unfamiliar to local voters.

For the most part they were actively involved, on one side or the other, in the 1966 two per cent sales tax hassle which shook the community vigorously. Even now, in the current debates, there are repeated references to which side of the fence certain individuals were on during th 1966 controversy.

But on one score, at least, there seems to be complete agreement in the present campaign. It is, simply, that if the proposed amendments all carry they will result in marked departures from the manner in which the city's affairs are currently run.

Heading the ballot will be the three proposals sponsored by Voters Organized To Express Responsible Solutions and these will be followed by three suggestions of the League of Women Voters and the Charter Association.

Proposed amendment No. 1, if it were to become the only one to pass, would in itself make some major changes in the city's government since it contains five separate sections, four of which could be considered of major import.

The first section would call for the popular election of the mayor. He would run for an at-large post on the council and would campaign as a mayoralty candidate. The winner of such a race would be the city's mayor for the following two years. This would eliminate the present system of having the council candidates all run for at-large posts on the council and having the winners— the new council members — choose the mayor themselves.

Sections two and three of proposed amendment No. 1 go even farther in changing the complexion of the council. First, the city would be divided into four districts with a councilman to be elected from each of these for four-year terms. The other five councilmen, including the mayor, would run at-large for two-year terms.

Section four provides that every successful councilmanic candidate must receive a majority vote. If none of the candidates for council received a majority vote in the regular election, then the two high for each position would engage in a run-off election and the winner would get the job.

Finally, section five would reduce the residence requirements for council members from five to two years.

What are the pros and cons of this amendment?

There hasn't been a great deal of "heat" generated on either side concerning section one except as it relates to one of the sections in proposed amendment No. 2 and this will be taken into consideration in a subsequent article.

But sections two, three and four all have attracted a considerable amount of controversy.

First off, the change in council terms to the combination of four-and two-year terms drew considerable attention when the city attorney delivered an opinion saying he felt the proposal was invalid since it failed to permit those already elected to office serve out their legal terms. How can this be, asked the VOTERS organization, when the language the provisions contained in the section is exactly the same as that used when the city adopted its present charter some 48 years ago? If it was legal then it's legal now, maintain the sponsors.

Legal or not, opponents to the proposal — specifically the league and the charter group — say the combination of two-and four-year terms would, in effect, make "first class" councilmen out of those elected to four years and "second class" councilmen out of those named to two-year terms and this would include the mayor as proposed by section one.

Everybody actively engaged in the present campaign seems to favor a change in the term of council members. At present the term is six years.

One of the proposals on the ballot by request of the charter group and the league — proposed amendment No. 5—would fix all terms at four years. This term, say the sponsors, is more realistic, short enough to provide voter control over council members yet not so long as to scare away some potential candidates.

Concerning section four and runoff elections, proponents point to the fact that, of the present nine council members, only three received an actual majority vote. The overall average vote for the present council membership, according to a spokesman for VOTERS, is 36 per cent meaning that 64 per cent of those who have cast ballots have voted for someone other than the incumbents.

Opponents to this section say the provision for runoffs would encourage the entry of shadow candidates, in the race only to siphon of votes in hopes of helping one candidate while injuring another. Also, opponents point out, runoffs would be almost a certainty after each election because of the number of councilman candidates who normally enter and this would boil down to a built-in additional expense for the city's taxpayers.

The reduction in residence requirements for members of council also has the support of all three of the organizations involved actively in the current campaign. Section five of proposed amendment No. 1 would change the residence requirements from five to two years.

The VOTERS group point out the present five-year requirement is stiffer than the residence requirement for senator. This is particularly unfair in a fast-growing community such as Colorado Springs where many qualified newcomers must wait five years to serve the city.

The league and the charter group agree that five years is too long. But, in essence, they feel that the two-year requirement swings the pendulum the other way and is too short.

So they've proposed three years for the requirement and that is the substance of proposed amendment No. 4. It would simply change the residence requirement from five to three years.

(Next: Veto power for the mayor).

Painting Bids Available Now

Opening date for bids for interior painting of apartments at Peterson Field is 2 p.m. July 11 at Building 70 at Ent AFB.

This procurement has been set aside for small business participation only.

Bid forms, plans, specifications and additional information may be obtained from the base procurement office or by calling 635-8911, extension 6608.

Draft Subject Of Conference Here Saturday

A statewide Citizens' Conference on the Draft will be held in Colorado Springs Saturday.

Sponsored by the Draft Information Service, a local volunteer organization, the all-day meeting will convene at 9:30 a.m. in Room 300, Armstrong Hall, Colorado College.

Mrs. Harold L. Dyer, conference chairman, said participants are expected from Denver, Pueblo, Boulder, Fort Collins, Greeley, Grand Junction, and Durango.

"People from these cities have expressed interest in how the Colorado Springs information service functions," she said, "so the morning session will be devoted to practical methods." The afternoon session, she said, will take up "general questions about conscription and the resistance movement" and will be open to the public.

Eugene Deikman, Denver civil rights trial lawyer, will speak at 1:30 p.m. on "The Resister in Court." A talk on "Resistance Issues and Activists," by a spokesman from Boston or Chicago, will follow. Mrs. Dyer said it was not yet certain who that speaker would be.

The Colorado Springs Draft Information Service was formed two months ago "to provide young men, and their families, with factual information (not advice) about the Selective Service system and related matters," according to the group's statement of purpose. Mrs. Dyer said 11 trained counselors are available through an office, open three days a week, at 25 E. Bijou St.

NAACP Group Lends Support To Amendments

The Colorado Springs chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People resolved to support amendments four and five in the upcoming city election.

The special July 2 election has six amendments on the ballot. According to the local NAACP "certain proposed changes to the city charter could seriously cripple the city government's ability to deal with its financial affairs and the present method of at large elections prevents the representation of minority groups in Colorado Springs.

The NAACP said reforms are needed in the city charger but not changes which would cripple the city's ability to raise funds.

The two amendments supported by the local NAACP as proposed by the League of Women Voters would provide for partial districting of four districts with five at-large councilmen and would reduce the residency requirement for city councilmen from five to three years.

Jim White, president of the NAACP, announced a special meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the North East Action Center, 513 E. San Rafael St., where a member of the League of Women Voters will speak on the pros and cons of the issues in the election.

This will be followed by a joint meeting of the NAACP and the G. I. Forum at 8 p.m.

According to White, the "outcome of this election is of vital interest to all minority groups in Colorado Springs" and he urged all interested persons to attend.

Students' Test For High School Is Set July 10

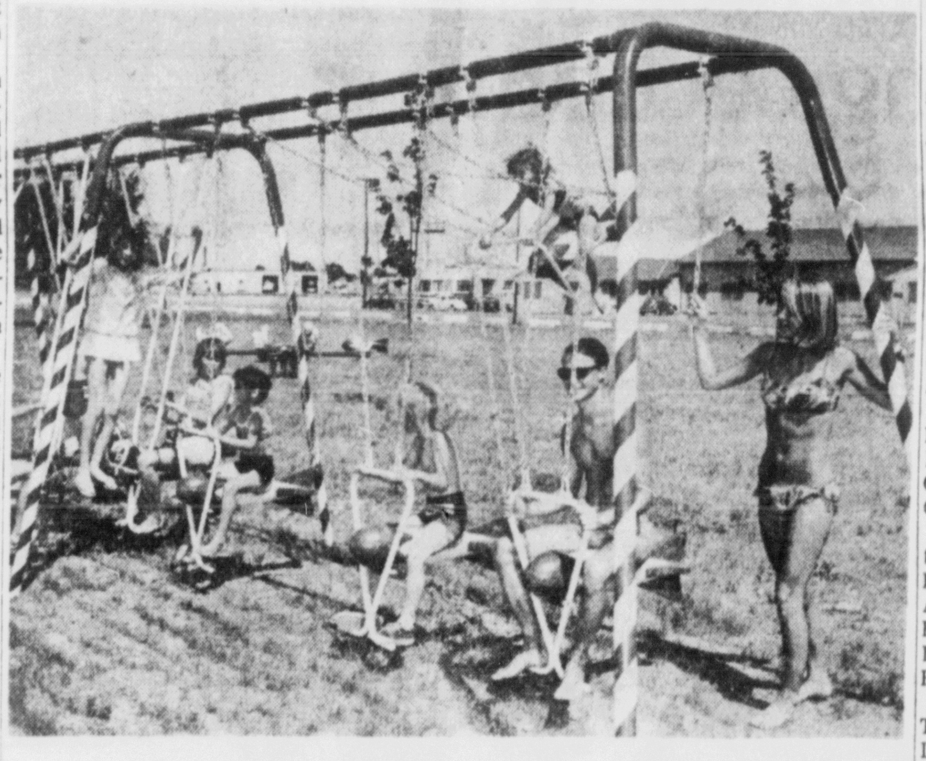
Any senior high school students new to the Colorado Springs school system or who have been away a year or more are asked to report to Wasson High School on July 10 to take the test necessary for enrollment.

By taking these tests in advance, students will be enrolled much more rapidly. Counselors must have the information from these tests in order to enroll pupils in suitable classes. Appointments will be made with them for conferences the week following the date the examination is given.

Students should report to Wasson High School at 8 a.m. on July 10. They are requested to call the high school which they plan to attend in advance, giving their name. It is helpful to know how many students to plan for this time. The tests will last from 8 a.m. until noon, and from 1 to 3 p.m.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the Administration Building, 633-8773, Ext. 231.

OBSTACLE COURSE — Upside down or rightside up, these dependent youths at Peterson Field waited just long enough for cement footings to dry before they "attacked" a piece of donated playground equipment.



TO AND FRO — Military dependent youths enjoy the new playground equipment at Aerospace Defense Command's Peterson Field. Five organizations contributed funds and labor to erect the five items valued at $4,500.

It's Playtime At Peterson For Children

It took the combined efforts of five organizations over several months, but the results — happiness for hundreds of youngsters—would seem worthwhile.

Reason for the good spirits is a new playground at Aerospace Defense Command's Peterson Field, the product of a lot of proud Air Force members and their dependents. Planned, constructed and maintained entirely by volunteers and donated funds, the playgound equipment is valued at $4,500.

In addition to swings, a slide, and modern version of the teeter-toter, there is a "climb-it-yourself" obstacle course of metal bars and spring-action animals to ride.

Donations of the five organizations were pooled and the equipment purchased on a democratic basic whereby no piece was bought by a single organization.

Thanks to the Central Base Fund, Officers Wives Club, Noncommissioned Officers Wives Club, Nursery, and Recreation Services, lots of little tikes and pre-teen youths of the base have plenty of exercise and enjoyment to fill summer hours of leisure.

Richard K. Lee, base recreation director at Ent AFB, coordinated all arrangements on the playground project including final erecting of the equipment by personnel of his section.

Parents Urged To Supervise Fireworks Use

"Unsupervised fireworks displays are a menace to the sight and safety of youngsters throughout the United States," says the Colorado Society For The Prevention of Blindness.

In a pre-Fourth-of-July safety message, S. John Monaghan, president of the society, advises parents to closely supervise childrens' playtime activities during the national holiday period.

"After every Fourth of July," says Monaghan, "the Colorado society receives far too many reports of young eyes damaged or blinded in fireworks accidents. These accidents can be avoided only if parents accept their responsibilities and cooperate with the authorities in enforcing fireworks laws."

The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness has helped pioneer a model State Fireworks Law prohibiting sale and uncontrolled use of fireworks in 27 states. Federal legislation bans shipment of fireworks into states with legislation against them. The National Society advocates adoption of the model law by every state. The Colorado society offers these hints to parents for a safe holiday:—Don't allow children to buy fireworks through the mail or from illicit dealers. —Help children to realize that fireworks are dangerous—Don't buy or use fireworks yourself. —Take your family to a public fireworks display where they can enjoy the show in safety.

The society is an affiliate of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness Inc., which is the oldest voluntary health agency nationally engaged in the prevention of blindness through a comprehensive program of community services, public and professional education and research.

Twenty-Six Set For Retirement From Air Force

Two colonels and six lieutenant colonels head a list of 26 Ent AFB personnel who are returning to civilian status this month.

Also retiring are Lt. Cols. Floyd T. Dunmire, Charles V. Eld, Richard C. Sansing, John C. Hinkle, Fellie F. Robinson, and Lynn F. Walker.

Other retiring officers are Maj. Charles E. Littlefield, Maj. Harold L. Van Derryt, Capt. George R. Crongeyer and CWO Clyde W. Round.

Heading the list of enlisted retirees are SM.Sgt. William C. Reid Jr., and M.Sgts. Norman A. Lecerf, Richard L. Hosier, Billy A. Wells, W. L. Whaley, Richard L. Duval and William R. Hodgman.

Other enlisted retirees include T.Sgts. Herman Albers, Howard L. Cantrell, Howard H. Ragland, David M. Schneider, and Walter R. Hubbard.

Insurance Man Will Address Kiwanis Club

T. Ernest Nowels, will be the principal speaker at the Tuesday meeting of the East Colorado Springs Kiwanis Club. He will speak on the subject, "You Can Take It With You."

Nowels, a native of Colorado Springs, is a salesman for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company. He is a graduate of advanced underwriting schools in both Business Insurance and Estate Planning, and is currently studying the course of the American College of Life Underwriters that leads to the Chartered Life Underwriter designation.

Nowels has qualified for the National Quality Award for seven consecutive years. This award is given by the National Association of Life Underwriters for continued high standards of service to policyholders. He was one of two Colorado Springs Life Underwriters to be selected by the Denver U.S. National Bank for the "Distinguished Life Underwriter" Award for 1964. In 1967, he placed over $1,000,000 of new life insurance.

Gates Names Expert to Head Springs Project

David K. Sunderland Friday was named executive vice president and general manager of the Gates Land Co., recently formed to develop the 3,000 acre Myron Stratton Home property east of the Broadmoor Hotel.

The Gates Land Co., which will headquarter in the Holly Sugar building, is a subsidiary of the Denver-based Gates Rubber Co., the nation's sixth largest manufacturer of rubber products.

The company announced last January a multi-million dollar land development project to include residential, recreational and commercial areas.

The announcement of Sunderland's appointment was made by Charles C. Gates, Jr., president of the rubber company.

In making the announcement, Gates said "The appointment of Mr. Sunderland and the initiation of master-plan studies for the long-term development of the Myron Stratton Home property is concrete evidence of our confidence in the future growth of Colorado Springs and in the associated opportunity for responsible land development."

Sunderland was formerly vice president-development for the Janss Corp., long-time community developer, most recently known for the renaissance of Sun Valley, Idaho and the development of Snowmass at Aspen.

He is moving to Colorado Springs from Aspen where he was active in the planning of the successful Snowmass project.

Regarding his appointment, Sunderland said "Gates and the Myron Stratton property seem a perfect match. Our concern for the property is reflected in the year-long planning effort now underway.

"The first objective is to formulate an integrated plan which balances the potential of the property with the long term character of the market and the environmental needs of future residents.

"We expect to open the way for the logical growth of the City of Colorado Springs to the south."

The Myron Stratton Hme is a home for needy Colorado residents of all ages. It was established under the will of Winfield Scott Stratton, an early day Colrado mining millionaire.

The Myron Stratton Home will remain in operation as it has for many years and will not be affected by the development of the surrounding land, officials said.

DENVER (UPI)— A 25-year-old Ohio woman, who underwent a liver transplant operation at the University of Colorado Medical Center, was reported in fair condition Thursday. The unidentified woman, who had been suffering from cancer of the liver, received the transplant from a traffic victim last Tuesday. She is one of only seven known survivors of a liver transplant operation. Five of the others also are at the Denver hospital while one is in a Boston hospital.

Council Will Discuss Gun Control Ordinance

A proposed ordinance to regulate the sale of firearms in Colorado Springs will come up for discussion Tuesday at th regular meeting of the city council. It also will be a topic of discussion when the council holds its "informal" session on Monday to discuss some of the key items scheduled for formal consideration or action at the Tuesday session.

Tuesday's meeting gets underway at 9:30 a.m. in council chambers with the firearms proposal 10th on the list of 34 items to be considered.

The possibility of regulating the sale of firearms in the city was broached very briefly at the council's last meeting during the discussion which led to approval of a police cadet program in Colorado Springs.

After the council voted unanimously to establish the cadet program, Councilman George Pfalmer said that, while the council was on the subject of protection for city residents, he hoped consideration would be given soon to appropriate measures controlling the sale and use of firearms in the city.

The city already has an ordinance prohibiting the firing of guns inside the city but nothing concerning their sale.

The entire council agenda is as follows:

—Request by Fred Wolf for one-year extension for completion of The Red Wolf.

—Appointment of two council members to terms as city representatives on the Pikes Peak Area Council of Governments.

—Request of Garden of the Gods Club and the Kissing Camels Golf Club for renewal of contracts for fire protection.

—Request of R. Keith Hook and Associations on behalf of Western Forge Corp. for a building permit on unplatted land immediately east of the firm's present plant site.

—Approval of an agreement between the city and School District No. 11 for combined development of a school-park facility at Palmer Park Boulevard and Dereamer Circle.

—An ordinance amending one relating to fireworks.

—Request of Brunswick Corp., dba Circle Lanes, to expand its facilities by adding a beer garden on the existing parking lot.

—Petition by Harold and Thelma Kitche for annexation of Arvada Addition No. 5, an area of .71 of an acre 100 feet south of the southwest corner of the intersection of Arvada Street with Nevada Avenue.

—First reading of an ordinance establishing a zone for Arvada Addition No. 5.

—Petition by Real Estate Management Corp. for annexation of Garden Ranch Addition No. 19, an area of 148.64 acres north of Montebello Drive and east of LaVista Parkway.

—First reading of an ordinance establishing a use zone for Garden Ranch Addition No. 19.

—Final plat of Auburn Subdivision No. 1, by Godwin-Bevers Company, Inc., a 1.49-acre subdivision northeast of the intersection of Bijou Street with Auburn Drive.

—Request by Regis V. Wichman and Paul J. Reimer to change the zone from R-2 to R-5 at 2901-2933 N. Hancock Ave.

—Final plat of True's Mill Subdivision by American Builders, Inc., an 11.793-acre subdivision north of Airport Road about 2,000 feet east of Academy Boulevard.

—Preliminary plat of Vilka Loma, first unit, by Rolling Hills Investment Co., approximately 304 acres northwest of the intersection of Constitution Avenue with Powers Boulevard.

—Preliminary plat of Uintah Gardens by R. D. Von Engeln, approximately 47.23 acres northeast of the intersection of North 19th Street and West Uintah Street.

—Request by R. D. Von Engeln et al for approval of a vacation plat to vacate all of Schuetz Subdivision.

—Preliminary plan of Garden Ranch Estates by Austin Bluffs Land Development Co., and Gordon Enterprises, a 335-acre subdivision northwest of the intersection of Meadowland Boulevard with Academy Boulevards.

—A resolution authorizing any member of the law firm of Horn, Anderson and Johnson to represent the city as an assistant city attorney.

—Recommendation of the Director of Public Works regarding award of contract for 30th Street storm sewer.

—A resolution appointing judges for the special municipal election on July 2.

—Public hearing on the petition by Elnora D. Brewster et al for annexation of Brewsters Addition, for 3.29 acres south of Busch Street.

—First reading of an ordinance establishing zones for Brewsters Addition.

Public hearing on the request by Rustic Hills Improvement Assn. for review of the decision of the city planning commission regarding the preliminary and final plat of Rustic Acre Subdivision by John J. McNamee.

—Adjournment until 3 p.m. Thursday, July 4 for canvass of returns to the special municipal election on July 2.

Pack 99 Sponsors Annual Bike Ride

Cub Scout Pack 99, sponsored by the Noncommissioned Officers Open Mess at Aerospace Defense Command's Ent AFB, recently held its annual bicycle parade in the Whitehead Heights housing area on Peterson Field.

All local dependent children were invited and more than 50 participated. Following the judging of bikes, the parade was led by Col. and Mrs. James W. Lancaster, on a bicycle built for two, though the housing area and down to the base picnic grounds for refreshments.

Awards were presented to the children who won various bicycle decoration categories. Later in the program a talk on bicycle safety was given the children by Colorado Springs police traffic division officers Chuck Edgington and Pat Givan.

Cubmaster Sgt. Jim Mason cited Mrs. Phyl Stacklie for her work to arrange the parade, appreciation to Mrs. Jean Orahood for her past support of Pack 99.

Ground-Breaking Set July 13 for Frontier Village

Ground-breaking ceremonies marking the start of construction on the first phase of a 10-building program at Frontier Boys Village, will be held July 13, Edgar P. Gregory, campaign general chairman, has announced.

Gov. John A. Love, Mayor Eugene McCleary of Colorado Springs and District Court Judge Hunter Hardeman, representatives of various social agencies here of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce, have been invited to attend the ceremonies beginning at 10 a.m.

Gregory heads a campaign to raise $210,000 for the first phase of the building program. It will consist of three dormitories and an administration building. The project has been endorsed by Judges Phillip Gilliam and Ted Rubin, both of Denver, and several welfare agencies.

About $70,000 in pledges and cash have been received thus far from all over the country, Gregory said. Contributions locally may be made to Gregory at his offices, 309 S. Cascade Ave. They are deductible.

Frontier Boys Village is located about a mile and a half south of Divide on the Cripple Creek road. The site consists of 300 acres, recently acquired, Operated by the Mennonite Board of Missions, the campsite is a year round treatment center for the emotionally disturbed, maladjusted, predelinquent boy. Boys 10 to 14 are referred to the village by the courts, welfare agencies, mental health authorities, or on the recommendation of the family physician. An enrollment of 60 boys by 1973 isexpected.

"What is needed now is brick and mortar-capital funds" — Gregory explained. "Operating expenses are borne by the Mennonite Board of Missions. Our methods are the responsible American way to accomplish things — not relying on the government to do things that people can and should do for themselves. This is an opportunity for persons who think this way to contribute to the project."

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

These Witty Sayings Have Teeth in Them

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE D.D.S.

Thornton Wilder didn't know, when he entitled his play "The Skin of Our Teeth," that teeth really do have skins! This skin, or you might say, enamel cuticle, is called Nasmyth's membrane. Don't look for it on your teeth because it's worn away shortly after teeth erupt.

The little boy asked his grandmother, "How old are you grandma?" She replied, "I'm as old as my tongue and a little older than my teeth."

Someone said it's sheer folly to send an old man with false teeth to Vietnam peace talks when he may have to eat crow.

The toothless old chocolate general said the draft law should have more teeth in it.

Do you know what makes witches mean, and why they have only one tooth? They've been cursed by the Druids with, "One tooth should be left you and that should hurt you all the rest of your life."

In Japan, women used to identify their marital status by blackening their teeth. Maybe they were forced to do this by jealous husbands who believed that a wanton tooth is the harbinger of wantoness.

Just in case you wish to make your teeth black and shiny, the formula used was a mixture of urine, iron filings and saki, and it was so pot entas tain that teeth stayed black forever.

Centuries ago, in England, deeds to property were apt to be sealed by teeth marks in wax followed by the words, "In it was so potent a stain that wax with my tooth,"

Two Back Bay Boston women, lean yellow and long in the tooth, were sitting in their rockers talking about their dentist. One of them said, "Dr. — is a very clever dentist but he's getting too old and can't see." The other proudly retorted, "But if you show him where the cavity is, he'll fill it."

Even combs have teeth . . as do rakes and saws . . .

More Gun Deaths In Illinois Than Crash Fatalities

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Guns have gaken the lives of 79 persons in the United States since midnight Sunday, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Of those, 41 were homicides, 28 were suicides and 10 were accidental deaths.

Three children were killed with firearms Wednesday, two by other children and one by a former mental patient.

The Florida Highway Patrol said Joseph McCants, 29, killed 3-year-old Francis Lee Fortune after holding her and two other children hostage. Earlier, officers said, he had shot and gravely wounded a Graceville policeman. McCants had been in a state mental hospital several times, police said.

Seven-year-old Wayne Roye of Wake, Virginia, was accidentally shot to death by his 10-year-old brother, Philip, who police said apprently was playing cowboy with a loaded gun.

Paul Alvin Witcher, 7, was shot and killed in a rural section of Franklin County, Virginia. Sheriff's police said a 14-year-old relative, Johnny Ray Witcher, was playing in the basement of his home with a rifle he thought was unloaded. He fired through the window, hitting the younger boy in the head.

A 33-year-old Youngstown, Ohio, woman was shot to death during an argument in her home. Her husband was being questioned.

Demands for gun control legislation have been increased by three assassinations, the most recent being that of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Coroner Andrew J. Toman of Cook County (Chicago) said Wednesday that more persons died from gun wounds in the county during 1967 than died in automobile accidents.

He said 607 firearms deaths were reported compared with 591 traffic fatalities.

The FBI reported that approximately 6,500 persons were murdered with firearms in 1966—an average of 125 gun homicides a week. Total homicides for 1966, the FBI said, was 10,920 persons.

This included stabbings and stranglings. The FBI said 60 per cent of the homicides in America result from firearms.

The Associated Press is making a week's survey of gunshot deaths. The count began at midnight Sunday and will continue through Sunday, June 23.

Reputed Mafia Bigwig Found Guilty in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) —A reputed Mafia bigwig and two other men linked with former New York City Water Commissioner James L. Marcus in a $40,000 bribery case have been found guilty of conspiracy by a federal jury. A fourth defendant was acquitted.

Marcus, 37-year-old former righthand man to New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, pleaded guilty to the conspiracy charge June 3. His case was severed from the others and he became a government witness.

Found guilty after a little more than three hours jury deliberation Wednesday were:

—Antonio "Tony Ducks" Corallo, 54, of Whitestone, Queens, whom Marcus identified in testimony as a "top guy in the Mafia," and who spent two years in prison after being convicted in 1962 in a vain attempt to fix a federal bankruptcy case.

—Contractor Henry Fried, 68, of Mount Kisco, N.Y., millionaire head of S.T. Grand, Inc., which also was convicted.

—Daniel J. Motto 57, of Greenwich, Conn., head of Queens bakers union local.

They assertedly teamed up to bribe Marcus, then city water commissioner, in exchange for his awarding an $840,000 reservoir cleaning contract to S.T. Grand, Inc., on Nov. 23, 1966, without competitive bidding.

Acquitted was Charles Rappaport, 30, a former law partner of Herbert Itkin, a Marcus business associate also indicted in the conspiracy. Itkin, as an FBI informer and government witness, also had his case severed.

Itkin testified he expects charges against him to be dropped by the government and that he anticipates being a witness in "at least 50 more cases" in the future.

Sentencing was set for July 26. The maximum penalty is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Local Teacher Gets $1,800 Fellowship Grant

Thomas B. McCord, director of physical education and administrative assistant at Cheyenne Mountain High School, has been awarded $1,800 fellowships for graduate study toward doctorate degrees in educational administration.

The award was made by Climax Molybdenum Co., a division of AMAX (American Metal Climax, Inc.).

E. J. Eisenach, vice president of western operations for Climax, said the fellowship is provided in response to the need for additional highly-trained school administrators in Colorado's expanding educational system.

"We feel this is one more area in which private industry can demonstrate its support and interest in meeting the problems facing public education," Eisenhach said.

Climax also provides summer study fellowships to high school teachers working toward advanced degrees in their major fields, college scholarships to high school senors, and scholarships to undergraduate high school students attending the Frontiers of Science Institute each summer at Colorado State College in Greeley and a similar seminar in human behavior at Southern Colorado State College in Pueblo.

McCord will be on leave -of - absence from Cheyenne Mountain High School for a full year to study at Denver University.

The University will also provide $1,800 to match the Climax grant in support of McCord's work toward a doctorate degree in school administration.

This work should be complete by Aug., 1969.

This is the second year that the Climax Administrative Fellowships have been awarded. The first awards were made in Aug., 1967.

Recipients of the Climax fellowships are selected by a committee of distinguished educators headed by Dr. Harold Moore. Other members of the committee are Dr. James Barrett, Dr. Elbie Garn, Dr. Frank Lakin, and Philip Rule.

ICS Slated To Enroll 8 Millionth Pupil

International Correspondence Schools, (ICS) the world's oldest and largest home - study educational insfitution, will at- by enrolling its eight millionth student.

ICS forecasters predict the eight millionth student will be enrolled sometime in July or August.

"The importance of 'Mister 8 Million' is not the student himself," says Dr. John C. Villaume, ICS president, "but what he represents."

He will symbolize the 2.3 million adults today who are sacrifcing leisure time to improve their career opportunities through home study.

After its founding in 1890, it took ICS more than 15 years to reach 1,000,000 enrollments. But less than half that time will have elapsed between the enrollment of its seventh and eigh millionth students.

This accelerated rate of growth can be attributed to more than just a numerical increase in popuation.

Radical advances in technology and management techniques occur with such frequency in business and industry that even college-trained people must occasionally pause to take refresher courses to bring them abreast of new developments.

To commemorate the event of the eight millionth student, "Mister 8" wll be flown to the home office in Scranton, for special ceremonies in his honor.

He then will be escorted to New York City for a press luncheon, and an expense-paid vacation in that city.

In addition, he will receive a lifetime scholarship for unlimited I.C.S. study.

The students that miss by one; "Mister, Miss or Missus 7,999,999" and "Mister, Miss or Missus 8,000,001," will not be neglected. Each will receive a scholarship for the course in which he has registered.

LICENSE APPROVED

DENVER (UPI)— Western Nuclear, Inc., and Jack Grynberg and Associates announced Thursday they had acquired an exclusive prospecting license on 82,000 square miles in northern Nigeria. The license was granted to the Denver-based firms by the Ministry of Mines in Lagos, Nigeria. The land involved is about the size of Colorado. The rights are limited to uranium, vanadium, thorium and associated minerals.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

My goodness, I thought practically everyone dumped hot charcoal briquettes into any type of air-tight metal container and slapped on a metal lid.

The coals extinguish almost immediately for lack of oxygen.

Then when you are ready to reuse the coals, open the container and shake it a little to knock off the excess ashes.

Charlie

You are so right, Charlie. They really spit and steam when dropped in water or sprayed with a squirt bottle.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have an idea to save on those beautiful glow candles in the colored glass holders.

When one gets burned down far enough, insert a little coffee-warmer candle. It still glows and can be used for a much longer time.

Mrs. Gordon

Dear Heloise:

Being the mother of six, I had many receiving blankets left-over. I found them just the answer to my search for a card table storage cover.

I sewed two of these large receiving blankets on three sides, slid the card table inside and put three large snaps on the open end.

Mrs. Marvin Smith

Dear Heloise:

Here is something I do when serving cheese dip to make it a little fancy.

Regardless if I'm adding garlic, onion, bacon, olive (or a mixture of them) to the cheese — I always tint the cheese with catsup. The catsup turns the cheese into a delicate peachy pink and gives it a little more taste.

Ann Porter

LETTER OF TRUTH

Dear Heloise:

I am sending along the creed of our Home Economics Club. Perhaps you have already read it, but if not, you certainly do help us all live up to it.

"We believe in the present and its opportunities, the future and its promises. In everything that makes life large and lovely. In the divine joy of living and helping others.

"And so we endeavor to pass on to others that which has benefited us, striving to go onward and upward in improving, enlarging and endearing the greatest institution in the world—THE HOME."

Jean Hughes

Jean, I kinda choked up when I read your beautiful creed. The world would be a better place to live if we ALL followed and practiced those wonderful thoughts.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Fishermen can use a large thread spool and a pencil to remove the line from a reel in order to straighten out the line or clean and grease the reel.

Place the pencil through the hole in the spool and wind the line from the reel onto the spool. Then when ready to place line back on the reel, hold the ends of the pencil with spool between your hands, Just allow it to turn as you wind the line back on the reel.

You should recruit a helper to hold the spool and pencil for you. A wife is a very handy person to have around at a time like this!

Fan Fisherman

I'm glad he is finding out how versatile wives are!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When my pillowcases begin to wear thin in the middle, I turn them wrong side out, cut off the bottom seam, refold it so that the creases match in the middle and the worn parts are on edges.

I stitch the bottom together again and find lots of wear left in them.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Older Man Adopts Girl

DEAR ABBY: I am an unmarried, middle-aged, professional man. While working in another state last summer, I became acquainted with a young woman who worked as a car hop. She had a pretty 11-year-old daughter, and was having a hard time making ends meet. Since I was going to take an extended trip through the West, I offered to take the child with me. They were both enthused and the mother gave me the birth certificate "in case I needed it."

Upon returning from the trip, the mother was nowhere to be found. I spent several days trying to locate her, but to no avail. The forwarding address she left was phony. I notified the local police, but they couldn't find the mother, nor did they try to remove the girl from my care. They took my permanent address and said they'd notify me if anything turned up.

When I commenced my present job in this town, I presented the girl "as a close relative." She is now 12, very happy, and doing well in school. She never asks about her mother. I think I am doing an excellent job of raising her and it would be a shame to be separated now.

Can you advise me as to the legal and social aspects of this?

NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR NORTH CAROLINA: I think you need a lawyer to help you establish a legal guardianship over the child, satisfying whatever preliminary actions that are required. However well-intentioned, you are now vulnerable to a number of unpleasant charges.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you because I don't have a mother and my dad wouldn't understand.

I am 14 and have a boy friend named Gary, who is also 14. This might be only puppy love, but I do like him a whole lot.

My problem is another girl. She likes Gary, too, and she's trying to get him away from me. She is having a party and she invited Gary but not me. I think she just made up this party as an excuse to get my boy friend.

I felt just terrible and cried in my pillow last night. I keep thinking that if Gary really liked me he wouldn't go.

GARY'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Try to be a good sport if it kills you. DON'T say a word to Gary about the party or the other girl. The surest way to lose a boy friend is to be possessive and bossy. Give him all the freedom he wants and you won't be able to get rid of him.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps Elmer could solve his problem in some manner such as this. Inscribed on the tombstone in an eastern state are these words:

"Here lies Ephriam Wise
Between his two wives.
One was Tillie. The other was Sue.
I hope my friends from Adam to Willie
Will lay me out so I lean toward Tillie."

Have enjoyed your items for many years in Littleton, Colo.

Anti-Maoists Control Provincial Region

HONG KONG (AP) — Radio Hupeh hinted today that virtually the entire rural area in Red China's Hupeh Province is controlled by anti-Maoists who have infiltrated almost every unit in the province.

The provincial radio said the foes of Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung "are using every available means and tricks to destroy the morale of the People's Liberation Army, the revolutionary committee and the cultural revolution."

The broadcast said virtually the entire rural area is infested with anti-Maoists carrying out "such criminal acts as murder, sabotage and looting."

Youth Beat

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

Adopt a cop: Many communities are urging junior high schools to "adopt" a favorite policeman. The officer becomes a part of the faculty and lectures and counsels on community problems and their relationship to law enforcement and its deputies. Rapport and understanding are the goals. Success or failure is in direct ratio to the intelligence and depth of understanding of the police officers involved. The growing chasm between "authority" as it has been traditionally recognized and today's youth is a No. 1 national problem.

We've urged for almost two years a foundation grant (or grants) that would establish police forces in medium-to small-sized communities on a "model" basis. The officers would receive top dollars beyond civil servant levels. The officers would be expected to teach in the schools and to direct adult education programs. The basic idea would be to attract the highest type of candidate on socio-economic grounds instead of pure civil servant hum-drum. Chosen cities could be the spawning ground for the police chiefs of hundreds of other progressive cities. How about it, Ford Foundation?

STATISTICS ON HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS IN 1967: Deaths — 52,500. Injured—4.2 million. First year of improvement in more than a decade. Cannot, though, be construed as genuine progress as the decline in casualties was very small. Eighty per cent of fatal crashes occurred on clear days and dry roads. Excessive speeds top the causes of fatal accidents. Crossing between intersections cause many pedestrian fatalities. Almost one-third of drivers involved in fatal accidents were under 25 years old. (Over 40 per cent of total poulation is under 25 years.)

TEEN RADIO NET: New solid-statae five-watt "transceiver" being used by teens to keep home advised on whereabouts and what-abouts. Has range up to 7-10 miles. No FCC tests or exams required. Sells for $79.95. Works in autos and on boats.

Sleep Less, Hallucinate More: All the symptoms of a bad LSD trip are experienced for a variety of other reasons. One of the most interesting is sleep deprivation. Confusion and disorientation can occur from lack of sleep . . . just as in a bum trip from LSD. Interesting when one considers how many present-day students burn all-night oil just to keep above water in this highly competitive grading rating school system. How many teens have been accused of taking narcotics when, in fact, they were so exhausted they literally didn't know what they were doing? How many other teens who have actually smoked pot, for example, have experienced far more pronounced effects merely because thy hadn't gotten enough sleep? And how many kids have eaten a plain old sugar cube thinking it was LSD and had a "bum trip"? No one will ever know. Incidentally, why does lack of sleep cause these reactions? One theory now being tested is that lack of sleep means lack of normal dreaming and lack of normal dreaming prevents the "working off" of the chemicals of fatigue by the brain. Thus there is a build-up of such chemicals that are actually waste—hence, abnormal reactions and actions.

TV NOT SO BEGUILING: Once thought to be the pied piper of teens, television is not that at all. Or so says a small survey of a group of junior high students in Westchester, Calif. Apparently 41 per cent of the students there watch TV eight hours or even less in a week. Twenty-seven per cent claim nine to 16 hours each week while 25 per cent watch TV 16 to 23 hours; only 7 per cent glare at the boob tube over 30 hours. Ten years ago the number of television and viewing hours was much more. Strangely enough, if our school spies are being truthful, and we believe they are, the teachers are the ones who devour TV by the hours. At least they constantly use television programs as classroom points of reference—much to the puzzlement of the students who have never heard of half of the programs, much less watched them!

IOOF Offers Land for College Site

With the offer of a 99-year lease on 10 acres of land near the Royal Gorge Manor, the College of the Canons in Canon City is nearer to having a permanent home. The offer from the IOOF for land near its high-rise manor includes a 15-year moratorium on rent payments and an option for an additional 20 acres.

Eric T. Kelley, president of the college board of directors, said two other sites are being considered, one east and one west of the city. Both of these sites present water and sanitation problems but the directors feel the problems are not insurmountable should the IOOF site offer prove undesireable.

Financing of possible future building programs for the college was assured through Fremont County banking interests. Available through local sources is some $20,000 for initial funding for the college's first buildins. Currently directors are considering a Swiss chalet type building.

Pending board action on permanent sites, the Abbey School of Canon City has offered the use of its classroom and educational facilities as a public service. Abbey officials will meet ings. Currently directors are with the college board later this week to assess the feasibility of such assistance for the fall term.

Service clubs in the Canon City were recently presented with a program outlining the college's future in which board members predicted an enrollment of 200 for the next fall term.

VOTE RECORDED

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Rep. Byron Rogers, D-Colo., said he voted with 13 other Democrats Thursday in favor of House Judiciary Committee action on a strong gun control bill. The measure passed by a 29-6 vote. The bill bans mail order sales of all firearms and restricts counter sales.

"A Mile From Downtown 'Tis True, But A Mile From High Prices Too!"

Colorado Medical Society Notes

By THE COLORADO MEDICAL SOCIETY

"Sores" in the mouth—nearly everyone has them at one time or another. They can be painless or tender, large or small, and they may be colored yellow, red, white, grey or black.

Such mouth conditions may have great or little significance, and they may be important in themselves or merely indications of some other body condition. The rash of measles, for example, appears in the mouth before it appears elsewhere on the body.

For both of these reasons — possible significance as localized problems and possible indication of body-wide conditions—a mouth checkup is part of nearly every medical examination. "Open wide . . . stick out your tongue." The modern dentist also is giving increased attention these days to mouth conditions not directly related to the teeth and gums.

The big question far as adults are concerned is mouth cancer. Pre-cancerous tissue in the mouth, usually painless, is quite common and easily escapes attention. Actual mouth cancers also can be painless, or they may be sores or lumps that won't go away.

If mouth cancer is detected early, it often can be treated very successfully with radiation, but the surgical treatment for advanced mouth cancer is difficult and disfiguring. If the tongue is involved, the patient may be left unable to swallow or speak.

So it is very important to detect mouth cancers early.

Every person should have regular medical checkups, including a mouth examination, and should also be under the regular care of a dentist who is alert to danger signals. Any mouth sore or lump which persists for more than five days should be investigated.

Smokers are under special hazard. Higher incidence of mouth and tongue cancer among smokers is now well proved. Prolonged irriation of tissues of the inner cheek, tongue and undertongue by pipe smoke can produce pre-cancerous conditions which later develop into outright cancer. Irritation from cigar and cigarette smoke also may affect mouth and lip tissues. Chewing tobacco or snuff also may create cancerous conditions in the area where the user habitually holds his "wad."

Mouth cancers also can develop as a result of constant irritation by ill-fitting dentures. Any denture or bridge wearer who develops a sore spot which doesn't go away if the plate or bridge is removed for a few days should see his doctor or dentist.

Old Doc Experience tabulates some of the other common mouth conditions:

1. Fodyce's spots are yellow patches n the lining of the cheeks. They are actually small cysts of the sebaceous glands, and they can become calcified and hard in later years. They are not serious, but, again, any persistent lump should be diagnosed.

2. The canker sore, or apthous ulcer, also is usually not serious, and it can be treated medically. Ordinarily, there is one canker, although there may be multiple sores on the tongue, inner cheek, lip or gums. It is probably caused by a virus, and it may be stimulated by fever, generalized illness or low nutrition. The sore is painful but usually goes away in three to five days.

3. Cold sores result from a virus infection and are known medically as herpes simplex. They usually occur along the lips or on the face around the nose and mouth and sometimes within the mouth. They may accompany fever and chills and infections elsewhere in the body. They are commonly multiple. In advanced cases they can interfere with proper nutrition.

4. Thrush is a mouth condition which ordinarily occurs in children. It usually attacks the patient who has a debilitating illness or is under drug treatment. White patches, looking a lot like curdled milk, appear and adhere to the walls of the mouth. Any persistent white deposit in the mouth should be investigated medically.

5. Trench mouth, a mixed infection, is reasonably common and is always associated with poor dental hygiene. It causes pain, bleeding and bad breath. Dental care is called for.

6. Gingivitis is an inflammation of the gums and also reponds to dental care and hygiene.

7. Some drugs, notable dilantin and digitalis, can cause gum conditions, as can lead poisoning.

8. Dark patches of pigmentation of the inner cheek or gums sometimes appear, especially in the dark-skinned races, and generally have no medical importance.

9. In addition to creating conditions conducive to cancer, smoking also can produce a condition known as nicotinic stomatitis. A bright red patch may appear on the inner cheek or lips. It disappears when the irritation ceases.

10. White or dull grey patches on the tissues of the mouth can be leukoplakia, a pre-cancerous change in the outer layer of the oral mucous membrane. These patches usually result from smoking or badly fitting dentures, and they do not go away. Leukoplakia will develop into cancer eventually if it is not treated. Treatments are medical or surgical.

11. A hard lump on the roof of the mouth can be torus palatinus, a congenital bony growth which ordinarily causes little difficulty unless it is large.

12. The tongue is subject to several special conditions. Deep furrows may appear, but they come and go and have no medical significance. "Geographic" tongue is a condition in which smooth patches appear on the normally rough surface. The patches may shift positions from time to time and may be related to food intake or medications. A black, "hairy" condition on the rear third of the tongue is quite common. It is a fungal infection which usually is not serious, but if it persists it should be invetigated. Glossitis is a beefy red, glistening inflammation of the tongue, usually tender, which may indicate vitamin deficiencies or metabolic disorders such as thyroid disease.

Gulf Oil Corp. Will Work With ADC Project Here

The Aerospace Defense Command's Ent AFB Project Transition, which currently offers three career courses to help airmen separating from the Air Force, has now added a dealership-development training program in conjunction with the Gulf Oil Corporation to begin in the latter part of August.

MSgt. Richard K. Land, chief of Project Transition at Ent, said the program would prepare airmen for dealership and managerial positions with the Gulf Oil Corporation or other national oil companies which grant service station dealerships.

Gulf Oil officials said the average annual salary of trainees who acquire dealerships ranges from $10,000-$15,000 according to Sgt. Land, who worked with Gulf officials to set up the program.

Sgt. Land said the first course of the program would begin in August due to the large number of personnel on leave and temporary duty status during the summer months.

Starting this month, retirees will be eligible to sign up for Project Transition courses with the same status as separating airmen, said Sgt. Land.

The first carrier course — for postal training — has been a huge success here, according to Sgt. Land. Recently the fourth class in postal training graduatd, including the first Woman of the Air Force graduate.

Eighty-one personnel have now graduated from the postal training course, said Sgt. Land. He added that 90 per cent of the separating personnel who have started the course have graduated to relocate — guaranteed by the U.S. Postal Department.

Moreover, every postal training graduate has passed the Civil Service test for mail handlers given at the end of the course, said Sgt. Land, and all but two of the graduates has passed the more difficult Civil Service test for clerk carriers.

Test scores for the postal training graduates have far exceeded the national average, said Sgt. Land.

The next postal training course is scheduled to start July 1. For more information on the postal training course or the dealership-development training program just begun, go to Bldg. 46 room 13, or call exts. 6239 or 6230.

PART SCORE CAN LEAD TO TROUBLE

Part-score bidding is sort of a stepchild in bridge writing. There is a good reason for this. When each side has a part score, the competition increases and everyone hates to give up.

Perhaps the best system for use when each side has a part score is that of the late Lee Langdon. Lee would compete one more than he had any right to and then double his opponents on the theory that they also were competing one too high.

East's one-spade overcall was based on the fact that each side had 60 on the rubber game and he for one was not going to give up meekly. West's two-spade call was correct, with or without part score, but it wasn't what would be called a robust raise. South's bid of three clubs was in the Langdon tradition. He had really run out of bids but he wasn't going to stop just for that reason.

West's three-spade call was flag flying at its worst. He had good defense and little support for his partner.

No guarantee went with South's double, but he did have three of the enemy trumps and four probable tricks in the minor suits. It was also well-judged. Assuming that South made his best opening lead of a trump, the best East could do would be to get out for down two.

North's four-diamond call was just give away. He could not be sure that they would beat three spades but he could be sure that his partner would not make four diamonds.

South played the hand as well as possible, but after the defense started with three spade tricks there was no way for him to avoid losing two more; so he was down the same two tricks that he would have set his opponents. North's bad judgment had cost not 500 but 1,000 points.

Chemical Lab Keeps Busy At Carson

Chlorine gas is bought by the ton for use in destroying germs; methane and other gases are burned to keep down odor; but no one has found a way to remove detergents from the overflow of Ft. Carson's sewage plant. This problem has not been solved anywhere.

Sewage disposal standards maintained by the Caron plant are consistently higher than those required by the state sanitation department; a Class A chemical laboratory runs daily checks for control of the biological oxygen demand — the amount of oxygen required to reduce bacteria and render the sludge harmless; the capacity is almost twice that needed to support Ft. Carson at its present troop level, and the plant treats sewage, also, from the North American Air Defense Command Combat Operations Center.

A fine spray of water directed against the foam caused by detergents breaks up the bubbles and keeps them from overflowing lead-off pipes; and with all this, the place is spotlessly clean and the grounds, with their lush grass and blooming plants, resemble a park.

Water from the disposal plant is not potable. At present, it is released into the Fountain River. Studies are being made to determine the cost of converting the outflow into water suitable for irrigating the golf course to be built in the near future.

An anticipated 500,000 gallons of water a day would be needed to maintain the course — an amount equal to only one-fourth that being released daily into the river.

Operation of the plant is under the direction of George Greeley, post chief of sanitation. He has been a Carson civilian since 1950, when he joined the Post Engineer Section as a plumber, his basic trade. In 1952 he moved to the sewage plant as an operator and was promoted to the top position four years ago.

Greeley has completed water treatment and sewerage treatment classes sponsored by the University of Colorado Extension.

A Californian, he was discharged from the Army after World War II at Camp Carson and, like thousands of other residents, decided to stay. He met and married Mrs. Greeley in England. She shares his attachment to the Pikes Peak region, he said.

Denver Given Cash Windfall

DENVER (AP) — Denver's Tom Currigan, who has been beset with the problem of finding enough money to finance the city government, received an unexpected check for $76,003.75 Friday.

The money came from the Denver District Court and represents unclaimed funds held on court order from attorneys and litigants dating back to 1932.

Judge Neil Horan made the presentation, saying the judges of the court voted to take the long-held funds from a bank account.

Currigan said "Thanks. We can certainly use it."

The unclaimed items range from 43 cents to $4,000.

Horan said just recently a claimant appeared for $19,000 which had been held for 11 years. He stated that in the event there are any other belated claims, the city would have to return the money.

Johnson Approves N.Y.-Moscow Route

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson approved Friday the award of a Moscow-to New York route to the Soviet Airline, Aeroflot.

The President's action, endorsing a Civil Aeronautics Board order, cleared the last apparent obstacle to the long delayed service.

It left Aeroflot and Pan American World Airways, which already has a certificate for the route, free to start operating the route immediately.

Both airlines have said they intend to inaugurate jet service as soon as possible.

The Isle of Man, off the coast of England, with a population of 49,338, is 33 miles long and 12 miles wide.

Charles Hughes Will Address Sertoma Club

Charles E. Hughes, vice-chairman of VOTERS, will be the guest speaker at the noon Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Centennial Sertoma Club at the Stockyards Steak House.

Hughes will discuss the three amendments to the City Charter proposed by Voters Organized To Express Responsible Solution.

Born and educated in Indiana, Hughes received his bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Indiana. He also attended Purdue and the University of Indiana law schools.

Before moving to Colorado Springs in 1958, Hughes was employed by the General Electric Company at Indianapolis as advertising manager.

He is president and general manager of Halle's, Inc., a member of the Pikes Peak Sertoma Club, and chaired the 1965 Citizen Committee on City Finance.

Hughes was vice-chairman of COST-U, an organization of local citizens which spearheaded the drive to help defeat the proposed two per cent city sales tax two years ago.

Looking for a Better Job?

Men and women, ages 18 and over, are wanted to prepare for U.S. Civil Service job openings during the next 12 months.

Government positions pay high starting salaries. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

To acquaint the readers of this newspaper with the splendid opportunities in Government positions full details have been printed in a new booklet: "U. S. Civil Service Positions and Salaries" which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Simply send your request to Lincoln Service, Inc., 2211 Broadway, Dept. 12-6 Pekin, Illinois. A postcard will do.

ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Robert S. Allen

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — A highly touted, much publicized special project to provide employment for hundreds of disadvantaged youth in Washington's ghettos is being extensively investigated on a number of sensational charges.

Pride, Inc., hurriedly launched last summer with a $2 million Labor Department grant at the urging of Vice President Humphrey and other Administration leaders when tensions were running high and the Capital appeared on the verge of racial violence, is undergoing extensive probing for the following:

(1) Alleged large-scale payroll padding and other fiscal irregularities.

(2) The killer of a liquor store dealer in a holdup reputedly was a Pride, Inc., employe. The police are checking on information that other members of the robbery gang also were Pride workers.

(3) Two high-placed Pride officials allegedly rented a car to drive to Philadelphia where they met with members of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM), an extremist Negro nationalist organization, and gave them $1,000. Investigators have definitely established that Pride was billed for the rental of this car.

(4) Pride employes are reportedly attempting to extort "protection money" from Washington merchants.

(5) An alleged plan under which Pride, Inc., would buy a fleet of Volkswagens by putting down one-fourth of the cost. The cars would then be turned over to supervisors and other administrative personnel who would pay the remainder in monthly installments from padded mileage and other authorized expense accounts. Presumably, in the end, the autos would belong to these individuals although actually paid for with government funds.

(6) A D.C. Child Labor Bureau inspector reported that a Pride employe told him that a "number of Pride boys" were using narcotics, and that one allegedly told the informant "he had never used dope" until his Pride supervisor introduced him to it.

(7) A number of Pride employes were found to be juveniles under the legal working age of 14. One check disclosed twelve, of whom one was 10, three were 12, and eight 13 years of age.

(8) Four Pride officials are being paid at the rate of $250 to $300 a week; a number of others $125 to $175 a week. From September 1967 to June 1968, $10,000 was paid for "consultant services." One consultant received $80 a day, but his advice concerning business ventures was ignored.

(9) A U.S. Marshal memorandum on the bulletin board of the "poor people's campaign" headquarters in downtown Washington warning that unauthorized persons were loading up government surplus food at various pickup points, selling it and pocketing the money. The Marshal stated the memo concluded, "The men are believed to be members of Pride, Inc."

THE SPARKPLUG — The wide-ranging investigations of these and other shocking charges against Pride, Inc., are being made both by Congress and government agencies, as follows:

Labor Department, which put up the $2 million of Manpower Development Training Act funds to finance Pride, is particularly digging into payroll padding and forging of government checks. Pride issues approximately 1,000 salary checks every two weeks, but so far investigators are said to have been able to account for only 800 employees. Also it is reported checks have been found to have duplicate signatures and in a number of instances to be endorsed by the same individuals.

Justice Department, to whom the Labor Department has submitted its findings for further inquiry and possible legal action.

General Accounting Office, which is making an extensive probe of Pride finances and operations at the express request of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee, headed by Senator Robert Byrd, D-W. Va. This committee, which has jurisdiction over the Capital's annual budget of more than one-half billion dollars unanimously approved a resolution offered by Byrd for the sweeping probe.

Metropolitan Police Department, digging into charges that Pride employes are involved in extortion, muggings, gang robberies, murder, use of narcotics and other criminal activities.

D. C. Child Labor Bureau, investigating the hiring of underage juveniles and other illegal practices and irregularities.

Sparking these extensive probes is Representative Joel Broyhill, R., from nearby Arlington, Va. A member of the House D.C. Committee, he has kept a close watch on Pride, Inc., since it was launched last August with much hoopla and fanfare.

It was first headed by youthful Rufus "Catfish" Mayfield, who admittedly has a police record. He was subsequently elbowed out by Marion Barry, a civil rights militant and black power advocate. Recently a non-profit subsidiary of Pride obtained a $25,000 loan from the Small Business Administration to acquire a landscaping nursery. Vice President Humphrey is credited with aiding Barry in getting the SBA loan.

Under Pride, the nursery has secured contracts to do considerable landscaping for a large food store chain and a widely publicized new model suburban community in Virginia.

In the past six months, Representative Broyhill has collected a large mass of evidence and information regarding Pride operations and personnel which he has turned over to the various investigators. He is also considering discussing the matter in detail when the House acts on the new budgets for the widely controversial anti-poverty program and the Manpower Development Training Act.

CLEANING HOUSE — Last year, 28 State Department employes of various ranks were fired as security risks. Twenty-five were homosexuals. The other three were dropped for "immoral conduct."

This was disclosed by Deputy Assistant Secretary G. Marvin Gentile at a closed-door meeting of the House Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of the State Department budget.

"It's amazing," observed Representative John Rooney, D-N.Y, chairman, "how the number is just about the same very year."

"I think it was a little higher in 1967," said Gentile. He pointed out that none of the security dismissals were "loyalty cases." Roney asked how many were Foreign Service officers.

"Nineteen of the 28 were Foreign Service," replied Gentile. "Most of them were young men. Of the three separated for immoral conduct, two were Foreign Service officers."

PREDICTIONS — Mayor John Lindsay will not be offered the appointment to the seat of the late Senator Robert Kennedy. Upstate New York Republican leaders are vehemently against Lindsay's selection and have made that emphatically clear to Governor Rockefeller. Representative Charles Goodell, Jamestown, leading member of the House Education and Labor Committee, has strong backing in these quarters for the Senate seat. . .All active duty military personnel will get a 6.9 per cent hike in basic pay on July 1. This boost was voted by Congress last year and President Johnson has signed the necessary implementing order. . .The Senate Judiciary Subcommittee headed by Birch Bayh, D-Ind., will approve a constitutional amendment to give the District of Columbia a voting seat in the House of Representatives. But even if the full Judiciary Committee accepts this proposal, it hasn't a chance of being adopted by Congress this year. It would die on the vine.

President De Gaulle, plagued by mounting economic and fiscal difficulties, will lift his ban against Israel acquiring 50 supersonic fighter planes. Israel made full payment of upwards of $50 million for them, but De Gaulle, trying to woo the Arabs, refused to turn them over. But with his domestic political and economic tribulations intensifying, the inside word is he will relent. . .The Air Force's giant C-5A transport plane, largest in the world, will make it first test flight by the end of this month. . .Senator Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., favorite son from his state, will endorse former Vice President Nixon. That will swing South Carolina's delegation to him. Partisans of Governor Ronald Reagan had hoped to win South Carolina backing, but it isn't in the cards. . .John Daley will not have a successor as head of Voice of America. Instead, Richard Cushing, a Daley assistant, will step into his place as acting director. USIA Director Leonard Marks has decided this is the best course in view of a new Administration taking office next January.

Ent Art Fair Raises $900 For CHAP

More than $900 was raised by the art fair held last week for the Aerospace Defense Command's Ent AFB Children Have A Potential program, according to Lt. Col. Robert J. Grady, acting chief of personnel of the 4600th Air Base Wing.

The art objects, ceramic pieces and paintings were donated by universities and colleges throughout the country. According to Col. Grady, almost all of the paintings, consisting of water colors and oils in many styles — modern, abstract, landscapes and still-lifes — were sold during the three-day fair that was held at the Ent Officers Open Mess and the Ent Noncommissioned Officers Open Mess.

The CHAP Program was officially inaugurated in the Air Force in December 1961. Its purpose is to help those families with physically or mentally handicapped children under 21 years of age.

Through the organization of CHAP Parents Groups on Air Force bases throughout the world, great progress has been made in advising these parents of the facilities at their military installations and those provided by the community.

Carson Scouts Cover 50 Miles In 5-Day Hike

Ft. Carson's Boy Scout Troop 64 recently completed a five-day march which covered 50 miles, with opportunities for good deeds all along the way.

Led by Lt. Mike Williams, Spec. 5 Robert Darcy and Spec. 4 Chip Colton, the boys hiked along the Gold Camp Road and through Phantom Canyon.

The boys stopped only for meals, but at night they made camp early and worked for two hours on conservation projects. They made rip-raps (stones countersunk into the surface of slopes to inhibit erosion) and animal shelters, and picked up litter.

The trip had been planned for more than a month, and several practice hikes had been made in preparation. For the long march, the Scouts were divided into three patrols, each composed of four boys, a patrol leader and an adult.

Patrol leaders were Jim Diggs, John Hall and Larry Shire. Members were Steven Albie, Ernest Battle, Garald Grier, Billy Hixon, Jimmy Hixon, David Lee, Ken Mechen, Harry Miller, Mike Miller, Alan Moore and John Williamson.

The number of women employed in this country as accountants and auditors more than quadrupled in the two decades from 1940 to 1960.

Locomotive Careens 96 Miles Through Kansas

KINSLEY, Kan. (AP) — A maverick locomotive started by a mysterious malfunction took off without its engineer and careened 98 miles through the Kansas countryside Thursday, leading a Keystone Kops chase by deputies, police and spectators.

The two-unit diesel Santa Fe locomotive, which averaged a better than mile-a-minute clip during its 84-minute ride, was purposely derailed near Kinsley to end its unscheduled excursion.

During its run highway patrolmen, sheriff's deputies and police raced against time as they tried to block crossings ahead of the wild runaway that sped through nine towns at speeds up to 90 miles an hour.

No one was hurt but there were several narrow escapes. Along the route officers had to contend with crowds of sightseers who flocked to the tracks for a glimpse of the speeding maverick.

The enginee nearly hit a pedestrian and several automobiles at street crossings.

J. R. Fitzgerald, division superintendent, promised a thorough investigation.

It all began about 4 p.m. when the locomotive, freshly serviced and with its engine idling, quietly rolled off a roundhouse spur at Hutchinson onto the branch line that sweeps along the Arkansas River.

Apparently something went wrong with the "dead man's throttle"—designed to prevent the unit from moving unless a man's hand is applying pressure on the lever. Suddenly the train started moving.

Picking up speed on its way out of Hutchinson, the engine nearly hit one pedestrian and several automobiles at street crossings.

On the western edge of town, Harold Crain, a track supervisor from division headquarters at Newton, was operating a motorized handcar as he inspected the track.

Suddenly he looked up to see the locomotive charging at him.

"I lifted one end of my car off the tracks, but I could see there wasn't time to finish it, so I just stepped back and waved it goodby," Crain said.

He said smoke was boiling off the brakes "then the brakes burned out and the engine really took off." Sparks from the scorching brakes ignited grass fires for several miles outside Hutchinson.

Station agents were alerted over the railroad's voice network and Stanley Stout, the Sterling agent, started logging the times.

Cardiff, with a population of about 260,170, is the capital and the largest city of Wales.

Next Time, Throw Flakes At Newly Weds

Spain Tourist Office Shattered by Blast

NEW YORK (AP) —An early morning bomb blast shattered the plate glass window of the Spanish National Tourist Office in midtown Manhattan early today—the second such incident at the office in a month.

The blast which was heard up to six blocks away when it went off about 4 a.m. The concussion also shattered two upstairs windows in the building at Fifth Avenue and 48th Street.

Communities Must Find Answers to Own Problems

By W. J. McGLASSON
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

There will be no simple answers found to the problem of growing unrest in cities across the nation and when they are found it will be only through the involvement of entire communities and not just a limited number of individuals, members of the Colorado Municipal League were told Friday.

These and other observations on the often-meshed problems of unrest and city financing were made by several speakers and panelists as the league closed out its 46th annual convention at the Antlers Plaza.

The league responded by adopting among its resolutions one pledging municipal officials in Colorado to "provide leadership in the elimination of prejudice and intolerance to the end that equality of opportunity and citizenship for all can be achieved."

The same resolution urged the state legislature for authority "to allow local chief executives the right to declare emergency curfews, control over the selling of liquor and beer, and other necessary emergency measures in the event of civil disorder."

It further noted that "while law and order must be respected and upheld, right to peacefully assemble and petition government must also be respected and upheld."

In summing up opinions expressed during a 2½-hour panel discussion on unrest, Chancellor Maurice E. Mitchell of the University of Denver said evidence of the turmoil is the "lack of structure" which is premeating "many phases of our life."

There is much less structure, or discipline, in family life. The "hippie" movement is practicing a way of life without structure, he said. Noting his own dealings with the problem of campus unrest, the chancellor said the University of Denver demonstrations were inspired by Students for Democratic Society (SDS) which he described as an unstructured organization.

Somehow, he said, the country must "pick our way through this morass" and come up with the answers.

Three of the panelists, Police Chief George Seaton of Denver, Councilman Stanley Anderson of Grand Junction and City Manager Ted Tedesco of Boulder, agreed that too often the problem of unrest has been interpreted to mean a police problem.

"Too often the satisfied citizen is unconcerned" until the unrest reaches him personally, Anderson said.

Tedesco, speaking on "the quest for human dignity" as part of the overall problem, said thus far the "easy" answer has been the "bricks and mortar approach" of building buildings.

"But when are we going to get around to the people problem?" he asked. "These people (the dissatisfied) don't want to be handed canned solutions any more. They want to participate."

Noting that Boulder had received some notoriety as a "hippie haven," Tedesco asid that fact didn't bother him so much as the individual "hippie" himself.

"How did we get a group like this in the first place?" he asked, terming the "hippie" a society dropout.

He asked the many city officials present what they were going to do when their communities became the targets of "hippie" invasions. Both Seaton and Tedesco recommended to league members that, like it or not, they listen to the militants as one means of getting a better understanding of the underlying problems—employment, lack of opportunity frustrations — that have brought about the unrest.

As "symbols of authority," Seaton said, law officers today are being called upon to cope with problems "never before considered within the scope" of law enforcement.

The Denver chief, noting that crime in the nation is increasing nine times faster than its increase in population, said the "sad part" of this fact is that more than 50 percent of these crimes are committed by juveniles.

"If a riot starts in Denver, it will be started by juveniles," he predicted, adding that expansion of his own juvenile department by four to five times still has not solved the problem.

Jack Fowler, manager of safety at LaJunta, told the municipal authorities that unrest is not a problem peculiar to big cities. Although LaJunta has not experienced major disturbances, the factors to create them exist, Fowler said, adding that "a riot in Denver affects the attitudes in LaJunta toward law and order."

In this belief, Fowler drew the support of both Mitchell and the principal speaker at Friday's luncheon session, Mayor James Tate of Philadelphia.

Noting the great amount of time which the league had devoted to discussions of unrest in the cities, Mayor Tate told the group that "remoteness can no longer be an excuse for disinterest."

"We national leaders must give the rootless element a stake in our society," he declared.

He said that municipalities, both large and small, "must work together" or accept the alternative of anarchy and chaos.

"Our survival depends upon it," he said.

The unrest, with its underlying roots, has presented the nation with its "most serious domestic crisis since the Civil War," the Philadelphian, who is president of the National League of Cities, said.

Dr. Jack Yuthas, professor of psychology at Metropolitan State College, told the group "we can destroy ourselves" if the answers to the unrest problem are not found within the next decade.

The militants in the movements of unrest "no longer care," he said. "They can destroy our country."

One of the problems in reaching the answers, Dr. Yuthas said, has been the imposition of solutions on minority groups by the whites.

He quoted a Spanish-American leader in Denver as telling him during one period of unrest, "we don't want a white Messiah."

Inactivity in the past also was blamed by Dr. Yuthas for the present crisis. He said a report on the causes and possible solutions of a 1919 race riot in Chicago and a similar report on the Watts uprising of two years ago are almost identical.

"We didn't do a damn thing about it in all those years," he said.

Goodwill Slates Assembly This Week in Denver

Gordon Siebring, executive director, Goodwill Industries of Colorado Springs, will lead a local delegation attending the nation-wide 44th annual delegate assembly of all Goodwill Industries in America to be held in Denver, Tuesday through Friday.

Some 500 representatives from Goodwill across the nation and abroad will meet at the Denver assembly for four days of discussion on methods needed to expand the local and national Goodwill Industries program. Goodwill comprises the largest group private, non-profit vocational rehabilitation agencies in th world.

Attending the assembly with Siebring will be Stanley Newman, chairman of the Goodwill board here, Col. T. Ray Malone, board member, and Mrs. John Logan, representing the Ladies' Auxiliary to Goodwill.

The Colorado Springs Goodwill is an autonomous unit which has an affiliation with the national headquarters organization, with offices in Washington, D.C.

The local Goodwill has been operating in Colorado Springs for eight years. It serves handicapped men and women by giving them evaluation, training and rehabilitaion and opportunity to gain self respect and independence through the development of useful work skills.

Rocky Claims His Campaign Is Taking Hold

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller thinks his campaign to overtake Richard M. Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination is starting to take hold.

"This thing is turning over. The crowds and the response have been better than I've ever seen. I'm very pleased," the New Yorker said Thursday, a day that had him in Chicago, Ohio and Washington.

At the same time, Rockefeller is completely realistic about his position at this point. He answered a reporter's question in Chicago on his chances by saying:

"The party leaders are probably two-to-one in favor of Dick Nixon. But the party leaders also want to win this election. And therfeore the fact that the people in this country are increasingly evidencing their support for me, I think this will be reflected in the thinking of the party leaders."

Rockefeller, who capped a growing personal campaign against Nixon by mentioning him by name for the first time Thursday, is trying to force the vice president into a dialogue on the major foreign and domestic issues. He thinks Nixon is more likely to make mistakes—especially under press—than he is. He admits he is counting on this.

Nixon, however, said he does not propose to engage in any form of colloquy with Rockefeller.

Rockefeller said the crowd in Chicago's Loop, exceeded all his expectations. It was estimated at 10,000 and he said this was three times the number that could be assembled for a street corner rally in New York City.

In that speech, Rockefeller cited a magazine article that quoted Nixon as saying, "There is no alternative to the war's going on."

The governor, drawing applause, said he disagreed completely. He said he favors "self-determination for all the small nations of Southeast Asia."

Rockefeller began citing Nixon's election records, specifically in the big cities.

At a meeting of the Cuyahoga County Republicans in Cleveland, the governor recalled Nixon's defeat in the presidential election of 1960.

Masias Family Buys Original Mission Bell Inn

The Masias family, 152 Clarksley Rd., has purchased the original Mission Bell Inn, in Manitou Springs across the street of McLaughlin's Lodge, 78 Crystal Park Road.

The inn was bought from Mrs. Jennie E. Duran, the originator of the business.

Partial remodeling, including the patio has been remodeled.

Dan Masias, his wife Helen and seven older members of the family have managed this business for the past five years.

The family enjoys working in the restaurant and the parents have proved that a large family can be run successfully and can work in harmony in a business operation.

Masias reminds his children that "united we stand, divided we fall" and he has embued the youngsters that once a job is started one should not quit until he has finished it.

Masias continues the story of the family operation in his own words.

Helen, with the help of Glen, 15, and Tim, 13, serve the food when they are open for business. Glen is a top notch server and knows how to prepare any dish in the kitchen. He can also work in the dining room.

Timothy runs the sopapilla table and does quite a job of it. He learned how to make the sopapillas when he was nine years old and since then he has learned how to do almost every job in the kitchen.

Sam is the "maitre'D," and is very well known in this area. He is 12 years old and also runs the new pinata room, where gifts are sold. It was recently built and is now in operation.

Sam makes his own pinatas which he sells along with other Mexican gifts.

In addition to this line we are providing free information for people who intend to travel in Mexico.

We will have several shelves full of free literature containing this information.

We consider Sam a very important part of this operation because he serves as "maitre'D" salesmen information clerk and public relations man all in one 12-year-old package.

Benjamin, who is 10 years old, scrapes the food off the plates and also helps the dish washer. His goal is to eventually take over Sam's job, or that of his father.

Donald, 17, Dan Jr., 20, and Pat, 18, handle the dining room. Tom Miller, 18, who lives across the street from the restaurant also helps with the waiting.

He has been with this operation since he was 12. He is the only outside employe of the restaurant, but he is considered one of the family.

Mark, 8, Julie, 6, Debra, 5, and Brian, 3, stay at home with a babysitter.

They too, are learning how to keep the house neat and clean.

We don't take reservations because we only have 13 tables, in the dining room and we take you on a first come first serve basis, but we have a waiting room with four tables, plus a patio that seats 30 people.

In addition, people browse around in the Pinata Room, or look through our information shelves while we get their table, so it's really fun to wait.

Because of school work in the winter, the Mission Bell is open from 5:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. We are closed Mondays.

Through the summer the hours of operation will be 5:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.

Since all the food served is prepared daily, which is a five hour job, in addition to the cleaning before we open for business, we have approximately a 10 to 12 hour day.

Lee Goodbar Jr. Becomes New Bank Director

The election of C. Lee Goodbar, Jr. to the board of directors of The East Colorado Springs National Bank was announced today by Armin Barney, chairman of the board.

Goodbar, a native of Colorado Springs, has practiced law here since his graduation from the University of Denver College of Law in 1954 in partnership with his brother William D. Goodbar.

Start Insurance Program While Still Young

EDITOR'S NOTE — The advantages of starting a life insurance program while still young is discussed in the week's article supplied by the Colorado Springs Life Insurance Underwriters Assn. The article is one of a continuing series.

QUESTION: What kind of life insurance program would you recommend for my son, who is a young man of average means, just graduating from high school and planning to go on to college? I'd like to get him started on a program he could add to later on.

ANSWER: Your letter indicates that your son does not have any particular financial responsibilities right now. But life insurance bought at this stage of life will give him the advantage of the low premium rates available at younger ages.

As a general rule, the best all-around policy for a young man in your son's situation would be a straight life plan, providing lifelong coverage at no increase in premiums as he gets older.

It probably should include a "guaranteed insurability" provision, under which he could buy additional insurance later on at standard premium rates based on his age then, regardless of whether he was still insurable.

While your son's insurance needs may not be unusual or complex, there are certainly some individual factors to consider.

For example, you will likely have to meet heavy additional expenses during his college years.

If his education depends on the continuation of your income, then perhaps your own insurance should be reexamined. It might even be wise to forego insuring your son right now in order to increase your own coverage.

A life insurance agent can give you more specific advice right now, as well as later on when insurance needs increase.

New Officers Named By Craddock Firm

Robert C. Davis, a well known architect in the Colorado Springs area, has been appointed vice president of design and construction for the industrial development firm of Craddock Development Co.

JACK C. MASON

Berry Craddock, president, says "Davis will handle both design and construction administration, assuring a continuity in industrial projects and thus providing our clients with single responsibility from start to finish."

Davis attained his bachelor of science degree in architecture from the University of Kansas in 1959, and is a licensed architect in the state of Colorado.

He served four years as a designer of commercial projects with Simon and Hip architects, Denver.

Davis spent three years with Bunts & Kelsey, architects, Colorado Springs as a field project representative and one year with Higginbotham, Nakata & Muir as designer and field project representative.

His projects include — James Monroe Elementary School, Lamar Savings & Loan, St. Francis Hospital, Cheyenne Mountain Junior High School, Circle Central Shopping Center, Ft. Carson Bank, and East Colorado Springs National Bank.

Most recently Davis was with the Woodmoor organization designing custom homes.

Craddock feels the addition of Davis will be a very real asset to his industrial development staff.

Jack C. Mason, a resident of Colorado Springs since 1937, has been appointed vice president of sales and management for The Craddock Realty & Development Co.

Craddock, in announcing this appointment, stated that Mason will coordinate the sales and management of existing and new industrial properties, thus providing our clients with reliable management of their lease interests.

Mason attended public schools in Colorado Springs and is a 1955 graduate of Colorado Springs High School.

He attended Colorado College and Colorado State and received his undergraduate degree in math and physical science.

Mason has also done graduate work at Colorado State and the University of Colorado in addition to taking certificate courses at Colorado University in property management, appraising, finance and investment.

He has been associated with Peter Kewitt & Sons Construction Co., Omaha, Neb., Carrol Jones Construction Company at the USAFA, School District No. 11, and J. L. Case & Company.

Mason has been a licensed real estate salesman in the state of Colorado since 1962, and recently completed the requirements for a brokers license in this state.

Mason stresses cooperation with other brokers and he will coordinate all realty functions of Craddock Realty & Development Co. with commercial industrial realtors.

He said, "The service we provide in working with a realtor involves putting the whole package of land, buildings, design, construction and financing or leasing together in one full swoop." The emphasis is on flexibility in our approach to industrial development.

Local Bank Women Attend Wyoming Meet

New Industrial Park To Cost $3,000,000

Berry Craddock, president of Craddock Development Co., has announced the purchase of approximately 50 acres of ground at the intersection of Garden of the Gods Road and Interstate 25 for a major industrial center.

The ground extends almost a mile along the east side of Interstate 25 and fronts Garden of the Gods Road.

Craddock plans development of attractive industrial facilities in the park utilizing the prestress concrete and brick approach to construction, which is his firm's trade mark.

Initial construction plans call for $500,000 in immediate starts on a 20,000 square foot industrial mult-i-flex building to be leased in increments of 1,600 square feet up and a 10,000 square foot office building fronting Garden of the Gods Road.

Already under construction on four acres of the center is Yellow Transit Company's Colorado Springs facility, and Wandell & Lowe's 21,000 square foot office warehouse.

Craddock purchased the ground from Nick Pinello and feels it is the key industrial site in the city. Sites for industrial buildings can be furnished from one to ten acres with paved streets and all utilities. Both rail and non-rail sites are available.

"Crossroads North" is Craddock Development Company's most ambitious project to date, and was over six months in planning and negotiation.

Craddock states, "This project represents the ultimate in complete customer service by our firm; the perfect combination of ideas and construction assuring the best building at competitive prices and rental rates.

The buildings stress maximum flexibility, pleasing appearance and low maintenance.

The day of the industrial building appearing like a box is over."

HORSE SENSE IN BUSINESS

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — An example of old-time horse sense in business was found recently by the accounting department at Worthington Corporation's compressor and engnie division here while reveiwing old company records. A capital appropriation request dated Aug. 7, 1922 read:

"An appropriation is requested for $581.20 to cover the purchase of a Fordson tractor equipped with solid wheels and rubber tires for industrial plant use.

Ground Breaking Held For Chinchilla Center

Ground breaking was held Wednesday for a 1,000 square foot Rocky Mountain Chinchilla Center at Monument, officials of the corporation announced.

The T-shaped, two story building will be constructed by Gordon Joslyn, contractor, at an approximate cost of $100,000. It was designed by Joe MacMillan, Denver architect.

The structure will be of prestressed concrete and will have a built-up roof of tar and gravel.

It will contain a total capacity of 2,700 animals and is located on a 12 acre site which provides space for future expansion of double its initial size.

The lower level wings will be used for priming areas and will have a constant 40-degree temperature.

The corporation's animals and also those housed on a contract basis will be reared in this area from new growth to prime condition. This includes the eight to 11 month age.

The center section of the lower level will house the feeding and service areas including a labortary for complete culture work for animals in isolation and for artifical insemmination work.

The upper floor will have the feeding and service areas and will house the breeding herds.

The sales, service and administrative offices will be located in the front part of the main upper wing.

The corporation was formed in January of this year and will employ three persons to start, officials said.

COLD STATISTICS

NEW YORK (UPI) — A total of 12.6 billion pounds of frozen foods were produced in the United States in 1966, according to Swanson, producer of frozen food products. Sales were approximately $6.3 billion for the year, latest for which figures are available.

By 1976, it is estimated, frozen food production will be 28.1 billion pounds and sales will reach approximately $15.5 billion.

Phil Long Ford Names New Car Sales Manager

Bobby Maroney has been named new car sales manager of the Phil Long Ford firm during the past week.

The announcement was made by Joe Bishop, general manager of the firm.

Maroney will supervise the firm's 14 sales representatives and have charge of an inventory of 400 cars in 49 models.

Maroney is a native of New Orleans and prior to World War II, studied law at Louisiana State University.

During the war he served as a radio operator with the U.S. Navy in the Pacific War Theater.

In 1945 he was employed at a steamship line in New Orleans and later was associated with his brother in the paint contracting business before starting a used car business in 1949.

He then went to Houston, Tex., and became a used car sales representative for the Jacoby Pearson Ford Co., until 1955 when he was employed by the Don McMillian Ford Firm in the new car sales department.

From 1963 to the present time, he worked for the Joe Myers Ford firm in Houston.

He is a member of the First Baptist Church and the Houston Lions Club.

He and his wife Dorothy are the parents of three children, Cindy and Richard living at home and a married son.

The family will arrive in Colorado Springs this summer and will reside at 1618 Kodiak Dr.

CARMEL APARTMENTS — Rustic beauty and restful environment surround the Carmel Apartments, a 78-unit, professionally landscaped structure in Pikes Peak Park. The $800,000 complex was recently completed and is fully rented. A development of Shepard Companies Inc., it was built by Godwin Bevers Inc., with Mowry Gilbert architect.

Carmel Apartments Are Bright Spot in the City

O. F. "Bud" Shepard, president of The Shepard Companies Inc., today announced the completion of the Carmel Apartments, a 78-unit, three story air conditioned, landscaped structure located in Pikes Peak Park.

The development offers one of Colorado Springs most beautifully landscaped apartments located in an attractive quiet neighborhood with a magnificent view of the Colorado rockies.

The individual units, among the most spacious in Colorado Springs, offer complete air conditioning, cable vision TV, General Electric kitchens, distinctive carpeting and draperies, an ample amount of storage space, separate furnaces in each apartment, sound proof floors and walls, coin operated laundry facilities, garbage disposal services, and ample off street parking with all utilities furnished.

Shepard indicated that he was most pleased with public acceptance of the development. The entire 78 unit complex is fully rented, this being accomplished three weeks prior to the opening of the structure.

He further commented that "our concept in creating the Carmel Apartments was to offer the consumer the most spacious and luxurious apartment unit at the lowest possible rent structure in the Pikes Peak Region, while providing the resident with a comfortable, restful environment surrounded in a landscaped world of evergreens, shade trees, rock gardens and shrubs which enables one to feel proud of the place wherein he or she resides."

The Carmel is professionally landscaped with large caliber spruces, poplars, hopi crabs, golden rain trees, pinions, ponderosa pines and fine old shade trees such as sunburst locust and Norway maples.

Interspersed among the trees are creative landscaped mounds, with specimen lichen boulders, evergreen and deciduous shrubs complimenting swaths of perennials of all colors and descriptions.

At night the unit becomes a landscaped world emersed in clusters of soft gold lights illuminated by post lamps which cast shadows on the rock formations and mounds.

The building was designed by Mowry Gilbert, architect, and constructed by Godwin Bevers Inc. of Colorado Springs.

Interior decor was accomplished by Sawyer Interiors. David A. Clinger was the landscape architect, in association with Gernot Heinrichsdorff, owner of Garden Construction and Landscape Co.

Cost of the buildings, grounds and amenities exceeded 800,000 dollars. The development will be fully completed by the end of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Collins are resident managers of the Carmel Apartments.

NEW LOCATION — Shown here is the new location of Mill Outlet Fabrics, a firm which features the sale of drapery, slip cover and upholstery materials and related supplies. The firm recently moved from 1921 N. Weber where it operated for the past three years.

Mill Outlet Fabrics Opens in New Location

The new facility contains 7,200 square feet of sales and display space, more than double the area it occupied at its former quarters, 1921 N. Weber St.

Richard H. Wightman and his wife Betty opened the shop in 1965 at the Weber Street location. They report that the business has continually expanded since and is now 12 times larger.

The firm features the sale of drapery, slip cover and upholstery materials as well as a complete line of dress goods, fabrics and related supplies to these articles.

Weightman said the shop offers a free decoraitng service and can arrange for making custon drapes, slip covers and upholstering.

The facility has a large variety of materials on hand and provides immediate customer service without ordering delays.

Weightman pointed out that increases in demand now requires expanded traveling on the east coast during buying trips. Buying directly from the mills makes possible the elimination of wholesaler operations which results in lower costs to the customer.

The continued expansion of population and businesses in the Colorado Springs area have resulted in increased demand for decorator-type fabrics. More people are becoming interested in a do-it-yourself operation in the fabric, dress-making and upholstery field, Weightman said.

The firm's four employes are veterans in this field and are qualified to advise those interested in making dresses or draperies, he said.

The new location has off-street parking for 36 vehicles for those interested in visiting the shop.

Weightman is a native of Washington D.C., and retired from 20-year service with the U.S. Army with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

He served in the European War Theater during World War II and in Korea during the height of that conflict.

He is a graduate of Virginia Military Institute and has a BA degree in English.

He and his wife are the parents of five children, four of which are married and one living at home.

La Vista Is Under New Ownership

The La Vista Apartment Complex, 1030 W. Moreno St., was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. James G. Kegler, Wednesday, for an undisclosed amount.

The 14-unit, four story brick complex was built by Charles M. Loughrey and George A. Fagin.

MECHANIC SHORTAGE

CHICAGO (UPI) — The greatest nation on wheels may be hard pressed by 1975 to keep those wheels rolling because of a lack of trained mechanics, estimated today at approximately 100,000.

The need to attract and train young mechanics, according to Harry Wright, president of the Independent Garage Owners of America, now is critical since by 1975 there will be an estimated 126.3 million registered drivers and 118.3 million vehicles. There presently are more than 100 million drivers and about 95 million autos, trucks and buses.

The Independent Garage Owners association, numbering more than 4,000, has established an extensive training program to insure a sufficient number of trained mechanics for the future.

Local Agents To Attend Plan Seminar

Two representatives of Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co. in Colorado Springs have qualified for certificates of achievement for having completed the company's advanced seminar in pension and profit-sharing planning, held at Caravan Inn, Sacramento, Calif., during the past week.

They are: Freal C. Knox, district manager; and John L. Wiman, CLU, special representative.

Both men were among 40 Jefferson Standard representatives who were invited to attend the seminar because of their outstanding records with the Company.

FUTURE TV SET

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Television sets of the future probably will be no thicker than a slice of bread and no larger than a pack of cigarettes. Technology developed at RCA's laboratories here has produced a number of experimental electronic devices that employ liquid crystals and are expected to lead to many potentially important revisions of present products and many new ones.

Liquid crystals eventually will be used in television sets, electronic wrist watches that have no moving parts, stock tickers, scoreboards and other flat display devices, the RCA experts say.

United Receives $700,000 DC-8 Training Job

United Air Lines announced today it has received a $700,000 contract from Universal Airlines, Inc., which will provide initial DC-8 training for the latter's flight crews, navigators and stewardesses.

All will be receiving transition training for Universal's new DC-8-61s.

The flight training will be conducted at United's new $30 million Flight Training Center in Denver, according to Captain James E. Cross, director of the facility. Over-water ditching procedures will be held in San Francisco.

A three-week course for 77 Universal Airlines stewardesses will be held at United's Stewardess School in suburban Chicago.

In addition to the initial training program, Universal's flight crews will return semi-annually to United's Denver training facility for proficiency and recurrent training, Captain Cross said.

Transition training for the 45 Universal pilots, co-pilots and flight engineers, and 11 navigators is scheduled to begin on August 5 and be completed before October 1.

The flight crews will be divided into three seven-week courses, which will include three weeks of ground school, two weeks of simulator training and two weeks of flight training.

A two-day ditching program will be included. The flight engineers also will receive a 40-hour maintenance course, Captain Cross said.

The Universal navigators will undergo a seven - day course plus two days of ditching procedures and a week of check rides on flights between the West Coast and Hawaii.

All training will be to United's standards, Captain Cross said.

Traffic Data Systems Signs State Contract

Traffic Data Systems, Inc., Colorado Springs, announced today the receipt of a contract from the Colorado State Highway Dept. for a complete statewide traffic counting system.

John D. David, president, stated, "This is a milestone in the traffic industry. It will provide the State of Colorado with the first modern electronic traffic data acquisition system in the U.S."

The research and planning division of the Colorado Highway Dept. has worked nearly three years developing the concept, testing equipment and refining specifications with the assistance of the Bureau of Public Roads, Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the traffic industry.

Traffic Data Systems' counting system extensively utilizes the latest techniques in integrated circuit technology to achieve unparalleled economy, simplicity and versatility.

Only two slightly different models are required to provide all traffic counting functions at 45 locations throughout the state, varying from two to eight lanes of traffic at each location.

Each counting system accepts count information from vehicle detectors buried in the pavement, and stores this count in a number of electronic counters.

At selected time intervals, a special Automatic Calling Unit, developed by Mountain States Telephone, calls each counting station on leased telephone lines.

The count information is received in the highway dept. offices in Denver, where it is automatically recorded on computer tape, ready for electronic data processing.

According to Norman Kier, vice president of marketing at Traffic Data Systems, this electronic traffic data acquisition system will not only improve the accuracy and efficiency of collecting this essential information, but will provide a direct savings of several thousand dollars per year as compared to present methods.

Kier added, "This new concept will rapidly spread to all states as they discover the economy of this automatic traffic data acquisition system.

The TDS data phone counter system will materially assist the highway research and planning specialists in acquiring the necessary data for better planning of new construction and improved utilization of existing highways."

Local Meat Packing Firm Completes New Expansion

The Colorado Springs Packing Co., 3204 N. Cascade Ave., has recently completed a $100,000 expansion program.

Ray Dunlap and Charles Reinert, co-owners of the firm, report that 4,500 square feet have been added to the plant which includes a new beef cooler, plus processing and cooking rooms.

The cooler, in addition to pork and lamb meat cuts, contains space for 210 been quarters.

The processing room is complete with new equipment for the conditioning of portion controlled steaks and chops and cooking facilities in the cooking room in the near future will include two, 100-gallon cookers for the preparation of corn beef, roasts and the rendering of shortening.

Also installed is new dock equipment which provides a seal around trucks being loaded to maintain constant refrigerated temperature.

The firm has recently added five employes, bringing the employe total to 20.

Continued growth of business required the expansion the owners said.

The company now provides choice and pime quality meats to hotels and restaurants throughout four Rocky Mountain States.

The expansion enables the company to provide large quanitities of steaks and chops for any size banquet or other order up 10,000 individual cuts.

The firm can now process approximately 40,000 pounds of meat per week.

Ike Reported Past Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's Army doctors strongly indicated Friday he had passed the crisis period of immediate danger from his recent major heart attack.

In a medical bulletin, the Walter Reed Army Hospital physicians reported they "are pleased with Gen. Eisenhower's continuing progress."

As though to underscore their optimism, they announced that henceforth they planned to discontinue daily bulletins on their patient's condition—and would issue bulletins only if some presently unforeseen change in his condition warrants it.

And the hospital's public information office — open around the clock since the general was stricken last Saturday—planned to close down for the weekend as it normally does.

FUNDS ANNOUNCED

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)— W. W. Collins, regional administrator for the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said Thursday Colorado would receive about $42 million in urban renewal funds. Collins said Denver led the state with $38,656,582 in funds committed.

Pollard Is Elected Ski Patrol Director

DENVER, (AP) — Harry G. Pollard Jr., 61, Rye Beach, N.H., was elected Friday as national director of the National Ski Patrol System.

The action came at the 30th annual meeting of the system, which includes more than 15,000 registered ski patrolmen in 800 patrols throughout the United States and Europe.

Elected treasurer was Robert H. Young Jr., Flint, Mich.

Pollard was appointed a patrolman in 1939 and was serving as eastern divisional chairman when he was elevated.

The patrol system has its headquarters here.

Warren Left Mark on U.S. With Decisions

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We are under one Constitution," Charles Evans Hughes said years before he became chief justice, "but the Constitution is what the judges say it is."

In May 1954, less than a year after Earl Warren became chief justice, the Supreme Court decided to a man that the Constitution flatly forbids racial segregation in public schools.

"We conclude," Warren wrote, "that in the field of public education the doctrine of separate but equal has no place. Separate educational facilities are inherently unequal."

With that pronouncement the justices completely reversed the 1896 Supreme Court. Back then, the Constitution had meant Negro and white children could be consigned to separate schools if the facilities were equal.

The 1954 school decision set the activist tone of the Warren court. It carried through this court's last day, Monday, when a virtually forgotten Reconstruction-era civil rights law was ruled to be a flat ban on racial discrimination in housing sales and rentals.

"I'd just like to be remembered, now and hereafter," Warren said on his 70th birthday seven years ago, "as having done the best I could in the offices I have held."

The notices have been mixed. Some law professors have said the court sometimes has bitten off an indigestible amount of red meat.

Rep. Charles H. Wilson, a California Democrat, once observed: "Our entire way of life in this country is being revised and remoulded by the nine justices of the Supreme Court."

There are billboards along some of the nation's highways that read: "Impeach Earl Warren." When he left the New York City Bar Association building in mid-Manhattan the night of Oct. 29, 1963, pickets hurled placards and leaflets at him.

The silver-haired Warren, a bulky six-footer, usually takes no public notice of criticism, verbal or otherwise. Years ago, though, he told a reporter: "Sometimes it makes you cringe to see what other people write and say."

Warren was governor of California and had been for 10 years when President Dwight D. Eisenhower picked him in 1953 to succeed Chief Justice Fred Vinson.

At Vinson's death the court was largely conservative, though Justices Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas, mainly, sought to swing it otherwise.

Warren was known as a liberal Republican. He had bid for the GOP presidential nomination in 1948 and 1952, got second place on Thomas E. Dewey's losing ticket in 1948. He was named chief justice, some observers said, for throwing his convention support to Eisenhower in 1952.

The court's liberal majority grew gradually with changes in personnel. Eventually the government would be forced to go slowly in branding federal workers security risks and the range of subversion-hunting congressional committees would be narrowed.

A political revolution was brought off in two steps in 1964. First Black, in February for a 6-3 court, announced that the Constitution requires congressional districts within each state to be substantially equal in population.

In June, with Warren delivering the 6-3 ruling, the court held districts in both houses of state legislatures must be substantially equal in population.

The rural voter's voice in his city cousin's affairs was muted drastically and cities and suburbs overthrew long-entrenched rural power across the land.

Years ago, as district attorney in California's Alameda County and as attorney general, Warren was a tough prosecutor. His father had been bludgeoned to death in a petty holdup.

During World War II he urged that all persons of Japanese ancestry be moved inland.

And yet compassion was obvious in this remark he once made: "I never heard a jury bring in a verdict of guilty but that I felt sick in the pit of my stomach."

As chief justice, Warren often bore down on lawyers arguing criminal cases with the question: "But, is it fair?"

The court threw out extorted confessions, expanded the appeals rights of indigent prisoners and, in June 1966, set down rules for police to follow in questioning suspects.

The most important were that a man could not be forced to speak and that he could get a free lawyer if he was poorand free lawyer if he was poor and asked for one.

In the 5-4 decision, Warren said: "The current practice of incommunicado interrogation is at odds with one of our nation's most cherished principles — that the individual may not be compelled to incriminate himself."

This made it tougher for police to rely on confessions to solve crimes and some complained they were handcuffed, that the court was coddling criminals. Some other officers disagreed.

The school desegregation ruling and a court-imposed ban on required Bible-reading in the public schools already had antagonized many congressmen of conservative bent. The criminal-law decisions were to some the last straw.

Business Makes More Jobs for Ghetto Dwellers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—American businessmen have provided nearly 250,000 additional jobs for ghetto-dwellers in the past six months, the National Alliance of Businessmen reported to President Johnson Friday.

Alliance officials drew commendation from the chief executive for securing 133,000 job pledges in June from firms across the country for hard-core unemployed—one third more than the goal set.

At the same time, Mr. Johnson urged the group to "redouble your efforts to secure the 200,000 jobs for needy in our cities this summer."

In a telegram to Henry Ford II, alliance chairman, Johnson called on the group "for an all-out drive to meet your youth quota."

"Only you can answer the question whether this summer will be a time of hope and opportunity—or a time of frustration and despair—for the youths in our cities," Johnson said.

The alliance reported placing 30,000 ghetto youths in summer jobs so far and said it has secured 110,000 additional summer job pledges so far.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen says that after the Supreme Court's broad housing discrimination ruling Monday there is no reason why cities and states should bother with any more legislation against discrimination in sale or rental of housing.

A $4 billion authorization—trimmed by about $357 million—for the civilian space program has been sent to President Johnson by Congress. The House, which had cut $339 million from the administration's $4.37-billion request, quickly agreed Tuesday to an additional $18 million cut by the Senate.

Quarter Million Given to JFK Memorial Library

NEW YORK (AP) — Author William Manchester and publishers Harper & Row have contributed $750,000 from the profits of "The Death of a President," the book which stirred a bitter dispute with the Kennedy family, to the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library at Harvard University.

Sources close to Manchester and the Kennedy family said Thursday the donation, called for in the original agreement for publishing the book, was made in late May. It was acknowledged by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy prior to the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy was quoted by the New York Times as saying: "I think it is so beautiful what Mr. Manchester did. I am glad that Sen. Kennedy knew about it before he died.

"All the pain of the book and now this noble gesture, of such generosity, makes the circle come around and close with healing."

Sources close to the family agreed that the donation and the maner in which it was received wrote an end to the feud which erupted in headlines in late 1966

The controversy began when Mrs. Kennedy, after several of her advisors read proofs of the book, protested that portions of it were too personal.

An out-of-court settlement was reached in January 1967 with an agreement on certain cuts in the text.

Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever Striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place in which to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control. No more. No less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Political Actionists

We have long suspected that people who — neglecting their own business and attempting to meddle in the business of others — make use of the secret ballot and club of political coercion to impose their ideas, their values, upon other people are emotionally, perhaps even psychotically, disturbed. Now comes a noted psychiatrist whose research tends to support our views.

Writing in his column in the issue of McCall's Magazine which will be on the stands by the time this is read New York psychiatrist, Doctor Theodore Rubin, psychoanalyzes what he calls "disturbed" people and discusses the causes and types of candidates they tend to support at the political polls.

He said that "disturbed" people tend to be "more rigid, prejudiced, and often repetitious in their choices." In explaining some examples of such "choices," Rubin noted that, for the most part, such people are unaware of what their choice is based on, "since the motivating forces are on a relatively unconscious level." He then went on to list some examples:

The masochistic woman who votes for the candidate who seems to be the most arrogant and vindictive.

The compulsively gregarious, overtalkative woman who votes for the most detached, reserved, silent candidate. "She has," notes the Doctor, "always confused silence and reserve with profundity, acuity, and strength."

The homosexual man who votes for the man who is most attractive to him, but who "tells himself" that his "choice" is based on "logical merit."

The woman who votes for the candidate who reminds her most of her father.

The woman who votes against all candidates who remind her of hated authoritarian parents. "She will vote," says Rubin, "for the candidate who seems most unconventional and rebellious, although she herself is likely to live in a very conservative, conforming, and constructive way."

The man who has never resolved severe problems with his father. He, Rubin observed, "unconsciously sees competent men as competitors, enemies, and potential castrators, and he votes for the man who seems the least determined and easiest to manipulate." He "rationalizes" his vote, the Doctor noted, on the basis of "humanity, warmth, understanding, and flexibility."

The person with a weak sense of identity who sees any change as a threat to his (or her) well-being and makes frequent statements like, "Don't rock the boat," "Don't change horses in midstream," and "We must finish what we started." Such people, the Doctor added, tend to vote for people already in office or for the candidate who, for them, represents no change.

The woman who projects her self-hatred onto people who most remind her of herself. She invariably votes, said Rubin, for the candidate who seems to be least like her; often, someone from an ethnic, religious, social or economic group that is just the reverse of her own. "She will rationalize her choice," observed the Doctor, "on the basis of 'See how liberal I am.'"

The "narcissistic men or women" who "feel safe" only voting for a person who, as much as possible, reminds them of themselves.

The woman who is terrified of anger, who predicates her life on "being nice," on being "universally loved," on never ruffling anybody's "feelings." She votes, says Rubin, "for the candidate who seems most compliant and self-effacing and who is least likely to 'make waves.' Occasionally, she does a complete about face and votes for the man who seems most arrogant, vindictive, angry and punitive." This, added Rubin, is her "equivalent" for an "unconscious temper tantrum, although she may explain it very sweetly with, 'I don't know, I just have the strangest feeling that he is the right man.'"

And, lastly, the person who feels downtrodden, used, exploited, and persecuted by an "uncaring world." This disturbed person, Rubin said, identifies with the "underdog, seeks him out, and votes for him."

All in all, we'd say, the Rubin analysis doesn't speak too well for the irrational game of politics.

Editor and Publisher Magazine

"I have to say that I deeply resent and so do my colleagues, the repeated implication by spokesmen of the legal profession that journalism is a shoddy, money-grubbing business with no morals, no scruples and no ethics. We newspapermen do not believe that a law degree makes a man more honorable than a degree in journalism, or that elevation to the bench amounts to canonization. I have absolutely no doubt that the free press in America has prevented and corrected far more injustice than it has committed." Those were the words of Clifton Daniel, managing editor of the New York Times, in a recent debate with Justice Paul Reardon of the fair trial-free press issue. Mr. Daniel probably did not intend to place himself in the position of defender of the faith but it could not have been stated better.

Toward a Reduction of Violence

Once more a well-known American has been the victim of an assassin's bullet. And once more the Establishment, with great show of piety and concern, has rushed forward in an apparent effort to enact the legal measures which are said to represent the latest martyr's dearest wishes.

But there's a curious failure to make comment right where it ought to be made. The matter was overlooked to a degree when Martin Luther King was struck down, and it has been entirely overlooked now that Robert Kennedy has joined him in death.

Indeed, ever since the assassin's attempt and even while Robert Kennedy lay mortally wounded but still breathing, the Establishment was moving as frantically as possible to focus everyone's attention on fire-arms, in an effort to obtain some kind of anti-gun legislation.

But this was not really the major concern of Robert Kennedy. Indeed, he had had some misgivings about too broad an approach to anti-gun laws, although he favored every legal device that could be contrived which he thought might serve to reduce crime.

But the major cause which had enlisted Robert Kennedy and had served to push him into the presidential race was his hostility to the Vietnam war. Curiously, this was also a major objective of Dr. King.

And while the Establishment is most eager to make it appear that it can't do enough to end violence and attain whatever objectives and aims these American martyrs sought, there has been little evidence that anything will be done to halt the making of war as a governmental policy.

So, while the nation mourns the death of Robert Kennedy, little is said about the deaths of more than four hundred equally fine Americans who were killed on foreign soil during the week of the California primary. We dramatize and put on nineteen-day funerals for the great and the would-be great, but the unsung heroes are those who were drafted and forced into servitude on foreign soil. If there were a shred of decency in Establishment hearts, the responsible parties would now join hands at once to stop this violence. And one can't help but marvel at the hypocrisy of those in power who plead for non-violence on one hand and plan future military forays during the same day. Pretending to be shocked and stunned over an assassination attempt would lose its phoniness if an equal amount of shock and grief accompanied the Vietnam war.

I have noted that Mr. Johnson has appointed a commission, headed by Milton Eisenhower, to study the causes of violence in the nation. Whenever public anger and disgust reach a danger level, the President takes off some of the pressure by appointing a commission to do something.

But if Mr. Johnson and the others who express great concern over the violence in our streets really want to conduct an honest study, they can begin in the White House and include the halls of Congress, and come right on down to state and local government operations. We are a culture that has erected its structure on violence. That it may crop up privately on occasion is certainly not surprising. Indeed, it is predictable that there will be more of it. We have lived constantly with the violence of government pressing upon us. Americans are taxed, regulated, suspected, charged, investigated, fined, drafted, and jailed. And who does all this? Their government, which for many years has been a government of the government, by the government, and for the government.

If you would like to see an end to assassinations, let the government begin by stopping the war, cutting out the taxes, and abolishing investigations, so that average, normal people can be let alone.

Skull and Crossbones

The Food & Drug Administration Rates Such a Label

THE weight of kudos heaped upon a public figure, so Barron's has observed before, nowadays varies inversely with the size of his achievement. To nobody's surprise, therefore, the recent resignation of Dr. James L. Goddard as head of the Food & Drug Administration evoked a ponderous heap of praise. "A devoted and effective public servant," editorialized The New York Times. His successor, echoed Senator Jacob Javits (R., N.Y.), must be somebody "of great energy, substantial professional status and considerable courage." Perhaps the most striking, if unexpected, tribute came from the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, which had good cause to view the official's departure as something less than a bitter pill. "We have never hesitated to express our strong feelings that Dr. Goddard's constant, publicized criticism of the drug industry has too often been precipitous and unjustified," acknowledged the PMA. "At the same time," the Association added generously, "we make no secret of our belief that Dr. Goddard brought aggressive and energetic leadership to the FDA . . . We would hope for the appointment of an equally active successor . . ."

Whether Dr. Herbert L. Ley, Jr. (who was named to the post last Thursday) will fill the bill remains to be seen. In the case of the Food & Drug Administration, however, it should be painfully clear by now that activity does not necessarily mean progress. During Dr. Goddard's hyper-thyroid tenure, FDA lost no opportunity to throw its weight around, on issues ranging from the efficacy of food supplements and vitamins to the propriety of pharmaceutical advertising. At the same time, the agency—like a doctor who treats a patient for acne and ignores the ravages of cancer—allowed hundreds of new drug applications to pile up unprocessed, to the point where U.S. medical advance, once the wonder of the Western World, is lagging behind that of Europe, while thousands of afflicted Americans, unlike their counterparts in more civilized climes, suffer needless agonies. By the protracted delay imposed on the marketing of some new remedies, as well as by irrational opposition to others, FDA has become a menace to the nation's health and welfare.

Through wilful contempt for due process of law, it also constitutes a spreading blight on the body politic. Years ago we castigated the Food & Drug Administration for abusing its regulatory authority by employing such extra-legal devices as hidden tape-recorders. Under Dr. Goddard the malignancy burgeoned to alarming size. With scant regard for Constitutional guarantees of free speech, FDA decreed that corporate press releases and interviews fall into the category of advertising, for which it alone may set standards. Since the turn of the year, in a dispute with Western Research Laboratories of Denver, FDA has not blinked at issuing misleading public statements, filing dubious affidavits and staging illegal acts of search and seizure. In the guise of protecting the consumer, finally, it has stifled research and restrained competition. The so-called public interest, as we have said before, covers a multitude of sins. Given a thick enough sugar coating, people may be induced to swallow unadulterated poison.

If Truth-in-Packaging doesn't compel FDA to sport a skull and crossbones, it should. Under legislation passed by a panicky Congress in 1962, as well as on its own authority, the agency has succeeded in choking off the bulk of the flow of pharmaceutical developments to market. In 1961, before the thalidomide scare, U.S. drug manufacturers introduced 265 products and 41 new chemical entities. Last year's comparable figures—despite a vast upsurge in public and private spending on all kinds of scientific research—were 83 and 25 (up from a dismal low of 13), respectively. According to Walter A. Munns, former head of PMA and chairman of the board of Smith Kline & French Laboratories: "It takes seven years, on the average, to get a new chemical entity to market from the time of first synthesis, at an after-tax cost of $7 million." Seven years and thousands of lives after someone comes up with a cure for cancer, FDA may give it a seal of approval.

While publicly deploring such trends, established drug makers — not altogether painfully—appear to be learning to live with them. PMA's cautious tribute to retiring Commissioner Goddard has been cited. The Association, moreover, has been notably silent on pending legislation, which, by transferring FDA's licensing and policing authority over drugs to the National Academy of Sciences, in effect would gut the agency. The chairman of Smith Kline & French has gone even further by urging that FDA be empowered to license not only drugs but also drug manufacturers, the classic prescription for legalized restraint of trade.

Government-industry "cooperation" might be easy to take for those directly concerned, but third parties are apt to suffer. Indeed, a great many people unknowingly have suffered at the agency's hands. A case in point involves the use of a combination of thyroid and vitamin B-12 in the prevention of blindness befalling unfortunates afflicted by both diabetes and atherosclerosis. While the Vascular Research Foundation of Roslyn Heights, L.I., has compiled over a decade of successful experience with the formulation, FDA continues to interfere with its advertising and availability. As to other horrible examples, Stanley W. Jacob, M.D., Associate Professor of Surgery at the University of Oregon Medical School, cites the case of tegritol, a specific for the excruciating pain of tic douloureux, which FDA took six years to license, as well as that of Zyloprim, a new drug approved after half-a-decade for the treatment of chronic gouty arthritis.

The case of dimethyl-sulfoxide (DMSO) is even more shocking. A truly miracle drug, DMSO, according to authoritative findings, has significant medical value in the treatment of a long list of ailments for which no other specific exists, according to Dr. Jacob, who perhaps boasts as much experience with it as anyone: "DMSO is the treatment of choice for severe acute musculoskeletal trauma, acute and chronic bursitis and intractable pain problems. . . . Potential value of DMSO has been reported for cancer, stroke and heart disease." Though licensed for use in Germany a year ago, the drug has been banned in this country even for clinical research since the fall of 1965, when FDA, on the basis of damage done to the eyes of dogs which had been given mammoth quantities, decided that it was unsafe for human beings.

Dr. Jacob has paid for his temerity in repeated harassment by FDA agents, including the illegal search and seizure of files of personal correspondence and threats of blacklisting and criminal prosecution. Indeed, as Western Research Laboratories could testify, intimidation and abuse of authority seem to have become standard operating procedure. Though the company has been turning out a combination of thyroid and digitalis for weight reduction since 1934, FDA, without a word of warning or previous complaint, abruptly seized an estimated $200,000 worth of its product in mid-January. Nicely timed to coincide with the start of a Congressional investigation, as well as a shoddy little expose in Life, the seizure ignored certain legal niceties, such as a valid affidavit from the local FDA official, as well as a genuine cause of action (similar pills in much larger quantities from other sources remain on the market). FDA subsequently charged that the products were improperly labeled and unsafe, claims on which the courts ultimately must pass. What's clear beyond cavil is that the agency's headline-hunting has done the company irreparable harm, and that its police state tactics are sick, sick, sick. Only the next Congress can effect a cure.

Monkeys Find New Home

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Too late to stop the issue, I received a card from my friend, Kenny Englert, Bison rancher of Salida who didn't want to run a monkey "wrench," that a lady in Salida who runs a store decided that she just couldn't live without the little darlings. I did have a couple of local calls, though, in response to my piece about the little squirrel monkeys. Probably could have sold them both. One reader wanted a boy monkey as a male companion for her girl monkey. She must want to start a monkey wrench.

Kenny was on his way to the Republican convention at Aspen and happy that the little creatures had found a happy home with a gal who adores them.

THINK COOL

Flatlanders who have been complaining of the cold lately had a little taste of warm weather today, June 17. Anyhow, it felt sorta warm to Tammy and I over at Santa's Work Shop. But the visitors thought it was just right. When it's hot here it is so much cooler than their cool spells that they enjoy the cool while we complain of the heat.

Adam Lyre says he knew an old timer who had lived in and around Needles, California most of his life. He was an old desert rat, grizzled and dried out and close onto 100. Well, this old guy kicked off one morning and they buried him that evening. But, after spending one night in hell, the old geezer came back to Needles next day looking for some blankets.

ADAM IS SORE

After my two recent columns on the early day history of Colorado City were published Adam Lyre cornered me and said belligerently, "You holler your head off when somebody misspells a word of your copy, but you play fast and loose with important historical dates with my tale, 'Easy to Frame—Ready to Hang,' and never make an effort to correct it. You want the readers to think the error was mine. You know darned well that I said 1860 was the year AFTER Old Town was founded, but you said it was founded that year."

"That's right," I said, "and I noticed the mistake and was just going to correct it when the phone rang and I forgot all about it and mailed the story in. I'm sorry and I'll see that it doesn't happen again."

"You'd better be sorry," he said, "I was going to give you a cool tale for a hot night and one that would help cool off your readers. But I don't want it hashed up."

"I'll do my best to get it straight," I said, "and I have this much space to fill, so keep it short."

'Well, he began, "you remember the winter years ago when I helped Mr. Medlock put up ice on Monument Lake?" I said I remembered it as being the winter of 1928-'29 and he said I was right. The rest of this column is written to his dictation.

"Harvesting ice on a cold, windy day is about as disagreeable a job as you could find. That was an exceptionally cold winter, as I recall, and they had a hard time keeping men. Some would invariably sleep in every morning and others just drifted off to warmer climes. On paydays they would use their paychecks to start a little fire by which to warm their hands.

"But I didn't work there more than three days before I revolutionized the ice business. We were storing the ice cakes in a huge icehouse whose thick walls were insulated with sawdust.

" 'Mr. Medlock,' I said one morning, 'isn't it possible to keep ice all summer by covering it with sawdust?'

' "Sure enough,' he said.

' "Well then,' I said, 'let us cover the lake with sawdust and you can cut the ice next summer when the weather will undoubtedly be warmer.'

' "What a perfectly marvelous idea,' said Mr. Medlock, 'Wonder why no one ever thought of it before!'

"So we tore down the old icehouse and spread the sawdust about two feet deep all over the lake, the job being a much nicer one for winter time and lasting as long as the ice harvest would have lasted.

"The following summer was one of our hottest and, right after the Fourth of July, we went out on the lake with bulldozers and pushed off the sawdust and started harvesting the ice. Men actually fought for a chance to work on such a nice, cool job. And Monument became the first place in the world to harvest its ice crops in the middle of the summer.

"My idea would have been a boon to humanity only the ice business was on its way out before I dreamed it up. It's too bad I didn't get an ice job years before, think of all the misery I could have saved the ice workers."

That's his story and I'm stuck with it. Cool and pleasant dreams to you all. I am going to take a tall, cold libation and hit the sack. Adam is finishing a book entitled, "30 Years in the Frozen North." I read it years ago and it will send chills up your spine, even on the hottest night.

IN APPRECIATION

To the Editor:

I wish to express my appreciation, and that of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, Massachusetts, for the splendid coverage you gave our Annual Meeting in Boston in your issue of June 4th.

The majority of news stories submitted by us to you are published and we enjoy excellent cooperation through Mrs. Erwin and Mrs. Ramsell, for both our church listings and our display advertising. Our only complaint might be that our radio series "The Bible Speaks To You" announcements do not always appear on the same page as the regular radio listings in Leasuretime. We appreciate that sometimes there is a space problem but would certainly like to have our radio series listed near those regularly listed.

Our thanks to you and to all concerned with our advertising.

ANOTHER DIES

To the Editor:

Robert Kennedy is dead. Another man is shot down for participating in the fundamental basis of our federal government. And we ask again, "What is this country coming to when a man is killed for serving his country?"

But is this a new trend or has it always been in the basic character of man? Didn't we nail justice to a cross and didn't we bury truth in a tomb? And don't we write half-truths on a paper and fight a war? Then, don't we write half-truths on another paper and stop a war? And don't the wars go on and on?

Don't we find it easier to shout in anger rather than discuss in good faith? Don't we gather around a conference table to talk but seldom listen and never want to understand?

And don't we always say, "I'm not prejudiced but I don't want to associate with them." and "I just don't want to get involved." And isn't it an understood fact that religion and politics don't mix but guns and butter do?

But it gives me courage to know that justice didn't die on the cross and truth wouldn't stay buried in that long ago tomb. And the wars are stopped, if even for a little while. And I rejoice with hope knowing that the shouting sometimes stops and men reason together and accomplish. And even though full understanding never comes about, a settlement is usually reached only around a conference table.

It seems to be a blessed fact that racism and non-involvement give way to mutual assistance when the power of the heart is allowed to take over the prejudice and fear of the mind.

And although a politician never wins on his morals; some still practice them. And can we take some comfort knowing that a few starving people are fed even though others are killed?

So, there will always be those good people who fall at the hands of non-thinking violence. This threat will always be with us as long as one man speaks and another refuses to listen.

But, thank God, there will always be men, like Robert Kennedy, who stand up and speak out. Let us hope that more men like him stand up and carry the torch of truth.

If this could come about then all the bullets shot by all the misguided individuals could not stop the march of justice towards fulfillment.

FUTILE COMMITTEE

To the Editor:

The president has appointed a committee of civic leaders with instructions to find out why the rebellion, rioting, destruction and crime in the streets.

The members of this committee will not come up with anything new, for they will be taking a look at human nature in action and man has not changed his basic character since the beginning of recorded history.

Rebellion against authority begins with the child at birth or soon thereafter, and it continues until death at old age. What causes the violence in rebellion as evidenced all over the face of the globe as particularly manifest in Vietnam?

We boast about the United States being the most powerful nation in the world. Nations have attained power in the past and lost it. We are a powerful nation because we have been industrious enough as a people to out-produce all other countries. How long will America be able to maintain leadership through power? Only as long as we are able to hold the position of leadership in production.

Man was created to be a producer. Idleness is dead weight on progress and a burden on production. There have always been wealth and poverty in every nation, city and neighborhood. They are both manifestations of the application of individual God given talents and abilities.

Goethe says, "Men are so constituted that every one undertakes what he sees another successful in, whether he has aptitude for it or not."

When one fails alongside another who succeeds the failure breeds frustration and this leads to the destruction of the lives and property. The story of Cain and Abel is an excellent example of such action.

America was established by God-fearing men and the nation prospered mightily. Is it possible that as a nation we are assuming the Cain attitude and departing from the will and purposes of God? If so, what does the future hold?

WHERE, UNCLE?

To the Editor:

When the courts turn criminals loose, and the law lets hoodlums loot and burn our cities, when even the school kids are allowed to riot, when the Government lets a bunch of riffraff move into our Capital, demanding things no country on earth could afford, we are not far from anarchy.

When Martin Luther King started the howl for a guaranteed annual wage for people not to work, the asking price was $3,000 per year. Now the Rev. Abernathy is demanding $5,000 per year. If the politicians give them $5,000 this year, next year they will demand $10,000 per year.

There are millions of people earning less than $5,000 a year. If the politicians give the "poor" people $5,000 per year, everybody earning less than this amount will quit their jobs. In a few years with the higher taxes to pay the non-producers, it will be better to quit a $25,000 a year job and join the parasites. Then, where will Uncle get the money to pay them?

WE SHOULD GIVE RED CHINA OUR SEAT IN THE U.N.

PROBLEMS

To the Editor:

The problem with parents, children and society.

One is to teach ourselves and children at an early age to make their own decision, and not criticize them or others when they make a wrong decision. They will test you many times to see what you will do or say. Give them encouragement when they make a right decision, teach them not to discuss their problems with others as they get much wrong advice. Teach them to form their own solutions.

Parents do this, also, constantly telling their problems to friends and relatives and receive floods of advice then they do not know how to make up their minds or what to do. Make your own decisions, think for yourself, teach your children to think for themselves. If you constantly advise your children and others, they grow up seeking the advice of others.

Parents and children let articles in books, magazines, or friends and relatives advise them on how to run their lives, instead of thinking for themselves.

The world is full of advice and full of people seeking advice when they really do not want advice; they are searching for the secret of thinking for themselves.

Make your own decisions, teach others to make theirs. If you make a mistake, so what? At least you learn from it. Keep on making them, soon you will make less, and you will be thinking for yourself.

People say children are too young to make their own decisions. They are never too young to learn to make them. If you will have faith in them LONG ENOUGH. Do not try to solve your children's or other's mistakes and problems. Let them do it YOU DO YOUR OWN!

Do not make the mistake of thinking of others' problems as being your own. You know what your problems are, and they know what theirs are; also, you and they can see your own problems more clearly, so each should make his own decision. A child's problem is not yours. It's HIS! Another's problem is not yours, it is THEIRS! So if you solve your own, they can solve theirs. Most problems of children are caused by parents and others.

If you are always advising and criticizing children and others — THAT IS YOUR PROBLEM — and it also causes them problems.

Gossiping about others is YOUR PROBLEM and it causes problems to the very ones you are gossipng to and the ones you are gossiping about. So YOU are the problem that causes others problems.

Most people do not know how to think for themselves. They need a book, article or someone else to think for them. Which is what causes them more problems. Soon they are so confused they do not know whose advice to follow. This is what causes children and others to get out of hand. Too many people are dictating how they should be raised. The children want you to raise them on your own decisions — not the decisions of a book or others. You and your children are the only ones that can see your problems clearly. Allow your children to talk to you without interrupting them with advice. They show you the problem.

Too much advice causes you, children and others to become very nervous and they are shy and do things they regret later.

We or others trying to think for our children is what causes them to get out of hand. Sometimes it's other children or other people trying to do their thinking for them. This is why they should be taught to think and make their own decisions, instead of letting others influence them or make up their minds for them. So if we see faults in our children or others, look at our own faults before we criticize or punish them. And soon you will see them change as you have changed.

We must change our individual selves if we expect to change others.

All the information we need is within our own unconscious mind. If we learn to think and draw it fourth the very advice you are asking for, you can think of yourself.

T. E. Nowels Joins Mutual Insurance Firm

T. Ernest Nowels, Colorado Springs life insurance agent, has joined Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., it was announced today by Allen T. Carey, district agent for the Milwaukee-based firm.

A past president of Colorado Springs Assn. of Life Underwriters, Nowels has been active in the insurance field 10 years.

In 1964, he was one of two Colorado Springs men chosen by Denver U.S. National Bank for its annual distinguished life underwriters award.

For the past seven consecutive years he has received the national quality award from National Assn. of Life Underwriters.

Nowels has completed advanced training in estate planning and business insurance and is working towards his CLU degree.

In 1967, he sold and serviced nearly $1½ million of insurance to Pikes Peak area residents.

Born and educated in Colorado Springs, Nowels earned his BA degree in sociology at Whitworth College, Spokane, Wash.

He also studied at Columbia Presbyterian Seminary, Atlanta, Ga. He is a member of First Presbyterian church of Colorado Springs.

Nowels is president of Colorado Springs Kiwanis Club and a past member of Young Life board of directors. He is also well-known locally as a speaker to service, civic and professional organizations.

Nowels and his wife, Patricia Joanne, are parents of four children: David, 12; Terry, 10; Danny, 9; and Jennifer, 6. The family lives at 2315 Chelton Rd.

Northwestern Mutual Life's district office, located at 724 N. Tejon St., now has nine career agents. The 111-year old company has $65 million invested in the Colorado economy, and total assets of $5½ billion. It is the largest life insurance firm west of the Atlantic seaboard.

Danny the Red Gets Pension as Orphan

BONN (UPI)—The Interior Ministry informed Parliament Friday that Daniel Cohn-Bendit, the West German student who led the student revolt in France last month, receives a government pension as an orphan.

Cunningham Joins Legal Division Of Hamilton Co.

Ernest D. Cunningham, former associate professor of law at the U.S. Air Force Academy and former deputy district attorney for the Fourth Judicial District at Colorado Springs, has joined the legal department of Hamilton Management Corporation in the company's home office at Denver.

Announcement of Cunningham's appointment as associate counsel was made by Robert S. Davies, Hamilton's vice president.

A graduate of Columbia College and Columbia Law School in New York City, Cunningham was assigned to Ent Air Force Base as assistant staff judge advocate in 1961, and was transferred to the faculty of the Air Force Academy in 1962.

From 1963 until his appointment to the Hamilton post, he was professor of business, teaching business law and investments, in the Colorado Springs extension division of Southern Colorado State College of Pueblo, and professor of criminal law in the Colorado Springs extension division of Arapahoe Junior College of Littleton.

He left the service with the rank of captain in 1965, and served one year as deputy district attorney before going into general practice.

Cunningham was born in New York City and grew up on Long Island. He is a member of the Pikes Peak Kiwanis Club.

Hamilton Management Corp., a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., is investment advisor and distributor of Hamilton Funds, Inc., a registered common stock mutual fund whose shares are distributed in 48 states and 28 foreign areas.

NATIONAL RECOGNITION — Ron's Body Shop, 210 S. 20th St., has been cited by the 3M Corp. for skill in craftsmanship and production and as a vehicle for advertising brochures appearing in 22 trade and house organ publications throughout the world. Ron D. Cogdill, owner of the shop, has been in the auto body repair business for the past 10 years and now has four employes. His skill in auto refinishing has won him many trophies, according to the brochure. In 1958 he won the Sweepstakes Trophy in Colorado given to the grand champion for "best of show" with a 1929 model A Ford. He is also a race driver and holds the all-time lap speed record at the Pikes Peak Speedway. The brochure also contains pictures of Cogdill and his employes at work on various phases of car refinishing with the aid of 3M automotive tools and materials. Cogdill is shown here in front of his shop.

Once you take a really close look at this '68 Impala Custom Coupe, chances are you won't care what other people's 1969's are going to look like. But we'll tell you anyway.

This particular model—with its formal "notchback" roof line—is the most popular one we build. Which means it's by far the most popular '68 anybody builds. Which means (and this is an open secret around Detroit these days) some other cars are going to look a lot like it in '69.

In fact, you'll probably see quite a few Chevrolet niceties on other people's "new" models. Things like disappearing windshield wipers and the protective vinyl insert that runs along the side molding of this year's Impala.

Frankly, we're kind of used to being borrowed from this way by now. Whether it's styling, riding comfort or just plain painstaking workmanship, we know that putting you first keeps us first. And we can't blame other carmakers for wanting to catch up.

But meantime the thing for you to do is drop down and have a talk with your Chevrolet dealer now. Great as our styling looks on this '68 Impala, we can't promise it's going to look so good on a '69 something else.

Bonus Savings Plan 1 Any Chevrolet or Chevelle with 200-hp Turbo-Fire V8, Powerglide and whitewalls.

Bonus Savings Plan 2 Any Chevrolet or Chevelle with 250-hp Turbo-Fire V8, Powerglide and whitewalls.

Bonus Savings Plan 3 Any big Chevrolet with 250-hp Turbo-Fire V8, Turbo Hydra-Matic and whitewalls.

Bonus Savings Plan 4 Now, for the first time ever, big savings on power disc brakes and power steering when you buy any Chevrolet or Chevelle with V8 engine.

Bonus Savings Plan 5 Buy any Chevrolet or Chevelle V8 two- or four-door hardtop model—save on vinyl top, electric clock, wheel covers and appearance guard items.

VETERANS MEMORIAL CONTRIBUTION — Centennial Sertoma Club has joined the long list of clubs and organizations supporting construction of the Colorado Springs Veterans Memorial. Gordon Ebbe, right, presents a $500 club contribution to J. D. Ackerman, center, treasurer of the Memorial Park Association. Looking on is the chairman of the association, Thayer Tutt. The donation helped swell the current receipts to more than $60,000 for the $175,000 project.

Vets Memorial Drive Passes $60,000 Mark

The addition of hundreds of individual contributions, plus donations from six groups and several corporations together have pushed the Colorado Springs Veterans Memorial drive past the $60,000 mark, according to William H. Gill president of the Memorial Park Association.

Memorial Park Association officials and the Colorado Springs Jaycees have combined forces to raise the $175,000 needed for construction of the memorial and its planned dedication Nov. 11, 1968.

The children in the Department of the Deaf at the Colorado School for the Deaf and the Blind and the Girl Scouts of the Wagon Wheel Troop are the latest group of youngsters to join the Memorial Park Association with their contributions. Each will receive membership cards and lapel buttons.

The Centennial Sertoma Club contributed $500 from its membership in the "interest of the patriotic and appropriate dedication to the men and women of this region who have made the supreme sacrifice of their lives, while in the service of their country."

Officers of the Association of the United States Army, the Navy League and the Air Force Association have met and made joint contributions for their organizations.

"Many of the individual contributions received have specified the memorialization of a specific friend or member of the family of the donor," Gill said. "We encourage this. All individual contributions for the construction of the Memorial should be sent to P. O. Box 1575, Colorado Springs, with any desired memorialization specified.'

Complete record of donors, including those to be memorialized will be kept in the Colorado Room of the new Penrose Library.

Largest corporate donation received this week was a $5,000 contribution from the banks of the Colorado Springs Clearing House Association, an amount which helped substantially to push the donations past the $60,000 mark.

named winner of the Fountain Valley School's annual "Third Form Dayboy Scholarship."

He will enter the boys' school in September as a member of the freshman (Third Form) class.

The scholarship is awarded by the school to a boy who achieves the highest combined scores on academic examinations in English and mathematics. The competition open to all eighth grade boys in the Colorado Springs area.

John was born in Japan while his father was stationed there in the service. His father retired last year after 21 years in the Air Force and is employed by Ampex Corp. here. Mrs. Thiele is the former Vera Williams of Colorado Springs.

RAIN

Last year youngsters from the Rose Bud Indian Reservation in South Dakota performed the dance at the Sioux tourist post here, and a total of more than four inches of rain fell during June.

This year the dances were discontinued—and less than one-half inch has been recorded thus far this month.

SUNGLASSES

Sunglasses reduce the amount of visible ultraviolet and infrared radiation reaching the eye. They prevent strong light from reaching the retina and blinding the observer. Now and then these visual aids are worn to minimize glare. Beyond this, these spectacles have no magic properties, do not improve eyesight, or help to distinguish colored signals more clearly.

Various methods are used in manufacturing sunglasses, but the best meet certain standards of optical quality. Dark lenses for people with normal vision are made from blown glass or bowed from plane glass. Optically-ground sunglasses are usually made of glass-dyed lenses. Composite lenses consisting of a transparent layer covered by a thin, evenly-applied tinted layer also are made. This type is suitable for correction of all refractive errors.

Coated lenses also are popular. The cheap mirror-coated types belong in this category, but the better ones are made of layers of glass smoked in a vacuum. The transmitted color is unimportant, but most people prefer brownish, bluish-grey, or greenish lenses. Specs made from yellow cadmium glass are not recommended.

Tinted glasses protect against the glare of a bright day when driving, working, or playing. At least 50 per cent of the visible radiation should be absorbed when in the city or country, and from 60 to 76 per cent when in the mountains or boating. Also wear them on cloudy days when the glare is worse because of reflected light.

It is foolish to wear sunglasses after dusk, in artifical light, or for night driving. Dark lenses only reduce luminosity in the visual field.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

FEAR OF CHILDBIRTH

Mrs. L. writes: I am a bride of 21 who has a terrible fear of childbirth. I can't get it out of my mind that I will die in the process. Since my husband wants to start a family, this has caused some bickering. How can I get over this feeling?

REPLY

Why not discuss the problem with your family physician? He can show you statistics on the safety of childbirth and the advantages of starting a family in your early 20s. You many, however, let nature take its course, and allow your maternal instinct to develop.

NASAL CONGESTION

A reader writes: How can tenseness cause congestion in the nose? My doctor says I will have to relax to cure my stuffy schnoz.

REPLY

Emotions affect the vasomotor system, which in turn affects the membranes of the nose by causing congestion. This is comparable to blushing of the skin. Allergy and temperature changes are other factors to be considered in nasal bogginess.

DROWN

The 15-month-old twins, Sandrina and Christina, were pulled from the pool Wednesday by their 11-year-old brother Kevin. Their mother, Carmelita, and a neighbor administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation in the back yard.

Authorities said the infant girls apparently had left the house through an open sliding glass door and fallen into the pool while playing.

Says Juveniles May Cause Riot In Denver

If there is a riot in Denver this summer, it will be started by juveniles, Denver Police Chief George Seaton told the Colorado Municipal League meeting here Friday.

Seaton said 70 per cent of major crimes committed in Denver are by juveniles. Nationally, he said, juveniles account for more than half the major crime.

And, he said, in Denver "we have no place to send them. The state code dealing with juveniles is a farce."

Seaton participated in a panel discussion on "Growing Unrest—A Critical Issue Facing All Colorado Cities and Towns."

Another panelist, Dr. Jack Yuthas, a psychology professor at Metropolitan State College in Denver, said the major factor in civil unrest is the white "establishment's" failure to understand or want to understand the problems of ethnic minorities.

The safety manager in La Junta, Jack Fowler, said riots in large cities cause a distinct reaction and fear in small towns. People there get upset over even minor incidents such as a fight between drunks, he said.

Fowler outlined effective use of the trained but unpaid 15 man police reserve at major public events in La Junta.

GIVEAWAY ODOR

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Carmen Guerra Jr., a federal customs inspector, says he "smelled something wrong" when he halted a U.S.-bound car for a routine inspection at the Mexican border. The driver of the vehicle was charged with narcotics smuggling when Guerra located $100,000 worth of marijuana the driver had hidden in the door panels of the car.

High Court Turns Obscure Law Into Discrimination Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has turned a long-obscure civil rights law into a far-reaching ban on racial discrimination in the sale and rental of housing.

Beyond that, the 7-2 decision Monday hinted that the 13th Amendment banning slavery gave Congress the power to strike at private acts of discrimination generally, if it wants to use the power.

The ruling, one of several stunners dealt out at term's end, said housing discrimination —private or officially sanctioned—is a "relic of slavery" that was outlawed in 1866.

The Reconstruction law, an outgrowth of the 13th Amendment, "bars all racial discrimination, private as well as public, in the sale or rental of property," Justice Potter Stewart declared.

His majority opinion, opposed only by two justices, goes far beyond the 1968 civil rights law signed by President Johnson in April. This year's law exempted many small residential units and would not have a major impact until next year.

The court's ruling spoke of no exceptions. And while the 1866 law has no specific federal enforcement machinery, Stewart's opinion means Negroes can go to court now to assert their rights.

Justices John M. Harlan and Byron R. White dissented, saying the finding that the old law applies to purely private actions "is almost surely wrong and at the least is open to serious doubt."

Because the court prefers to announce its holdings in bunches instead of spacing them out, the housing decision overshadowed other big rulings.

Among them were:

1. Sanction for police to keep jailing chronic drunks found on the city streets.

2. A ban on denying welfare to needy children solely because of their mother's sex conduct.

3. Freedom for community antenna television operators to pick up copyrighted movies and cartoons from TV stations without having to pay for them.

The 5-4 decision on drunks was surprising, particularly since the court six years ago said California could not make it a crime for a person to be addicted to narcotics.

Justice Marshall, in the court's judgment, stressed that facilities for treating impoverished alcoholics "are woefully lacking throughout the country."

CAT GETS AROUND

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dallas artist Karl Hoefle creates the gimmick-filled covers for the telephone company's Yellow Books in several cities. Among the gimmicks is a cat that always appears, somewhere, on the cover of the directory.

The inspiration for the cover cat is the Hoefle family's cat, named Pittens, 15 years old. Hoefle says she's always peering over his shoulder while he works.

Rusk Tells Hanoi To Show Some Sincerity Signs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk called on North Vietnam Friday to give some indication—directly or indirectly—of readiness to scale down the war, including a halt to rocket attacks on civilians in Saigon.

At his first news conference in almost six months, Rusk went along with Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford and peace negotiator W. Averell Harriman that there have been "some bits and straws in the wind in the last day or two" to show signs of progress in the Paris talks. But Rusk cautioned "it would be a mistake to go beyond straws in the wind."

Displaying a noticeably less optimistic tone than did Clifford at a news conference Thursday, Rusk cautioned that it is still too early to say whether the Paris talks will succeed or fail.

"We have not yet taken giant strides . . . we have not begun to break through yet on the substance of peace," he said.

Rusk said President Johnson's order of March 31, limiting the bombing of North Vietnam had not brought restraint from the other side. On the contrary, he said, infiltration in April and May was at record levels and "we have seen the indiscriminate bombing of the civilian population of Saigon."

Refusing to speculate on how long the United States would continue to observe its bombing restraint, Rusk called for a de-escalation on the ground.

"It could be done by some indication either directly or indirectly that such a step is being taken by the other side," he said. "But I would not want to speculate how long the present situation can last."

Rusk met newsmen several hours before Harriman was due to fly in from Paris for consultations on the course of the negotiations.

Rusk opened his conference by announcing the signing of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty on July 1 in Washington, Moscow, and London. He said the United States would like to find some way in talks with the Russians to avoid new expenditures and new dangers in the nuclear field.

Although he is still running a slight fever, Rusk said he would attend the NATO spring meeting in Iceland to discuss such questions as a reduction of both allied and Communist forces in central Europe and other issues.

While taking a conciliatory tone, Rusk denounced East Germany's "unjustified, provocative measures that run counter to longstanding international agreement," restricting motor traffic entering and leaving Berlin.

Rusk decried what he called reckless cuts in U.S. foreign aid by Congress which he said could seriously injure U.S. foreign policy.

On the efforts to get the 82 surviving crewmen of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo returned to the United States by North Korea, Rusk said it is unlikely that military action could get them back alive.

He said the United States offered to have an impartial fact-finding body investigate the Pueblo affair, with the United States acting in accordance with the facts it determined.

This was rejected by North Korea, he said, adding that the United States will continue its efforts to free the men.

30th Division Sets Reunion Here July 2-4

One of the most famous U.S. Army divisions of World War II and one of the most organized divisions from an alumni-reunion standpoint, will hold its 22nd annual reunion in Colorado Springs, July 2-4.

Meeting at the Antlers Plaza Hotel will be the "Old Hickory" 30th Division. Approximately 200 of the officers and men of this highly-decorated division will be on hand for three days of meeting, socializing and sightseeing in the Pikes Peak Region.

President of the division for 1968 and host for the 22nd reunion is J. D. Ackerman, a former lieutenant colonel with the fighting 30th when it marched straight from Normandy on "D" Day in June of 1944, all the way to Magdeburg, Germany, 70 miles from Berlin.

In addition to meetings in the hotel, Ackerman has scheduled the former 30th veterans and their families for trips to Flying W's Chuck Wagon dinner, the melodrama at Cripple Creek, plus tours through the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo, the Air Force Academy and an official briefing thrugh the NORAD Combat Operations Center in Cheyenne Mountain.

With the heavy concentration of members on the East Coast, all 21 of the previous reunions have been held in the East, with two in Chicago. This is the first such meeting this far West.

Other officials of the convention who will assist Ackerman are: Haskell Heinricy of Denver, James M. May of Colorado Springs, plus John A. Doyle and Jesse Snyder.

Debaters May Have Been Biased

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—A unique debate on the subject "Are Women Inferior?" was programmed Friday at a local cultural institute.

Observers expressed no doubt about the outcome. All the debaters are women.

This is a trip which you will never forget! The stunning scenery, the magnificent views ,the comfortable train ride, all make a brilliant and memorable visit to the top of Pikes Peak.

Depot: Ruxton Avenue, Manitou Springs 685-9662. Round trip takes four hours. Adults $6.00, Children, aged 5 to 12 $3.00

LOANS MULE QUILT — Mrs. Lucien Johnson displays a mule quilt she has loaned to McAllister House Museum for display. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Unusual Quilt Shown at McAllister House

Six patchwork mules parade across an unusual old quilt on loan at the antique quilt and costume exhibition in the old stable behind McAllister House Museum, 423 N. Cascade Ave. The quilt was loaned by Mrs. Lucien Johnson of 419 S. Cedar St. and was made by her mother, Mrs. Lilly McMillan, when she was 74 years old in Alabama. Mrs. Johnson is the wife of M. Sgt. Johnson and the mother of three children.

Collectors will be delighted with various items in the new gift shop behind the museum. The Colonial Dames, who own and maintain McAllister House, have given from their own private store of treasured possessions, a genuine Charles Partidge Adams water color; Blazing Star applique quilt probably about 150 years old; large and handsome Indian rug that is believed to be about 75 years old; antique brass drawer pulls and door handles; and, to please the women, rare handmade Brussels and Irish lace collars (such as are now back in fashion), lace trimmed hankies and a pair of strong-as-iron and smooth-as-silk linen sheets of ancient vintage but in perfect condition.

McAllister House Museum, the new gift shop and the stable exhibition are open to the public daily on week days except Monday, and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Punch, cookies, and coffee are available to be enjoyed in the shady garden. The admission charge is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

Woodland Park Couple Mark 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. McAdams, Woodland Park, will be honorees at an open house at their home, Kendora Pines, north of Woodland Park on June 30, from 2-5 p.m. celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. Maj. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Dillon, their daughter and son-in-law will host the open house.

Mr. and Mrs. McAdams were married June 30, 1918, at the Post Chapel Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. They moved to Colorado Jan. 1, 1955. The McAdams have one daughter, two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

McAdams is a retired building contractor. Mrs. McAdams retired in 1954.

McAdams is a life member of Moila Shrine and affiliate member of Al Kaly Temple Band of Pueblo and a Veteran of World War I. Both have been active members for 50 years of the Order of Eastern Star, Mrs. McAdams serving as the first worthy matron in Snowflake Chapter 153, Woodland Park, in 1961.

Friends and relatives are invited to call. The couple requests no gifts.

'Happiness Through Service' Is Mrs. Gleszer's Motto

Mrs. Roland M. Gleszer, Ft. Carson's new first lady, believes strongly that happiness comes through service to one's community.

Whether she lives on an Army post or in civilian circles, the woman who gives of herself to worthwhile volunteer activities will find her life greatly enriched.

This is the credo Mrs. Gleszer has applied to her own life, from the very first days of her marriage to the second lieutenant who is now Maj. Gen. Gleszer, commanding general of Ft. Carson and the 5th Infantry Division (Mech).

For the past two years Mrs. Gleszer was unit chairman of volunteers at Walter Reed Hospital. She has been a Girl Scout leader and she has always shouldered her share of work in Army wives' clubs.

"I am a great proponent of women's clubs," said the chic, well-tanned woman who is honorary president of both officers and non-commissioned officers wives clubs.

"I always encourage wives to take part in the activities of their clubs. It's a great way to get to know people," she said, "and you get far more out of it than you put in."

Not everyone can be elected to office, she points out, but there is a committee or activity for anyone who wants to participate.

Whatever she undertakes, this sincere and charming wife does wholeheartedly. While a "waiting wife" in Daytona Beach, Fla., while Gen. Gleszer was in Saudi Arabia, she devoted her energies to her Brownie troop. She made each week a fresh adventure for the girls, teaching them a variety of new skills from shellcraft to acrobatics.

Young people's problems have always aroused her compassion. It is her conviction that children need strong guidance to become well-adjusted adults.

The parents who never says "no" does his child an extreme disservice, Mrs. Gleszer believes. A child will be incapable of coping with life if he has been allowed to grow up without direction. He becomes an adult who thinks he can do anything, never realizing there are things he may not do.

Especially must the Army wife achieve self-discipline, says the dynamic first lady.

"A woman who marries into the Army must accept military life with its inevitable moves and separations," she emphasized. "But when her husband wins his promotions, she can well take a bit of the credit, for she has helped him earn them.

"It's a team effort all the way," Mrs. Gleszer concludes.

"There are very few successful Army officers who have attained high rank without a lot of help from their wives."

Easy to talk to, eager and relaxed, the brown-eyed Mrs. Gleszer finds each post a new and rewarding experience.

"We leave good friends behind only to find others at the next post," she added. "We have never been on a post we didn't enjoy. It was even our good fortune to go from Hawaii to West Point."

The US Military Academy is like home to all the Gleszers. It was there in 1939 that the former Helen West Slee of Cold Springs-on-the-Hudson, then a coed at the University of Maryland, met a cadet first class. Not long after his graduation a year later, she became his bride.

The Gleszers' son Peter Eaton, also elected a military career and was graduated from West Point in 1964.

Their daughter, Susan Merrill, was born at West Point and there she later met Stephen Beaudry Jr., now a Medical Serice Corps officer and the son of an MSC colonel. The two will be married in September when he returns from Vietnam.

Susan's wedding will be a first in the Gleszer family. Plans are still far from firm but are shaping toward a simple ceremony back East, where both families have their roots. The West Point chapel could be the final choice.

Because Beaudry may be assigned to Germany on his return from Vietnam, the bride-elect hopes to use her first years as an Army wife to complete her college work abroad. She has just finished her third year at Mary Washington College, majoring in art history.

Susan may well precede her mother in an overseas tour if these plans materialize. Mrs. Gleszer holds the rare distinction of having been an Army wife for 28 years without having had a single overseas tour with her husband.

"The only trip I ever made abroad was one I took alone," she recalls with a quick smile.

This was in early 1966, when her husband was in Korea and her son in Germany. She had been planning to visit Gen. Gleszer when a friend pointed out that a round-the-world trip cost only $200 more than the round trip to Korea.

The friend turned out to be right. Soon Mrs. Gleszer was off to Euorpe where she visited her son. Then, proceeded by way of the Near East and Inida, she met her husband in Hong Kong. She was only one hour late for the rendezvous planned months before.

"And that was the plane's fault, not mine."

MRS. ROLAND M. GLESZER

Nancy Jo Phipps Weds Lt. H. Byron Nicholson

Miss Nancy Jo Phipps became the bride of Lt. H. Byron Nicholson Jr. in an afternoon ceremony June 9 at Saint Andrew Methodist Church in Littleton.

Floral arrangements of mums flanked by candelabra provided the setting for the nuptial rites at which the Rev. William G. Cooper officiated. In the front of the church were two large baskets of mums entwined with greenery and accented with large white bows and streamers.

Mrs. A. D Vandenberg sand "Til There Was You," "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white linen styled along empire lines with a floor-length, A-line skirt. The fitted bodice was designed with a high-rise waistline and scoop neckline. Venise lace edged the tiered bishop sleeves, gown hem and circular chapel train, caught at mid-back by a large bow.

A cluster of matching lace flowers tipped with crystals caught the bouffant illusion which extended into a floor-length veil. She carried white roses and stephanotis.

As matron of honor, Mrs. Gary S. Ratkin of Clarendon Hills, Ill., was frocked in a long gown of moss and lime green Jakarata styled in a skimmer fashion. The short-sleeved, high rise bodice featured a shallow scoop neckline and a back panel of moss green was secured by a large Obi bow. Her headpiece was fashioned of moss green ribbon cocarde with a French veil.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Terrance A. Towned, Miss Deborah Ann Phipps and Miss Betsy Jean Phipps, sisters of the bride from Littleton, and Miss Marilyn Carter of New Olreans, La. They wore attire identical to that of the honor attendant. Miss Cindy Waldron served as flower girl.

Clifford M. Nicholson was best man for his brother. Ushers were John Sloan and Ronald Stickler, Littleton, while serving as groomsmen were Roger Loo, Robert Middleton Jr., John Scott Crissman and Robert Jones. Timothy Parsley of Littleton was the ringbearer.

For her daughter's wedding, a floor-length light yellow gown of crepe covered with chiffon was the choice of the mother of the bride. The bridegroom's mother selected a long gown of gold brocade.

For their wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nev., the new Mrs. Nicholson chose a white linen, three-piece suit trimmed in navy blue. Matching accessories and a corsage from her bouquet complimented her ensemble. The newlyweds will be at home at Sheppard AFB in Wichita Falls, Tex.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of the University of Colorado, where she received a BS in English education June 7. She was affiliated with Delta Delta Delta sorority. Her husband also was graduated from the U of C June 7, with a BS in business. He was a member of Sigma Nu social fraternity.

Included in the out-of-town guests were Kent Phipps, grandfather of the bride from Frankford, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Griffiths, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Gibbons, Lt. and Mrs. Lewis W Kingdom and Mr. and Mrs. John Miller II of Boulder; Mr. and Mrs. William Connell and Mr. and Mrs. Lew Sullivan of Greeley; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ponder of Fort Collins; Rev. and Mrs. Ronald Hamilton of Grand Junction; Mr. and Mrs. James Hewitt, Upland, Calif.; Kent Ruechart of Cleveland, Ohio; John Tweedy, Kingson, N.Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Angell Jr. of Louisville.

J. LaShelle, A. Jerome Marry in Arizona Rites

White wicker baskets of yellow mums, pompons and white gladioli provided the setting for the June 15 wedding in which Miss Jean Lynn LaShelle became the bride of Arthur Curran Jerome.

The Rev. Charles Maloney performed the morning rites in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church, Scottsdale, Ariz. Traditional organ selections were played.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white linen coatdress fashioned with high, belted waistline and A-line skirt. Wide eyelet lace formed the bell styled long sleeves. A white, pleated grosgrain bow caught her butterfly veil of silk illusion and she carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies with white streamers.

As maid of honor, Miss Margaret Bass wore a street-length yellow linen dress with lace edging on sleeves and bottom of skirt. Her short yellow veil of silk illusion was attached to bow of yellow grosgrain and her flowers were arranged in a colonial style of white and yellow daisies with avocado green streamers.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride chose a gray dotted swiss with white orandy trim and white and silver accessories. The mother of the bridegroom selected a silk blend brocade in a champagne shade with beige accessories. Each wore a yellow orchid corsage.

For their wedding trip to Lake Holly in the White Mountains of Arizona, the new Mrs. Jerome chose a summer knit suit of yellow, navy and white with yellow and navy accessories complimented with a corsage of gardenias. The newlyweds will be at home in Scottsdale.

The bride attended Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Tex., and graduated from the University of Arizona in Tucson in 1967. She was a member of Delta Gamma social sorority. Her husband attended Texas Christian University in Fort Worth and graduated from Arizona State University in Tempe in 1965.

Vradenburg-Lerner Vows Given in New Jersey

Miss Patricia Lois Lerner, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Joseph H. Lerner of South Orange, N.J., was married on June 20 to Ens. George A. Vradenburg III, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Vradenburg Jr. of 1231 E. High Point Lane. Rabbi Theodore Friedman performed the candlelight ceremony at Congregation Beth El. A reception followed at The Manor in West Orange.

The bride wore a gown of ivory peau de soie and Alencon lace, embroidered with seed pearls. A matching headpiece held her tulle veil. She carried a cascade of white orchids, phaleonopsis and stephanotis.

Her bridesmaids were the Misses Deborah Carpenter, Margli Cook, Virginia Hala, Darlene Diamond and Mrs. Gene Grindlinger. Miss Tia Millman was maid of honor. All wore powder blue organza dresses with hats to match. They carried baskets of spring flowers.

Peter Felder was Ens. Vradenburg's best man. Other attendants were Michael P. Lerner, brother of the bride; Jonathan Sfall, Kenneth Lipper, Paul Arneson, Henry Steinglass, and Charles Judelson.

The bride studied at the Instut d'Etudes Polotiques at the Sorbonne in Paris and received her bachelor of arts degree in government at Boston University in May. Mrs. Vradenburg made her debut during the 1963-64 season at the Diplomats Ball.

The bridegroom is a magna cum laude graduate of Oberlin College, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He received his law degree from Harvard Law School from which he graduated cum laude. He is a member of the New York Bar. Ens. Vradenburg is now serving with the U.S. Navy as Legal Officer at Andrews AFB in Washington D.C. He expects to join the law firm of Cravath, Swaine and Moore in New York upon the completion of his tour of active duty. He is a member of the Harvard Club in Washington.

Among those attending the wedding were Gov. and Mrs. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey; U.S. Sen. Harrison A. Williams; former Gov. and Mrs. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey; Judge and Mrs. Austin Hoyt of the U.S. Tax Court.

Miss Stock Marries at Ft. Carson Post Chapel

Miss Carol Louise Stock and James F. Kirkland were married at 2:30 p.m. June 9 at the Ft. Carson Post Chapel by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Matthew D. Blair in a double-ring ceremony. Lt. Col. and Mrs. Joseph J. Stock, 2514 Lelaray St., are the bride's parents; Dr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Kirkland, Natchitoches, La., are the bridegroom's parents.

The altar piece was of white stock and large white mums. Charles Day was organist.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a white A-line skimmer of Irish linen with Venise lace banding the high neckline, piping the armholes and accenting the bodice with an inset yoke detail. The hemline of the skirt was also edged with Venise lace. The train was built in and there was more Venise lace on the bowed cap ant three-layer, floor-length silk illusion mantilla. Her flowers were a nosegay of white tearoses surrounded by white daisies.

Maid of honor, Miss Dianne Simpson, wore a linen gown with sleeveless bodice of emerald green and slim skirt of nile green. The slightly raised waistline was belted with a wide jade green belt. Her flowers were yellow painted daisies and white carnations.

Bridesmaids, Deborah .K Stock and Phyllis A. Stock, wore identical gowns to that of the maid of honor.

Paul Rahne was best man. Groomsmen were Burton A. Broman and Michael E. Bush.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece pink tunic dress with pale turquoise detailing. The bridegroom's mother wore an ice blue, two-piece suit with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of white roses.

For a wedding trip to Las Vegas, the bride chose a coat dress costume of a white linen dress and white and rose diagonally striped coat and white accessories. They will make their home at 1625 N. Murray Blvd. Both will teach, the bridegroom at South Junior High School and the bride at Sproul Junior High School, Widefield.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. J. T. Henry, Denver, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Weedin, Denver, aunt and uncle of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Ellis, Lafayette, La., aunt and uncle of the bridegroom; and Mrs. Mildred Price, Los Angeles, Calif., aunt of the bridegroom.

The bride is a 1964 graduate of Wasson High School and a 1968 graduate of Colorado State University where she received a bachelor of arts degree in art education. The bridegroom, a 1958 graduate of Natchitoches High School, received a bachelor of science from Louisiana Plytechnic Institute and a master's degree in mathematics from Northwestern College, all in Louisiana.

Stray Hairs Are Problem

No matter how attractive a hair style is, its beauty can be lessened by stray hairs at the nape of the neck. This is a special problem when setting shorter cuts and can be avoided by checking the back of your set in a three-way mirror. If you discover stray hairs use a comb to shape them into a miniature wave or smooth them into place and tape them using Dermicel tape. In addition it won't hurt coming off.

Margaret Irene Arvan, Lt. W. A. Gauntt Marry

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Naomi Arvan, 1206 Hermosa Way, and Dr. Peter G. Arvan, St. Louis, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gauntt, Mt. Pleasant, Tex., are the bridegroom's parents.

An arrangement of yellow snapdragons and white majestic daisies and standing candelabra with myriad candles, both of which followed the architectural lines of the church, adorned the altar. "Panis Angelicus" and the "Lord's Prayer" were sung by Miss Holly Cady.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of candlelight silk peau de soie, featuring a removable chapel-length train. It was designed with a scoop neckline and three-quarter length sleeves ending with inserts of Alencon lace. The gown and train were adorned with handclipped motifs of lace. An elbow-length veil of candlelight English silk illusion was caught to a pill box of lace, re-embroidered with seed pearls and trimmed with silk roses. The bride carried a bouquet of white glamellias centered with yellow sweetheart roses.

Maid of honor, Miss Halene Phelps, wore a long pale yellow silk organza khaftan gown, trimmed with flowered ribbon, and fashioned with short sleeves and a Mao neckline. She carried an old-fashioned colonial bouquet. Also attending the bride were Miss Gean Gauntt and Miss Ann Rectenwald. Their gowns were the same as the honor attendant and they carried colonial bouquets of pastel spring flowers. Flowergirl, Maria Arvan, wore a long yellow silk organza dress styled similarly to the attendants and carried a nosegay of multicolored spring flowers.

Lt. John Lambert of Lunenburg, Mass., was best man. Also attending the bridegroom were Don Gauntt, Mike Gauntt, George Arvan and Lt. Gregory Varhall. Saber bearers were: Lt. John Lambert; Lt. William Riemer; Lt. Gregory Varhall; Lt. Gary Vasek; Cadet 1. C. William Horacek; and Cadet 1. C. William Savage.

The bride's mother selected a blue silk-blend coatdress with jeweled buttons and three-quarter length sleeves. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue silk afternoon dress with matching jacket that featured three-quarter length sleeves.

The bride graduated from Cheyenne Mountain High School in 1967 and attended Denison University, Granville, Ohio. The bridegroom is a 1968 graduate of the Air Force Academy.

A Beauty Hint

Margaret Merril advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion. Her hint to gain a peaches-and-cream loveliness is to damp a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion-beautifying cold water, smooth on tropical oil of Olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive, but your drug store should be able to get you a supply.

GETS FLYING URGE

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — A 69-year-old man was booked by police on suspicion of stealing an airplane here, buzzing roofs in five Orange County towns and breaking a power line, leaving part of Santa Ana without electricity for a time. He gave an unusual reason for his action. He said he was feeling a bit depressed and thought it would be a nice day to fly. He said he had a couple of flying lessons when he was 14.

Schmidt-Hackathorn Vows Spoken at Grace Episcopal

In an afternoon ceremony at Grace Episcopal Church Miss Sue Hackathorn and Stephen Soren Schmidt, Lt. USAF, were united in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Leroy Hackathorn, 2507 Holiday Place. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Simon Schmidt, Kailua, Hawaii.

Before the altar decorated with white gladioli, the Rev. John Mott and the Rev. Arthur Pierpoint officiated the ceremony. Traditional nuptial music was played by Dr. Julius Baird.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white organza A-line skimmer gown. The bodice featured a transparent yoke patterned with Venise lace which also trimmed the edges, sleeveless with bows adorning the shoulders and a cowled collar. A removable train flowed from the back. Her veil of English silk illusion with hand-rolled edges fell from a half-crown of Venise lace framed with lace daisies. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Herbert Wilson, matron of honor, wore a gown of mocha linen with sleeveless tucked bodice, sashed with white leather belt and full skirt. She wore a white grosgrain bow in her hair and carried a basket of daisies.

Miss Ann Hackathorn, maid of honor; bridesmaids, Misses Mary Gay Tulemeyer and Carolyn Petersen; junior bridesmaids, Misses Janet Hackathorn and Anita Schmidt and flower girl, Louise Dieffenbach wore identical gowns and carried identical flowers to the matron of honor.

Best man was Lt. Howard Towt while Capt. Lee Golden, Herbert Wilson, Jeffrey Schmidt, Lt. Terrence Connors and Carol Dieffenbach served as ushers. Classmates of the bridegroom served as sabre bearers.

The bride's mother was attired in a mimosa yellow jacket ensemble of silk and gros de londres with a chiffon bodice on the dress. The jacket was trimmed with ruffles on neck, sleeves and front. Her hat was a white net cage with bows. The bridegroom's mother chose a muted green brocade ensemble with a small matching hat and accessories.

A reception was held at the Air Force Academy Officers' Club following the ceremony. Mrs. Phil Ziporin, Barbara Haar and Mrs. Warren Riedell assisted the serving.

For their wedding trip to Hawaii, the bride chose a white suit with brown polka dots, brown blouse and matching accessories. Upon their return the bridegroom will be stationed at Laughlin Air Force Base, Tex.

The bride graduated from Wasson High School and the University of Colorado with a BS in nursing. The bridegroom graduated from North Bend High School, North Bend, Ore., and the United States Air Force Academy in the class of 1968.

Miss Enright's Engagement Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Enright, 2935 Virginia Ave., announce the engagement of their daughter, Marilyn Ann, to Kenneth F. Henault, son of Mrs. Dorothy Henault, 2577 Chimayo Drive, Security.

The bride graduated from Western Illinois University, Macomb, Ill. She is a teacher at Andrew Jackson Elementary School. Her fiance is a member of the United States Air Force.

The couple plans to wed on Aug. 3 at Holy Family Church in Security.

UNIQUE BED

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — A bed that cost $100,000 to develop is being clinically tested at the Medical College of South Carolina Hospital.

The bed was devised by Thomas S. Hargest, bio-medical engineer, and Dr. Curtis P. Artz, chairman of the department of surgery at the Medical College. The working model, only one of its kind in existence, took three years to develop. Private industry provided the funds. A patent now is pending.

The bed is expected to relieve the age-old medical problem of keeping burned or paralyzed patients comfortable during long confinement, and perhaps also prevent the breakdown of skin tissue leading to bed ulcers.

The patient is supported, when the bed's power is turned on, by a flow of heated air with the density of water and controlled humidity. When the power's off, the bed conforms to the body contour as solidly as sand on a beach. It is believed that the bed's design, permitting exposure of the entire body to air, will promote faster growth of scar tissue and shorten hospitalization periods.

Wadleigh-Reeves Vows Pledged in Omaha Rites

Karen A. Reeves and Lt. Stuart A. Wadleigh were married June 15 in early evening rites at the Mount View Presbyterian Church in Omaha, Neb. Dr. John H. Olsen and Dr. Ward R. Conklin performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Reeves, Omaha, Neb. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wadleigh, 16 2nd St., Broadmoor are the bridegroom's parents.

Church decorations included white and pink roses and pompons.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was gowned in a portrait organza and peau d'ange lace empire A-line dress. Seed pearl encrusted lace endowed the waistline, the front of the skirt and the long tapered sleeves. A detachable circular train flowed from the waistline to cathedral length. The bouffant silk illusion veil was fashioned to a Venise lace forward cap highlighted with aurora crystals. The bouquet was a cascade of pink rosebuds and white pompons.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Byron Kinnan, and attendants, Mrs. Fredric Francisco and Miss Cheryl Plymate, wore pale blue floor-length sheath dress of crepe with matching blue Chantilly lace coats. They each carried a single pink rosebud.

The bride's mother chose a light champagne lace dress with matching coat for the wedding. The bridegroom's mother was attired in light green raw silk dress and jacket.

Assisting at a reception in the church parlor were Miss Eileen Yost, Mrs. Orin Godsey, Miss Marjorie Holmquist, Miss Judy Wenger, Miss Janelle Rasp and Miss Karen Payne.

The couple will take a two month trip to the Southwest and West Coast. They both graduated from Omaha University on June 1 and they will make their home at College Station, Tex., where the bridegroom will attend Texas A & M University.

Kinnaman-Rogers Vows at First Christian Church

First Christian Church was the scene of the early evening wedding vows June 8 of Virginia Elaine Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd S. Rogers, 1707 N. Corona Ave., and Charles Robert Kinnaman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kinnaman, 1100 Mesa Terrace. The Rev. Warren Hile officiated at the vows. The Rev. F. F. Livengood, grandfather of the bride, offered the wedding prayer.

Two baskets of white gladioli and pink mums decorated the altar. The altar and aisles were lighted for the service with candles. Soloist, the Rev. Jerold Varrone, the bridegroom's cousin, sang the "Wedding Prayer" and "More." Organist was John Buck.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length nylon organza A-line gown. The nylon lace bodice featured an empire waistline highlighted with bows in the front and back, long sleeves and a batteau neckline. Sheer nylon tricot overskirt fell into a chapel-length train from the waistline. Appliques of lace the same as in the bodice bordered the train. The long veil of silk illusion fell from three flowerlets of irridescent beads. The colonial bouquet was composed of pink elf roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Maid of honor, Leah Ader, was attired in an A-line gown of medium pink saki that featured deep pink embroidered roses, green leaves and a dark velvet band at the empire waistline and cap sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of light pink carnations, deep pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids, Pamela McNulty and Delores Trujillo, were attired the same as the maid of honor. Flower girl, Lisa Hull, and candle-lighter, Lori Hull, wore dresses of pink saki that featured embroidered three-quarter length sleeves. The flower girl carried a white basket of pink carnations, sweetheart roses and baby's breath. Candle lighter wore a wristlet of carnations and sweetheart roses and a headpiece of roses.

Edward Varrone was best man. Groomsmen were Gary Vodehnal and Christopher Carlos. Stanley Rogers, Richard Rogers, Donald Oster and Lee Fabrizio seated the guests.

Assisting at a reception at the church parlor were Mrs. Rosemary McNulty, Mrs. Clyde Hoyt Jr. and Mrs. Marilyn Hull. Miss Patricia Ecton registered the guests.

For a wedding trip to the Black Hills of South Dakota the new Mrs. Kinnaman chose a deep pink crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of deep pink roses and stephanotis. The couple will be at home in Boulder.

The bride attended Palmer High School and Blair Business College. The bridegroom also attended Palmer High School and is a senior at the University of Colorado, Boulder, where he is studying electrical engineering.

Archeologists will excavate during the next few years at several sites in the Yucatan Peninsula's Rio Bec area near the Guatemala border, trying to throw light on mysteries of the ancient Maya people.

Judith Ann Jones Weds James Glaskin

The First Presbyterian Church provided the setting for the May 18 wedding in which Miss Judith Ann Jones became the bride of James Ronald Glaskin.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Shirley J. Jones of 1021 Adams Drive and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Glaskin, 2321 Afton Way.

The Rev. Dr. Howard Hanson officiated at the 2:30 p.m. ceremony before an altar adorned with arrangements of yellow and white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her brother, the bride chose a long cage gown of English net over silk peau de soie. Alencon lace lavishly trimmed the hemline and the edge of the detachable, chapel-length train. The bodice was fashioned with a short bolero of matching lace and featured long, tapered sleeves and a scoop neckline deepening to a square at the back which was accented by a bow.

Her elbow-length veil of imported silk illusion was caught to a lace and silk cluster encursted with seed pearls. She carried an arrangement of gardenias.

As maid of honor, Miss Verna Heaston was frocked in long, aqua saki linen designed with an A-line skirt softly shirred at the raised waistline. It was fashioned with a scoop neckline and set-in, elbow-length sleeves accented with white Venise lace. A small matching headpiece with a bustle veil of maline completed her ensemble and she carried yellow carnations.

Miss Karen Glaskin was bridesmaid. She wore attire identical to that of the honor attendant.

For her daughter's wedding, a blue Italian silk ensemble with matching accessories was the choice of the mother of the bride. The bridegroom's mother selected pink silk with a lace bodice and matching three-quarter-length coat.

The newlyweds traveled to Las Vegas, Nev., for their wedding trip. They are at home at 3024 W. Bijou St.

The new Mrs. Glaskin is a 1965 graduate of Palmer High School and attended Western State College. Her husband graduated from Palmer in 1964 and attended Colorado State College.

Out-of-town guests included at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. George Young, grandparents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. John Burt, grandparents of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Burt, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Jones, Jean West and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Sunnes.

Dana Asbridge, Craig Campbell Plan to Marry

Mr. and Mrs. Alex E. Asbridge, 1219 Adams Drive, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Dana Ruth, to Craig Alan Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale D. Campbell of 190 Chelton Rd., Manitou Springs.

The bride-to-be is a 1967 graduate of Palmer High School and is presently employed by Out West Stationery.

Her fiance is a 1966 graduate of Manitou High School and is employed by Bakers Shoe Store.

Appliance Is Floor Care Boon

If ever there was a boon to the busy housewife, it's an electrical appliance called the scrubber-polisher. It not only washes hard-surface floors — and picks up the scrubwater — but it applies wax and buffs the floors.

The new models are perfectly safe if used properly, according to the manufacturers' instructions. They are especially helpful in the care of vinyl asbestos tile, which is an easy-care flooring to begin with.

Housewives are cautioned not to flood the floor and to leave the detergent solution on long enough for it to be effective — it takes a few minutes for soap to loosen dirt. Be sparing with the wax or finish. Floor polishes build up and can eventually cause a yellowish cast on a resilient floor; such an accumulation of wax gets gummy and hence holds the dirt and grime.

Actually, it is not necessary to wax a vinyl asbestos tile floor. A satin finish can be maintained by simply buffing the floor after it has been washed and dried. The scrubber-polisher is ideal for this task.

St. Raphael's Scene of Howell-Sawyers Ceremony

Miss Carol Grey Sawyers and Curtis True Howell were united in marriage on June 2 at St. Raphael's Episcopal Church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vance D. Sawyers, 70 Watson Road, Security. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Howell, 518 Cypress Drive, Security.

The Rev. Halliwell Duell officiated at the ceremony. Traditional nuptial music was played and Miss Laura Becker sang.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white chiffon over taffeta gown which featured a cathedral-length train. The empire bodice was styled of embroidered lace with white velvet ribbon insertions, scoop neckline and long fitted lace sleeves. Her veil of silk illusion was caught to a garland of organza rosebuds adorned with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Kay Mann, matron of honor, wore an A-line royal blue satin gown overlaid with chiffon which was banded in satin at the hemline. Her headpiece of royal blue chiffon was attached to a satin bow. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and gladioli.

Miss Judy Heit, maid of honor, and the bride's other attendants, Mrs. Justine Tedeschi, Mrs. Penny Gilbreath and Miss Elaine Sawyers were dressed identically to the matron of honor.

Miss Kay Anderson and Miss Carole Gonzales served as acolytes and were attired in similar costumes to the other attendants but in a sea blue tint.

Best man was Holland Duell while Lee Ostberg, Joe Smith, and David Sawyers served as ushers. Groomsmen were William Mitchell, Michael Lenihan and Pat Gaffney.

Assisting with the reception held in the parish hall following the ceremony were Anita Quaratino, Gayle Fiala, Betty Parks, Carol Lee Williamson, Jackie Wycoff, Vicki Bobier and Mrs. Jean Baynes.

The bride chose a two piece orange swami dress and jacket with beige accessories for their wedding trip. Upon their return, the couple plans to live in Dallas, Tex.

The bride graduated from Widefield High School and Colorado State College, class of 1968. The bridegroom also graduated from Widefield High School and Colorado State College.

Beauty Tips Are From Baby

Eye beauty starts long before you put on makeup.

No matter what your skin type is or how young you are the skin around your eyes is dry and sensitive — and vulnerable to tiny premature lines.

The first step to eye beauty is applicaton of pure baby oil to the eye area before retiring for the night. Gently pat the baby oil all around the eye skin area, and don't worry about getting it on your lashes because it will serve to lubricate them for healthy growth and silkiness too.

Use a smidgen of the same gentle baby oil on the eye skin area under your makeup for a non-stop beauty treatment that will preserve your young look through more years than you probably think is possible.

Miss Brada Becomes Bride of Roy Manuszak

Holy Family Catholic Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Maryellen Brada and Roy Deiter Manuszak at 11 a.m. June 1. Father Joseph J. Lebe-rer performed the Nuptial Mass.

Arrangements of yellow mums and white carnation were placed on the altar and nose-gays of yellow and white carna-tions adorned the altars of the Blessed Virgin and St. Joseph.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fabian P. Brada of 204 Leta Dr., Security. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard E. Manuszak, 132 Ely St., Widefield.

The father of the bride gave his daughter in marriage. Her floor-length gown, designed by her mother, was fashioned of white bridal satin with elbow-length bell sleeves and an em-pire waistline. Italian lace, three dimensional roses adorned the bodice, sleeves, front and hemline of the gown. Her elbow-length veil of silk illusion cas-caded from a rose of peau de soie and her bouquet was of white roses and baby breath ar-ranged in a cascade.

Miss Barbara Garrison was maid of honor and Nancy Brada and Rose Marie Manuszak, sis-ters of the bride and bride-groom were bridesmaids.

All wore empire gowns of sun-shine yellow crepe, with match-ing bows at the high rise waist-lines. They wore shaded tur-quoise flower hats with strea-mers of flowers down the back. Each carried a single yellow rose tied with matching tur-quoise ribbons.

Flower girl was Elizabeth Brada, youngest sister of the bride. She was attired in a white empire-styled gown, trimmed with identical Italian lace roses which enhanced the bridal gown. She carried a white bas-ket of yellow roses and baby breath tied with turquoise rib-bons.

Paul Brada, brother of the bride was best man and usher-ing were Paul Manuszak and Jerry Garrison.

A reception was held in Holy Family Church Hall immediate-ly following the ceremony.

Mrs. Brada chose a powder blue coat and dress ensemble with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Ma-nuszak also wore light blue with white accessories. Their cor-sages were yellow roses and carnations.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Charles Jay, who was in charge, Miss Wanda Floyd, Miss Becky Estes and Miss Sandra Jay, in charge of the guest book.

After a trip through the west-ern states, the newly-married couple will reside in San Diego where Manuszak is stationed with the United States Navy. Both young people are gradu-ates of Widefield High School. The new Mrs. Manuszak was formerly employed by Nation Wide Finance.

Studies on Crib Death Show Parents Not Guilty

Recent discoveries concerning the causes of sudden mysterious infant deaths have shown that the parents are in no way to blame for the child's death and their guilt feelings are "unnec-essary," according to a report released today.

The findings of a Seattle research team, reported in the July issue of Redbook maga-zine, just released, indicate that "crib death" occurs in the best of families and to the most skillful, careful and loving par-ents. "It does not reflect on the ability of parents to care for their child," the doctors said, and often afflicts "unusually robust, healthy and well cared for" babies.

Drs. J. Bruce Beckwith, Abra-ham B. Bergman and C. George Ray, of Seattle's Chil-dren's Orthopedic Hospital and Medical Center have established that nearly 85 per cent of infant deaths "follow a single specific pattern" which they have la-beled "sudden death syndrome" or SDS.

Dr. Beckwith said that five pathological signs of the death pattern have been discovered through autopsies performed on infants succumbing to mys-terious causes. The pattern is almost as specific and as re-cognizable as that produced by pneumonia or meningitis, ac-cording to the article.

Although the findings are still too incomplete to provide rec-ommendations for prevention of "crib death" — the commonest pattern of death among infants from one to six months — they have proven some significant factors which can help alleviate parental anxiety. For example:

"SDS is not hereditary.

"SDS rarely strikes older chil-dren.

MRS. THOMAS PAUL ROGERS
—nee Thomas

* * * * * *

Rogers-Thomas Nuptials Said at Grace Episcopal

Grace Episcopal Church pro-vided the setting for the May 25 nuptials of Miss Barbara Jean Thomas and Thomas Paul Rog-ers.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Dan Thomas Sr. of Stillwater, Minn. The bride-groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rogers of Pasco, Wash.

The Revs. John Mott and James Mills officiated at the af-ternoon rites before an altar adorned with green palms and four candelabra. "Song of Ruth" and "The Wedding Pra-yer" were nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a long gown of silk organza designed with a bell skirt, scoop neckline, short sleeves and natural waist-line. The skirt, sleeves and neckline were lavishly trimmed with motifs of alencon lace. Matching lace edged the chapel-length train.

Her shoulder-length veil of il-lusion was caught to ar-rangement of satin and lace petals embellished with seed pearls. She carried a cluster of white elegance carnations and stephanotis.

Gloria Rogers, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. Miss Marian Martinson and Mrs. Zorka Corley served as bridesmaids. They were cos-tumed in long gowns of spring blue ribbed silk fashioned along princess lines with sabrina necklines, short sleeves and a gathered train effect which fell from a button-detailed yoke. They carried cascading bou-quets of natural greenery.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride chose a light blue crinkle crepe with draped neckline, rolled collar and three - quarter length sleeves. She wore beige acces-sories and a pink sweetheart rose corsage.

Following the wedding, a re-ception was held in Neusteter's Penthouse.

The bride attended the Uni-versity of Minnesota and Adams State College in Alamosa. Her husband attended Columbia Basin College in Pasco and Idaho State College, Pocatello, Idaho.

Included in the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Thomas Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Lee Thomas, Mrs. Dorothy Vawter, Mrs. Janet O'Leary and daugh-ter, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Prei-sendorf, Miss Karen Gribble and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pas-quale.

House plans are most beauti-ful when related to the scene around them, says the Society of American Florists. While de-licacy is usually appropriate in period homes, plants with bol-der forms seem better suited to simple, modern surroundings. Boston Ferns provide a lacy yet sumptuous look. Bromeliads, dracaenas, bamboo, and kentia palms are striking in either small or large modern dwell-ings.

Cook With Your Nose

"Nose and taste buds can be a girl's best friend. At least in the kitchen," says Peg Bracken in Family Circle Magazine.

Her suggestion to avoid some awful mistakes while baking is: Instead of thinking innocently, "My, how good that smells!," it is brighter to wonder if it's sup-posed to smell that good that soon.

Then look into the situation and possibly the oven, or you may be serving charred hockey pucks. It seems that when cer-tain recipes say "Put in 500 de-gree oven and lower tempera-ture immediately to 350 de-grees," they mean immediately.

Miss Bracken continues: "Also, I know now that it's im-portant to sniff the cream, if it's supposed to be sweet cream, before adding it. And to sample the nuts. AND the salad dressing, especially if you made it yourself a while ago and stored it in a covered jar in the refrigerator. Oil isn't immortal, whether it's the oil in nuts or the oil in salad dressing."

Here's a New Hiccup Cure

When hiccup strikes, try this suggestion from an article in Family Circle Magazine: Sit up straight, take a deep breath, hold it—and go one step far-ther: Extend the head as far back as you can, and hold it there as long as you hold your breath.

Extending the head keeps the diaphragm in relatively fixed position, and helps interrupt the spasmodic contractions that produce hiccuping.

In a dozen patients, reports Dr. Lawrence V. Perlman of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, the simple maneuver has ended prolonged hiccuping. In some cases it may have to be repeated several times before hiccups come to a stop, but it is simple enough—and often effec-tive enough—to be worth trying, he suggests, before other, more complex measures are used.

Colorado College Couple Marries in Denver Church

Washington Park United Church of Christ in Denver was the setting Saturday for the wedding of Miss Virginia Sue Tammany of Colorado Springs and Serge Trubetzkoy of Los Angeles, Calif. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Northway of Denver. The bridegroom is the son of Nikita Trubetzkoy of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Dennis C. Day of San Jose, Calif. The Rev. Jeffrey Hoy officiated at the double-ring rites.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a gown of silk organza over peau de soie, designed in an A-line princess style and featuring a watteau train in the form of a full fan. The bodice was fashioned with a raised waistline and wrist-length scalloped sleeves, adorned with seed pearls and peau d'ange lace. The hemlines of the gown and train were also edged with lace. Her veil of illusion fell from a small pillbox of lace and seed pearls. Her bouquet was a cascade of white gardenias, yellow roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Honor attendants were Mrs. Ronald Mosley of Colorado Springs, matron of honor; and Franklin Simmons of Bellflower, Ill., best man. Other attendants included: bridesmaids; Mrs. Donald Graham of Colorado Springs and Miss Janet Northway, the bride's sister. Ushers were Donald Graham of Colorado Springs, Patrick Day of San Jose, Calif., the bridegroom's brother, and Robert Northway of Denver, the bride's brother.

The bridesmaids wore floor-length gowns in two shades of green. The gowns were designed in a princess style with a raised waistline and featuring a short train in the form of a large bow. They carried white baskets filled with yellow and white daisy mums, baby's breath and greens, and wore small circlets of daisy mums on their heads. Miss Stephanie Fine of Security was the flowergirl, and Misses Claudia and Elizabeth Day of San Jose, Calif., the bridegroom's sisters were candle lighters.

The reception was held at the Cherry Creek Inn in Denver. After a wedding trip through the Southwest the couple will make their home in Los Angeles, Calif.

The bride graduated from Abraham Lincoln High School, Denver, in 1962, and from The Colorado College in 1966. She has taught kindergarten in Widefield School District 3 for the past two years.

The bridegroom graduated from the International School in Bangkok, Thailand, in 1962, and attended The Colorado College, where he was president of The Club.

Travel Tips for Ease On the Summer Road

Long gone are the days when a woman dressed to the teeth for every auto excursion further than the grocery store. Today the keynote for gals on the go is comfort. With such a lot of America to discover, the most rewarding vacations often come when you take off in the car and explore any region that strikes your fancy for several weeks or just a weekend, and it makes good sense that you should do it all in your very own fashion.

Doing "your own thing" includes deciding on a versatile mode of dress that will take you from country church suppers (a marvelous way to meet and get to know local folks), to days spent exploring the countryside and visiting historical sites. Here mix 'n' match combos of simple blouses and skirts are ideal, along with a couple pairs of comfortable shoes. For good measure a bathing suit and one dressy outfit with heels might be included (unless you plan lengthy layovers in cities, it's a safe bet that you won't need "glad rags" very often). As always, wear shorts or slacks only if they are becoming, but be prepared with a skirt that can easily be slipped on as occasion may demand. Scarves and other accessories are useful additions to this touring wardrobe that can easily be packed in one medium size suitcase and should see m'lady through a most enjoyable trip.

Beauty on the road need not be a chore either. First, to avoid anguish, keep your hairdo simple so it can easily be combed into place before stops; or simply tying it with a colorful scarf that matches your outfit can look great.

Keeping your cool, especially if the weather is torrid or if there are children along, can sometimes be a chore. A morning shower with a good deodorant soap is a must, followed by a generous dusting with an absorbant powder that will keep you fresh from shower to shower, in fact that's the name of a new powder that has remarkable gradual releasability that goes to work immediately and continues throughout the day. Also helpful, is a selection of books or creative travel games that the kiddies can play in the car to keep them out of mischief and leave you free to read old Burma Shave signs, comment on your husband's driving or simply reflect on the towns and countryside.

Makeup should be kept simple, again so frequent touch-ups won't be necessary. Actually, this is a great time for trying some of the new subtle cosmetics that stress the natural look. Severely defined lips and eyes are unnecessary and America seems a lot brighter knowing you can look your best with minimum effort.

Holden-Cullens Nuptials Pledged in Spring Rites

In an afternoon wedding on May 30, Miss Cathy Sue Cullens became the bride of Gary S. Holden.

The Rev. John Dreher officiated at Redeemer Lutheran Church before an altar graced with baskets of white gladioli and pink Val Halla carnations. Pink bows marked the pews. Kenneth Glaeser provided nuptial selections.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Arch P. Cullens of 2572 Elvin Ave. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Seval Holden of Bode, Iowa.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in a slender dress of silk organza embellished with rose point lace. The fitted bodice, encrusted with seed pearls, was fashioned with a scoop neckline, empire waist and long lace sleeves. Her circular train, attached at the shoulders, was edged with matching lace over net.

As maid of honor, Miss Diana Holden was frocked in pale pink dotted swiss organza over pink taffeta. Her veil bow hat and accessories matched the gown and she carried cascading Val Halla carnations.

Miss Nancy Abrahams, bridesmaid, wore attire similar to that of the honor attendant but of a mintgreen shade. She also carried a cascade of Val Halla carnations.

Eldred Holden was best man. Ushers were Joseph Tennsmeyer, Carl Phillippe and Larry Rasmussen.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride chose a petal pink ensemble of silk crepe trimmed in crystal beads, with matching hat and accessories. The bridegroom's mother selected a costume of pale blue linen with matching accessories. Each mother wore a corsage of pink roses.

Assisting at the reception held at the Dublin House were Mrs. Dennis Lauer, in charge of the guest book, Mrs. Harold Glaeser and Mrs. Charles Lampe.

For their wedding trip to Yellowstone, the new Mrs. Holden chose a yellow crash linen dress with matching coat and accessories. The newlyweds will be at home at 1321 Wood Ave.

The bride attended Mitchell High School and Rangely College. Her husband attended Fort Dodge Community College and Gale Institute.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. E. M. Hahn, maternal grandmother, and Mrs. Richard Tindall of Kansas city, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver J. Peltz of Tulsa, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Seval Holden, Bode, Iowa; Mrs. Wayne Schultz and sons of Glendale, Calif.; Eldred Holden, Point Mugu, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Winnie and son, Layton, Utah; Dr. and Mrs. James Flanagan, Prarie Village, Kan., and Miss Kathy Heller, Chicago.

Unusual Playhouses

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The containers for subsurface transformers installed in residential areas of greater Portland took like giant milk cartons. Over three feet tall, the empty ones are being turned into play houses by A.P. Cowles, of the Portland General Electric Co., maker of the transformers.

By connecting three of the cartons side-by-side, cutting holes for front and rear doors, and adding plastic windows, Cowles has provided neighborhood children with the kind of treat that has all but disappeared from the American scene — the homemade toy.

The oldest of the colleges in Oxford University was started in 1299.

Put Sunshine In Your Hair

Mousy brown or dirty blonde, here's the easiest way to put sunshine in your hair.

Add a capful of peroxide to a cup of gentle baby shampoo and mix. Gentle baby shampoo is recommended because a harsh shampoo might contain ingredients that would react with the peroxide and cause the mixture to become drying and irritating to your scalp. Baby shampoo contains no harsh ingredients to dry or irritate even the most sensitive skin.

Work up a lather and allow it to remain on your hair for 10 minutes, then wash as usual and rinse thoroughly with warm water. For further lightening, you can add the juice of half a lemon to the final rinse water and dry your in the sunlight.

There will be no drastic change in hair color — just a lighter and brighter shine. You may repeat the process, but remember that the color change will become more apparent after each shampoo so stop when the effect is shiny and natural.

TORONTO (AP) — Canadian George Knudson fired a flawless 64, six under par Saturday, and grabbed a share of the third round lead in the $125,000 Canadian Open golf championship with Bob Charles at 54 hole scores of 208.

Charles, a lefty from New Zealand, had a par 70 over the 6,792-yard St. George Golf Club layout while the second round leader, Australian Bruce Devlin, fell back into the pack.

Devlin, who had a three-stroke lead going into the day's play, had trouble with his driver and soared to a 75 for 210, well back of a cluster of chargers who came in with 209.

Among that group are menacing Jack Nicklaus, with a 68; defending champion Billy Casper, 69; scrambling Tom Weiskopf, 69; Tommy Aaron, with a three-under 67, and Charley Sifford, 68.

Tied with Devlin at 210 are Canadian Wayne Villmer, with a brilliant 66, Lou Graham, 70, Ken Still, the Tacoma, Wash., pro who had started the day in a tie for second with Charles, 72.

Knudson, a regular on the pro tour, was one of the early starters. He began his charge with consecutive birdies on the seventh, eighth and ninth holes, added two more, then got his sixth on the last hole.

He didn't have a bogey.

Then he sat in the clubhouse and watched the rest of the field try to catch him.

He started the tourney poorly, with a 75, but gave a hint of things to come when he clipped in a hole in one enroute to a the collapse of Devlin, he made up a fantastic nine strokes for the day, and is bidding in become the first Canadian in a couple of decades to win the Canadian title.

Charles missed a chance to take sole possession of the top spot with a bogey on the last hole, putting his second shot into a trap and then missing a 12-foot putt.

Still in contention are 56-year-old Sam Snead and Australian Bruce Crampton. Snead had a 68 and Crampton 72 for 211s.

Al Rawlins Jr. Injured In Speedway Auto Crash

By JOHN SUNDVOR
Gazette Telegraph
Sports Writer

The red flag made its appearances at the Pikes Peak Speedway Friday with accidents dominating most of the action.

Al Rawlins Jr., running in the 15-lap A Losers race, was involved in the most serious accident of the schedule. Rawlins blew a tire in the number one turn of the 11th lap, and lost control of his car.

Gary Holcomb, running in the middle of the pack, hit Rawlins broadside, and the red flag came out.

Rawlins was taken by E and E Ambulance to a local hospital where he was treated for minor injuries and released. It was the first time the ambulance service was used by the track this season.

After a vote by the drivers, the race was started at the 10th lap, and Jack Gabardi took the honors.

In the B Trophy Dash, Bill Clark lost his left-rear wheel and axle in the number one turn. The red flag made its first appearance of the night, and it made three more appearances before the program ended.

The flag came out again in the Fast B Heat, when seven cars piled up in the number two bid for the lead on the ninth lap, edged out Maynard Alama in the tenth for the win.

The flag made another appearance in the A Losers and still another in the Semi Main Event before it was put away.

A field of 24 cars started the Semi Main Event, but only seven finished in still another event marred by mishaps.

Larry Smith, who had spun out early in the race, spun out again about two laps later. When the flag made its final appearance, nine cars were idle on the track.

In addition to the major pileup, two cars dropped wheels in the race. The first loose wheel rolled uncontrolled around the number two turn before it came to rest in the infield, and the second, dropped by Bill Clark hampered the field in the first turn.

Munson was unofficially credited with the win in the event, Alaman copped the number two spot.

In the Main Event, Gary Humphrey piloted his orange Chevy to the checkered flag with Butch Lacey coming in second. Ron Cogdill came in third.

Both Cogdill's and Munson's wins were held up by protests.

Los Angeles Opens Bid for Big Wilt

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — General Manager Fred Schaus of the Los Angeles Lakers has been on the telephone with officials of the Philadelphia 76ers trying to make a deal for superstar Wilt Chamberlain.

The 76ers apparently are willing to deal Chamberlain. The question is, can or will the Lakers meet the price?

The latest rumor has the 7-foot-1 Chamberlain going to the Lakers for Darrall Imhoff, Archie Clark, Jerry Chambers and substantial cash. The 76ers, however, could be holding out for the Lakers shooting ace, Jerry West.

Owner Irv Kosloff of the 76ers and General Manager Jack Ramsay aren't anxious to trade away the greatest offensive player in the history of the National Basketball Association. They may, however, have no choice.

Chamberlain and the 76ers' officials are locked again in their annual contract battle. The nine-year pro veteran reportedly received more than $250,000 last season. He wants more in 1968-69.

Ramsay says Chamberlain didn't perform as well last season when the 76ers lost their NBA championship—eliminated by Boston in the Eastern playoff finals. Thus, Ramsay says, he isn't entitled to a raise.

Another report is that Chamberlain seeks a piece of the club as part of a three-year, $1 million package. Kosloff, who claims to won 100 per cent of the 76ers, either rejected this demand or is reluctant to make such a concession.

Then, there is another problem involving Chamberlain. When Alex Hannum quit as coach, Chamberlain said he won't play unless the new coach meets with his approval. This almost narrowed the field to a party of one—Chamberlain.

The only other alternative appears to be Ramsay, one of the nation's top college coaches at St. Joseph's (Pa.) college before he retired tw years ago for health reasons.

Ramsay at first said he neer would coach again. Last week, however, he changed his tune a little. Asked if he had changed his mind about coaching the 76ers, he said, "I'd rather not comment on that." He added that his health would now permit him to resume coaching.

Trading Chamberlain, 32, however, could open a new era for the 76ers. If they can get some good talent to go with the excellent remaining personnel such as Hal Greer, Luke Jackson, Chet Walker, Wally Jones, Billy Cunningham and Matt Guokas, the team still would be a title threat.

If they wait, they're stuck with Chamberlain's huge salary and the possibility his market value will decrease.

ACs Split Twinbill With Pueblo

The Colorado Springs AC's and Pueblo Diablos split a semi-pro baseball doubleheader Saturday night at Memorial Park as the AC's won the opener, 5-2, and the visitors took the nightcap, 7-5.

The split leaves the AC's with a 5-3 Metro League mark while the Diablos now stand 4-4 in loop competition. It was the first meeting of the two clubs this season.

In the opener Jim DeSpain and Jim Colbert provided the hitting power for the AC's by unloading home runs to account for all five AC runs. DeSpain's blast, a 355-foot shot over the let field fence, came in the bottom of the fourth inning with Sterling Payton and Dick Fanning on board.

Colvin uncorked a 350-foot blast over the right field wall in the bottom of the sixth with DeSpain on base for two more AC assurance tallies.

Lefthander Jim Strickland went the full route to claim the win for the AC's, giving up six hits and striking out 11. Both Pueblo runs were unearned as they came on an error and a wild pitch.

Mike Dippel absorbed the loss despite an outstanding performance on the mound. Dippel yielded only four hits and fanned five.

Pueblo took a brief 1-0 lead in second frame Bob Davis singled, advanced on a fielder's choice and then scored on an error. The AC's rebounded quickly in the fourth when Payton rapped the first AC hit of the game and Fanning followed with a double, setting the stage for DeSpain's home run.

Pueblo came back for its second tally in the fifth when Bruce Colvin scored on a wild pitch, but the AC's increased their lead in the sixth on Colbert's two-run homer.

In the second contest the Diablos scored four runs in the sith inning to come from behind for a 7-5 victory. The win went to Pueblo hurler Dave Mulder, who threw five innings before receiving relief help from Paul Masimer. Mulder allowed six hits and five runs while striking out three. Masimer gave up two hits in two innings of mound work.

The loss was absorbed by AC payer-coach Jack Brown, who went all seven innings, gave up nine hits and struck out nine batters.

Pueblo jumped to a 3-0 advantage in the third inning when a pair of AC errors and Joe Bonacquista's sacrifice fly allowed Kristy Bivin, Dennis Nickle and Ralph Huddin to cross the plate.

The AC's rebounded in the fifth inning and plated five runs to take a narrow lead. Singles by Jack Pietila, Payton and Brown plus a home run by Dick Fanning accounted for three runs while two Pueblo errors allowed the other pair of markers.

The Diablos reclaimed the lead in the top of the sixth inning when a walk and singles by George Dasko, Bob Davis, Larry Crocumbe and Bivin accounted for four runs. The AC's couldn't get back into the game as Pueblo reliever Masimer yielded only a pair of singles during the final two innings.

Bivin and Bonacquista were Pueblo's top batters with two hits apiece, while Daryl Grantz and Fanning paced the AC, also with two hits apiece.

Blue Sox Divide Twinbill

Johnson struck out 12 batters on the way to the victory.

McConnell gained revenge in the nightcap by stopping the Sox, 6-5, with a three-run seventh inning.

Doug Clark helped Johnson in the opener with a pair of hits, including a double. Clark was 2 for 3 for the day and scored one of the Sox' three runs.

The Blue Sox travel to Arvada for a single game with the Dons. Game time is 8 p.m.

Continental Divide Set For USAC Auto Test

CASTLE ROCK — The first USAC-sanctioned road race for Championship cars to be scheduled in the Rocky Mountain region has drawn four more top drivers.

Entries for the July 7 Premier Rocky Mountain 150, to be held on Continental Divide Raceways' 2.66-mile road circuit, now total 15.

Topping the list of latest entries is 24-year-old Billy Vukovich of Fresno, Calif. He was named "Rookie of the Year" for his seventh place finish at Indianapolis this year.

Son of the late Bill Vukovich who won Indy in 1953 and 1954 and who was killed while leading the race in 1955, Billy competed in his first Championship race when he was 21, finishing ninth. He will pilot a rear engine Ford owned by J C. Agajanian at CDR.

Johncock holds the track record at Langhorne, Pa., where the "Trail" drivers will compete Sunday. Last year he won two Championship events.

Sam Sessions of Nashville, Mich., began driving the Championship Trail in 1965. Well-known on the USAC Sprint Car circuit, Sessions finished second in point standings in that division last year. He has driven Championship races for the last three years.

Also among top drivers on the sprint circuit, but moving steadily up in Championship division is Larry Dickson of Marietta, Ohio, who began competing in "Trail" machines in 1965.

Other entries bringing the total to 15 are Bobby Unser, 1968 Indy 500 winner and current points leader; Lloyd Ruby, trailing Unser by 585 points; Mario Andretti, twice USAC Driving Champion; Denver's Jim Malloy; Roger McCluskey; Art Pollard; Bruce Jacobi; Max Dudley and Wally Dallenbach. Two cars, entered by Leadercards, Inc., and Vollstedt Enterprises, have not been assigned drivers yet.

A field of at least 26 cars is expected on the entry list; 26 will qualify to start the 150-mile, 57-lap race. Practice and qualifying for the event will be July 6 from 9 to 4 p.m. The race gets underway at 1:30 p.m., preceded by an hour of practice at 11 a.m., with festivities to follow.

Advance sale tickets are available at a savings of 50 cents on general admission, $4.50. Stadium seats are an additional $1.50. Children under 12 will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult, but will be charged $1.50 if they sit in the stadium.

In Colorado Springs, tickets may be purchased at Daniels Motors and Thoroughbred Motors.

Orders are also being taken at all Frontier Service Stations displaying a CDR sign in Colorado.

U.S. Thinclads Boast Fine Squad

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — It's still nearly four months until the U.S. Olympic team assembles at Mexico City, but head Olympic track and field coach Payton Jordan of Stanford is already saying the team could be one of the best ever put together.

The Olympic Trials will go a long way toward deciding the final composition of the team and Jordan says, "the team hasn't hit head to head, but over-all the strenght is very good."

Jordan made his preliminary evaluation at the Amateur Athletic Union's championships track and field meet here Thursday and Friday where he was especially heartened by what he called the "absolutely phenomenal" assault on the world 100-meter record.

Before Charlie Greene had finally won the event, he, Jim Hines and Ronnie Ray Smith had each run the distance in 9.9 seconds, one-tenth under the listed world mark.

In addition, no fewer than seven other sprinters tied the world mark. Greene's winning time in the final was a wind-aided 10.0.

After the team is tentatively chosen at Los Angeles June 28-29, it will assemble for high-altitude training at Lake Tahoe. Final choices for the squad will be made in competition in September.

One event that concerns Jordan is the javelin, where, he says, "we have to be a little deeper. Over-all, the spread of performances is a little weak by International standards."

In the long-distance races, Jordan looks for surprises on the order of Billy Mills' upset victory in the 10,000 meters at the 1964 Tokyo Games.

"Going into the Games," he said, "the long distance boys look just as they did the last time. And if the over-all results are the same, we'll be happy. The boys know they have done and can do it. Their confidence is better.

Jordan said several top performers already have been granted permission to try out for the team at the Lake Tahoe site even though they won't qualify in Los Angeles."

These include Jim Ryun, now recovering from mononucleosis while training in Arizona; star hurdler Richmond Flowers, out with a leg injury, and 800-meter runner Ron Kutschinsky, who was spiked in the National Collegiate Athletic Association meet 10 days ago.

In addition, Jordan said, free rides into the Lake Tahoe camp are likely to be given to shot putter Neal Steinhauer, who has a back injury; discus thrower Gary Carlson and several others. In all, Jordan expects about 15 applications.

A flock of records fell at the AAU meet, including the American mark in the 3,000-meter steeplechase, which George Young won in 8:30.5. Young was voted athlete of the meet.

Meet records ent to Run Whitney at 49.5 in the 400-meter hurdles, Don Denoon at 12:38.0 in the 3,000-meter walk, Lee Evans at 45.0 in the 400 metars, Wade Bell at 1:45.5 in the 800 meters, Art Walker at 53-9¼ in the triple jump, Tommie Smith at 20.3 in the 200 meters, Randy Matson at 67-5 in the shot put, Bob Beamon at 27-4 in the long jump, Bob Day at 13:50.4 in the 5,000 meters and Tracy Smith at 28:47. in the 10,000 meters.

Other winners were Ed Burke at 217-0 in the hammer throw, Dick Railsback at 17-0¼ in the pole vault, Jay Silverster at 203-9 in the discus, John Mason at 3:43.1 in the 1,500 meters, Frank Covelli at 269-6 in the javelin and Ed Hanks at 6-11 in the high jump.

AAU Committee to Apply For World Track Records

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)— The Men's Track and Field Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union voted unanimously Saturday to apply for world records for Charlie Greene, Jim Hines and Ronnie Ray Smith in the 100-meter dash.

Greene, Hines and Smith each ran the distance in 9.9 seconds in semifinal races at the AAU Track and Field Championships Thursday night, with Greene and Hines each winning his heat and Smith finishing second to Hines.

"I'm satisfied they're legitimate records," said Al Post, chairman of the group's records committee.

Seven other sprinters tied the old world record of 10.0 but only the marks of Greene and Roger Bambuck of France, who did it in early heats, will be submitted for a share of that mark.

The reason, Post said, is that Greene and Bambuck made their marks before the 9.9 run. Therefore, the subsequent 10 flats were no longer eligible for a share of the old record.

Also at the meeting, the Track and Field Committee approved as members nine athletes representing four areas in the country.

Previously, only two athletes had been on the committee and they had been appointed by the committee. The new representative were voted on by the athletes themslvees.

The representatives are Mike Larrabee and Wade Bell from the West, Tom Randolph and Ron Whitney from the Midwest, Ralph Boston and George Young from the South, and Byron Dyce, Frank Costello and Nick Lee—tied in the voting — from the East.

The committee also instructed AAU representatives to the International Amateur Athletic Federation to press for inclusion of a cross-country run of 10,000 meters or more in future Olympic Games.

Hippies Invade Ball Park

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball fans will have little or no part of the hippie movement and proved it loud and clear Friday between games of a twi-night doubleheader involving the Boston Red Sox and the Chicago White Sox.

The promotion was billed as Teen Friend and Lover Night and a crowd of 18,445 was on hand. What the White Sox management apparently didn't realize is the crowd had come out to watch baseball.

The fans saw the White Sox drop the first game 6-3 and during the intermission the show began.

A group of Chicago disc jockeys came roaring out of the bullpen on motorcycles and were greeted with boos.

Disc jockey Mark Edwards, the master of ceremonies, got the show off with a couple of jokes that went over with all the joy of a dropped fly. More boos. The groundskeepers had set up a stage on the infield and Edwards introduced one of several groups scheduled to perform.

The entertainers came out with their long hair, Nehru jackets and hippie beads. The boos were so loud that Edwards' introduction was lost.

The group went through a fast number but electronic devices hanging over the microphone were no match for the howling crowd.

One more number was staged but little could be heard over the jeers of the crowd. The entire program was abandoned. Only when the equipment was being cleared from the field did the crowd cheer.

Th cheers kept ringing as the White Sox won the second game 10-4 to gain a split of the doubleheader.

Ed Short, general manager of the White Sox, was asked if that was an end to such promotions and Short answered, "Well, the response was great and they bought a lot of tickets."

Manager Eddie Stanky of Chicago was writhing in the dugout during the performance. Dick Williams, Boston manager, said "I was in the clubhouse and didn't see any of it. I heard the boos. I didn't see it and can't comment on it, and if I had seen it I probably wouldn't want to comment."

Rain Washes Out London Grass Court Net Finals

LONDON (AP) — Rain washed out the finals of the London open grass courts tennis championships at Queen's Club Saturday and robbed Holland's Tom Okker of a chance to win prize money totaling $2,400.

Instead, he received $840, a half-share of the combined first and second prizes.

Okker was scheduled to play Clark Graebner of New York, U.S. Davis Cup star, in the men's singles final. When the match was canceled, tournament officials and sponsors had a problem.

Although Okker, who defeated Rod Laver of Australia in a surprising upset Friday, is an amateur and a member of the Dutch Davis Cup team he has the permission of The Netherlands Tennis Association to accept prize money.

The officials had to cancel the finals because of a lack of a suitable date. Sunday is a blue day law in England. Wimbledon, also an open tourney this year for the first time, starts Monday and after that the stars scatter to all parts of the globe until the U.S. Open in September.

If the match had been played and Okker had won, he would have picked up a first prize of $2,000.

He also would have shared with Ken Fletcher of Australia, a snowball prize of $2,400 for accumlative points won in four British tournaments over the last month.

Fletcher had 10 points. Okker had not played in any of the previous snowball events but by winning here he would have got 10 points and tied with Fletcher.

As disappointed fans huddled in the clubhouse, Fletcher stood outside and sang "rain, rain, rain. It's wonderful."

Graebner is forbidden by the United States Lawn Tennis Association to compete for prize money and played for expenses only. Under the rules of the International Lawn Tennis Federation he was allowed $240 for the week.

But he won't even get that.

Don Sell, of Bethesa, Md., captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team, said "we are here to play tennis, not win prize money. Graebner will hand his voucher over to me and it will go to a Davis Cup team fund."

The British no longer recognize any difference between pros and amateurs but if players say they are competing for expenses only, Britain respects their wishes.

The women's final, between Ann Haydon Jones, British professional, and Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., an amateur, also was canceled.

Mrs. Jones collected $508, a half-share of the combined first and second prizes. Miss Richey was entitled to a voucher.

Margaret Smith Court of Australia, defeated by Mrs. Jones in the semifinals Friday won the women's prize of $1,200 in the snowball. She is an amateur, but is competing for prize money without waiting for permission from her national association.

FUTILE STRETCH — Houston Astro first baseman Rusty Staub is pulled off the bag in the fifth inning of Saturday night's game with Philadelphia on shortstop Hector Torres' wide throw. Cookie Rojas was credited with a single as he was safe at first after hitting a slow grounder. (AP Wirephoto)

Whitworth Tied With Post for LPGA Golf Lead

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

SUTTON, Mass. (AP)—Defending champion Kathy Whitworth stormed into a share of the lead with young Sandra Post of Canada with 54-hole totals of two-over-par 221 Saturday in the $20,000 Ladies PGA Tournament at the Pleasant Valley Country Club.

Miss Whitworth equalled regulation figures of 38-35—73 on the wideswept 6,130-yard course but Miss Post, who turned 20 just two weeks ago, refused to bend to pressure and shot a one-over-par 39-35—74 in a threesome just behind the 1967 champ.

Just one stroke off the pace were former U.S. Open champion Sandra Spuzich and Gerda Whalen of Germany. Miss Spuzich had a 73 while Mrs. Whalen had a 74.

Beth Stone moved to within two strokes of the lead with a one-under-par 72 and a 54-hole total of 223.

Clifford Ann Creed moved to within five strokes of the pace by firing the best round of the tournament, a two-under-par 71 for a 226 total.

Another three strokes back were Betsy Rawls, Donna Caponi, Margie Masters and Sue Maxwell Berning.

Sandra Haynie slipped to a 75 and fell three strokes behind the co-leaders going into the final round of the 72-hole tournament.

Lions Blast Woodward

By GARY COLEMAN
Gazette Telegraph
Sports Writer

The Lions of the Legion "B" baseball program won their second straight game Saturday afternoon but the victory won't count toward the league standings.

The Lions downed Woodward, Oklahoma, 2-0 in an exhibition game, even though the Lions were able to muster only four hits in the game.

Pitching proved to be the big factor for both teams—except in the Lions' half of the fifth.

Lion starter Rick Clark, who went the distance, and Woodward hurler Ronnie Clinesmith locked up in a duel for the first four innings. Through the fourth Clark had allowed just three hits while Clinesmith had been even more miserly, allowing only two.

The Lions finally got to Clinesmith in the fifth. Leadoff man Clark reached first when he was hit by a pitch and consecutive singles by Steve Weatherly and Paul Williams loaded the bases.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A circuit court judge refused Saturday to remove an injunction that blocks—at least for 30 days—a state racing commission hearing on the Kentucky Derby disqualification of Dancer's Image.

Franklin Circuit Judge Henry Meigs held that a commission hearing must be at least 30 days after Peter Fuller of Boston, owner of the horse, obtains complete data on testing standards of the Association of Official Racing Chemists.

In addition, the judge told the racing commission to issue a subpoena to its chemist, Kenneth W. Smith, who has copies of the AORC reports.

Meigs also told the commission it could hold no hearing in the case until final court disposition is made of charges the commission has made against two of Fuller's lawyers, Edward S. Bonnie and Arthur Grafton.

Meigs has forbidden the commission from proceeding in its case against the lawyers at all, so the commission's only choice now is to drop them or have Meigs' injunction overturned by the state Court of Appeals.

The judge's latest ruling involes a case that began when Dancer's Image was disqualified as this year's Derby winner after a chemists' report said an illegal medication was found in the horse's urine after the May 4 race.

Smith's firm made the chemists' report.

Churchill Downs stewards made the disqualification official May 15 after a three-day hearing and Fuller is appealing to the commission.

First, however, he wants certain documents, including the AORC reports, made available to him.

The racing commission, represented by the state attorney general, asked that Meigs' entire injunction involving the disqualification hearing be dissolved. Meigs had issued it two weeks ago.

However, the judge erased only those parts of the injunction that involved conditions already met by the commission.

Asst. Atty. Gen. George Rabe told the judge in a two-hour hearing the commission had given Fuller's lawyers everything available to it concerning the case.

Rabe said the question is merely whether tests used by Smith in finding phenylbutazone in the urine specimen of Dancer's Image were valid.

Stuart E. Lampe, one of Fuller's lawyers, said there are two questions involved: "First, was there phenylbutazone in the horse, and second was there enough . . . to affect the speed or health of the horse."

St. Louis Takes Seventh Triumph; Cepeda, McCarver Spark 6-1 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The streaking St. Louis Cardinals won their seventh straight game and 21st in the last 25 Saturday, downing Atlanta 6-1 on Ray Washburn's seven-hitter.

Orlando Cepeda and Tim McCarver each tagged home runs and drove in three runs apiece for the defending world champions, who have opened a commanding lead in the National League race.

McCarver hit his fifth of the year in the first inning after an error by Atlanta shortstop Sonny Jackson. Cepeda's No. 9 came with the bases empty in the fourth.

In the American League, first place Detroit dropped its second straight to Cleveland, 2-0, with both Indian runs coming on a homer by Max Alvis.

Steve Hargan and three relief pitchers combined for the five-hit shutout that cut the Tigers' league lead to 6½ games.

New York's rookie battery of Stan Bahnsen and Frank Fernandez led the Yankees to a 5-2 victory over Minnesota.

Bahsen fired a six-hitter for his seventh victory and struck out nine. Fernandez keyed a four-run seventh inning rally with a two-run double that put the Yankees in front.

Bush Pilot Wins Turf Club Race

The Pikes Peak Turf Club presented a great race card Saturday for 2111 patrons who wagered $64,635 on the program which saw three stake races run plus the eighth in the Endurance Handicap Series.

The Pikes Peak Turf Club Quarter Horse Futurity was won by Eugene Perkins of Colorado Springs when his two punch entry of Bush Pilot and Mandate were declared winner and runner-up after the original win and place horses, the Lewis Wartchow trained entry of Pas Paul Pas and Moolah Me were both disqualified for fouling. Ronnie Reed was astride Bush Pilot, as the favored entry won the largest purse in Southern Colorado racing history.

The featured thoroughbred race of the day, the Arkansas Valley Derby, went to E. J. Cole of Peyton, Colorado who saw his entry of Flying Net and Cole Story run one-two as the favorites. Flying Net broke on top and led all the way, while Stablemate closed strongly to only miss by a head for the top spot. Frank Betancourt was astride Flying Net for the third of his four winners for the day.

Price of Recruiting College Grid Star Soars

NEW YORK (AP) — The price of recruiting and retaining the college football hero—like everything else—is soaring.

The payoffs range from the old non-existent job and a fistful of tickets to insurance policies, unbilled charge accounts and the statistical checklist.

There are many ways the amateur rules are being beaten at the colleges and universities. It's nothing new.

But the means are now more complex, more varied and more widespread than ever, The Associated Press has learned.

The reasons are simple. Colleges with large stadia depend on football to pay for the entire athletic program and enhance prestige. In order to fill the seats, the best athletic talent must be sought.

When Grambling College was recently charged with turning out future professional athletes rather than scholars, its president, Dr. R. W. E. Jones, made an eloquent retort.

"The problem is," he said, "that nobody pays $6 a seat to go see a math class."

Under-the-table deals made to assure a star athlete's attendance at a given school are handled in many instances apart from the college administration. The alumni—both individually and in groups, booster organizations and-or local merchants—are the benefactors.

College officials either can't do much about all this athletic help or turn their backs on it.

Bodies like the National Collegiate Athletic Association and hte various conferences can punish schools for rules infractions by coaching staffs. No truly effective way has been found to control the outsiders.

Ask an institution what a given football player receives and generally the answer is a full scholarship. That means tuition, room, board and books plus a small amount of expense money. This is public record.

But it often takes more to get a much-sought-after athlete to select his school.

A current pro star was lured by a university in a neighboring state partly by the handsome living quarters he was shown. When he opened a closet door, he found a lavish wardrobe as well. It was all courtesy of local businessmen.

Boys have been landed by the revelation they can have charge accounts at the major stores in the community. Within reason and sometimes well beyond it, they are not billed for their purchases. The money comes from those who know that happy heroes make for winning football which spells free-spending weekend crowds.

To capitalize on family ties, schools sometimes offer a prospect's father a job at a substantial salary not too far from the campus. In one instance, a man with no previous governmental experience found himself with office and minor title in the state capitol building.

If dad has had coaching experience he might just wind up as an assistant at the school determined to have his son's services.

Deals for the girlfriend are included, too. One midwest university landed a prize lineman by giving his finance a full scholarship. In another case the young lady was given a job on campus.

The campus job is an ancient device intended to make life at a given college look more attractive. It involves a set salary listed on the school books but because the athlete seldom has to do any of the work for which he is paid, the money actually is a football talent bonus.

Also old hat is the gift of a car, preferably a sports or convertible model, by which the alumni can make a shiny, high-polished, big horsepower point that their college has all the advantages.

In order to supplement a player's advantages, some schools turnover to him tickets to sell for games, away as well as home.

He is guaranteed they will be purchased back by designated individuals for a set figure, usually reflecting an alumni appraisal of his performances on the field to that date.

Sometimes a less astute boy will try to make a better deal on his own and wind up disciplined or expelled.

One athlete was given a prearranged $100 each for his bowl game tickets.

From the old days come stories of a prospect being whisked off by supporters of one school just as he was stepping aboard a train to enroll at another. That's too crude for today's subtle means.

And straight cash payments are too awkward and easily traced.

The figures are extremely impressive yet the policies cost nowhere near the amount a straight cash outlay would.

Being an expensive item, transportation has entered the under-the-table offers category. The total value varies from athlete to athlete but it is not uncommon for a better known player to be provided with tickets for two or three round-trip flights home during every school year.

One former southern school back has confided he was paid $1 for every net yard rushing he achieved on the varsity.

But the statistical checklist provides a more comprehensive payoff. At least one school's boosters have compiled a pay scale whereby a player gets a set price for each touchdown, pass reception, fumble recovery, interception, quarterback thrown for a loss, etc.

What happens when a boy signs with a pro team halfway through his senior year? In at least scattered instances, he has been named an assistant coach for spring practice, thereby, in effect, retaining the equivalent of his scholarship until the school year is over.

The competitive pressure to land top talent continues to mount.

It took a judge's decision to assure hometown hero Billy Cannon would attend Louisiana State back in the mid-fifties.

As the result of a juvenile court brush, Cannon was ordered to reside within a certain number of miles of Baton Rouge for the next few years.

It just so happened LSU was the only big time football power which fit the requirements if Cannon was going to college.

More than one big name star of recent vintage has not been required to view the inside of a classroom. As mementos of their college exposure, such players receive copious benefits, letters and a certificate of attendance in no way to be confused with a diploma.

But then their high school diplomas, at least in some cases, were awarded without the assurance that the recipient could read or write.

Big time football?

Well, one collegian whose class had been graduated but who had eligibility remaining was approached with a professional offer. He rejected it on the grounds it would be a pay cut.

Oddsmakers Favor Frazier Over

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The oddsmakers give Manuel Ramos as much chance against jolting Joe Frazier Monday night as a snowball against a 60-ton tank.

Although two of his victims, Eddie Machen and Ernie Terrell, describe Ramos as a very tough hombre, the tall, handsome Mexican champion was rated a 4-1 and up underdog for his title fight with the five-state heavyweight champion at Madison Square Garden.

"The odds mean nothing," said the 6-foot 3,205-pound challenger who has won 15 straight. "I can punch and so can he. I hope to surprise everyone. I didn't come here to lose."

Frazier has won all 20 of his pro fights, 18 of them by knockout.

"I don't know much about the guy and I ain't taking chances," said Frazier. "I'm coming out smoking like I always do."

The television 15-rounder hasn't generated much excitement hereabouts. About 500 of Ramos' countrymen have come up from Mexico to whoop it up for their champion.

Harry Markson, the Garden's director of boxing, predicts a crowd of upwards of 10,000 will pay more than $100,000 at ticket prices ranging from $5 to $40.

The fight will be telecast coast to coast and to Mexico by Sports Network. New York and a 90-mile area around the city will be blacked out of the telecast. Starting time is 9:30 p.m., EDT.

Frazier, of Philadelphia will collect 40 per cent and Ramos 20 per cent of the net gate and television receipts. Frazier, who earned more than $175,000 for his 11th round knockout of previously unbeaten Buster Mathis at the Garden March 4, may be getting a $125,000 guarantee.

Ramos, a pro five years, figures to get his biggest purse. He said his top pay was $10,000 for his 10-round decision victory over Terrell, the former World Boxing Association heavyweight champion, at Mexico City last Oct. 14.

That was the victory that established the 24-year-old Mexican as a world class fighter in an undistinguished collection of heavyweight contenders. His record is 20-6-2 with 16 knockouts.

Against Terrell Manuel displayed an aggressive style, a hurting left hook and an effective right uppercut, as well as a strong jaw and a volnerable defense.

"To get in a punch you have to take one," said Ramos. "You can't punch hard without leaving yourself open. I'm willing to trade punches and, from watching Frazier's fights on television, I know he comes to fight."

Frazier charges his opponents and throws punches with both hands. He likes to waar down his foes with body bombs.

The husky, muscular champion has been floored three times in his career while Ramos claims he never has been floored.

Mike Bruce dropped Frazier in the second round before he was belted out in the next round nearly three years ago. Oscar Bonavena, the Argentine bull, dropped Frazier twice in the second round before losing a 10-round decision on Sept. 21, 1966.

In winning his last 15 fights, 12 by knockout, Ramos has stopped nine opponents in three or less rounds. He has been told to try to get Frazier early.

It could be an exciting fight as long as it lasts.

"Someone's gotta go in six rounds," said matchmaker Teddy Brenner. "Both of them are punchers."

Storm Halts Yacht Race

A total of 152 yachts had been scheduled to compete in the 635-mile ocean racing classic.

Sidney Rogers, race chairman for the Cruising Club of America and the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club announced the one-day delay.

This year's race is the 26th renewal in a series which began as a two-boat race in 1906. The fleet is expected to take three to six days to complete the course.

Garden of Gods Club to Host Golf Tourney

The Garden of the Gods Club will hold the seventh annual Smoochers Invitational Golf Tournament Tuesday.

The tournament, which begins at 9 a.m., has a field of 144 women from 16 states. A practice round is scheduled for Monday, followed by actual play Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. A shotgun start will be used.

Last year's winners are back. Mrs. John Griffith Jr. and Mrs. A. L. Zaepfel took the 1967 title with a 227, while Mrs. Ken Morrison and Mrs. Richard Sutton had the low net of 198, 24 under par.

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Glamorous Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklas may look like mere mortals this week when firing starts in the $110,000 sixth annual Cleveland Open golf tournament.

Golf fans here will be straining for a look at the pro tour's newest sensation, Lee Trevino of El Paso, Tex.

Trevino, a 28-year-old Mexican-American, passed up the Canadian Open and will be making his first appearance since his brilliant victory in the U.S. Open.

The colorful rags-to-riches golfer, should be a delight to watch. Unlike Palmer and Nicklaus, he plays extremely fast. No matter how tough the shot or the pressure, he walks up and whacks the ball.

Described as a jokester and a wise-cracking comedian, Trevino keeps up a running conversation with the fans. "When they don't talk to me, I talk to myself," he says.

His $30,000 victory in the Open was his first professional tournament triumph in a one-year career and his 275 winning total matched the lowest score ever shot in the Open. He'll be gunning for the $22,000 first prize in this week's tournament.

Nicklaus has never won here and hasn't won a tournament in seven months. But his second-place finish in the Open indicates he may be ready to crack the winner's circle.

Palmer, still the biggest name in golf, has been in a terrible slump but usually plays well here. He won the first Cleveland Open in 1963 in a playoff with the late Tony Lema and Tommy Aaron, lost in a playoff to Lema in 1964, finished 10th in 1965, was well down the list in 1966 and finished in a tie for ninth place last year.

Gardner Dickinson registered a four-stroke victory in last year's event and R. H. Sikes posted the lowest score—268—in capturing the 1966 tourney at the Lakewood Country Club, the site of this week's competition.

The 6,770-yard Lakewood course is expected to be a lot tougher than two years ago.

Another entry to watch is Bert Yancey, who led the U.S. Open thorugh the first three rounds before fading to Trevino's last round rush. Yancey has played in three Cleveland Opens but has yet to win a dollar.

Masters' champion Bob Goalby and Billy Casper, winner of four tournaments, also are in the field of 144.

On Monday, the non-exempt players will bid for berths in the 72-hole tourney which begins Thursday. A qualifier by touring pros for the PGA championship is the Tuesday feature while a pro-amateur will highlight Wednesday's action.

Balustrade Wins Delaware Race

STANTON, Del. (AP) — Balustrade, fourth choice in the field of five 3-year-olds, upset King Ranch's favored Draft Card by 2½ lengths and won the $46,130 Leonard Richards Stakes at Delaware Park Saturday.

Flying the silks of Thaddeus R. Trout of Palm Beach, Fla., Balustrade accounted for his first stakes triumph under Canadian jockey Eric Walsh.

The time was 1:50 1-5 for the 1⅛ miles.

Russian Sets New Mark in Weightlifting

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Viktor Kurentzov, Soviet army weightlifter set a world record in the middleweight press Saturday night with a lift of 354.9 pounds at the European Championships. He broke his own previous record of 353 pounds.

Ortiz Risks Lightweight Crown Against Teo Cruz

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz, who has defended his title in Tokyo, Panama, Mexico and Puerto Rico among other places, risks his crown in Santo Domingo Saturday night against Teo Cruz, a Dominican.

The 31-year-old champion, who trained in New York and San Juan, Puerto Rico, arrived here last Wednesday with manager Billy Daly.

"I'm ready as I'll ever be," said Ortiz. "I'll try and end the fight as soon as I can."

This is the first world title fight ever held in the Dominican Republic. Cruz, the No. 1 lightweight contender, is the first from the country to fight for a world title.

Promoter Uluses Frias expects a crowd of 20,000, at from $3 to $25 each, at Quisqueya Stadium. Ortiz will receive about $60,000; Cruz will collect $10,000.

The Dominican, a resident of Puerto Rico for a number of years, is confident that he can beat Ortiz.

"I can't fail my countrymen," he said.

The only opportunity given Cruz, a very light puncher, is by forcing the fight from the start and hoping champion tires.

But Cruz is no spring chicken either. Nobody seems to know his real age. Some people say he is 28 or 29 and some others say he is even older than Ortiz.

Cruz moved to Puerto Rico about six years ago and for a time didn't seem to be going anywhere. Up to 1965 his record showed 17 victories against 11 defeats.

Suddeny he caught fire beating Frankie Taylor in London and then Vicente Derado, Paul Armstead, Bunny Grant, Derado again and Frankie Narvaez.

As many as 2,000 Puerto Ricans are expected to take the 40 minute trip by jet to see Ortiz, a Puerto Rican native.

It will be the champion's 12th title match since beating Joe Brown for the crown in Las Vegas April 21, 1962.

He lost it to Panama's Ismael Laguna in April, 1965, and recaptured it five months later in San Juan.

His last bout was in August of last year at Shea Stadium in New York, when he again defeated Laguna in a title fight.

Italian Netter Sets Mark

By DENNIS REDMONT

ROME (AP)—At the ripe old age of 35, Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli has become the seemingly eternal Davis Cup player.

In a country where cycling and soccer stars rise and fade fast, he has been going strong for the past 15 years. Last week he played his 51st Davis Cup match for what must be a world record.

In the process, Pietrangeli powered his team into the European Zone final against Spain.

In between Davis Cup matches and tournaments, Pietrangeli has become a fashion-trend setter, a radio commentator, a polo shirt salesman, a knight of Italy's highest order, a tennis teacher and somewhat of a national hero.

But he has steadily resisted turning professional, mostly because of strong pressure from the Italian Federation, which offered him a teacher's job.

"What I can't understand is that people will not accept that I lose a match," Pietrangeli complains. "After all, I am getting older and my legs do bother me sometimes."

For once, Italian fans were lenient last week when Pietrangeli played—and lost—his 151st Davis cup match against Russia's Alex Metreveli 6-0, 6-0, 6-1.

"If it had been a normal tournament match, I would have dropped out. My muscles were completely unresponsive," he explained after the match. Earlier however, he had won his other singles in four easy sets and led the doubles team to victory for a 3-2 triumph over Russia.

Pietrangeli has won more than half of his Davis Cup games, since he joined the team at age 20.

In 1959 and 1962 he brought Italy to the challenge round against Australia. He was the only Italian to win one game out of the ten played.

Pietrangeli began playing tennis early. He was born in Tunis, but his father soon came to Italy.

One of his only weaknesses is his impatience. He often shouts at spectators or at the referee when a point is in dispute.

Off the field, Pietrangeli displays a scintillating personality. He dresses elegantly, hobnobs with actors, actresses and the Rome based jet set.

Pietrangeli says he will remain at the service of Italy's Tennis Federation as long as it feels he is needed.

His greatest concern is training a crop of young players to replace him and Australian born Martin Mulligan, who now plays for Italy in the Davis Cup.

"I have run after enough rubber balls for Italy," he says.

"It soon will be time for others to take over."

Coaches All-America Football Game Set

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Coaches of both squads say they believe the Coaches All-America football game, to be played here June 28, may well be the best of all the many all-star contests.

The reason is, they say, that all of last season's top football players will be praticipating.

"I'd say we are a lot more fortunate than they are in most of the other all-star games," said Indiana's John Pont, head coach of the East. "In December and January, when most of the other games are played, a number of your best performers are committed to bowl games and you can never have them all assembled at once."

Pont said the game here will bring together all of the nation's leading players who are physically able to perform.

"I think that is an intriguing thing—to have all this talent on the field at once," he said in an interview.

Dee Andros of Oregon State, head coach for the West, was quick to agree.

"There's no question that we have—at least on paper—the most outstanding athletes in the country," he said. "These boys all are going inot professional football, and I know they're really outstanding individuals. We're looking for them to put on quite a show."

Mexico Predicts Games Will Bring No Rewards

By CHARLES GREEN

MEXICO CITY (AP) — One of Mexico's oldest and largest banking institutions predicts the 1968 Mexican Olympic games in October will bring no great financial rewards to the country.

"General perspectives auger a growth similar to that of last year," says the Banco Nacional de Mexico. "Factors such as prices, salaries, costs, growing competition will be decisive in keeping the favorable circumstances of 1968 from causing exceptional growth."

It has been estimated it will cost the Mexican government about $80 million to stage the Games, Oct. 12-27. This figure includes everything from freeway construction to food for athletes and is considered by many to be a conservative estimate.

In return the country is already receiving worldwide publicity which will benefit the tourist industry—Mexico's biggest dollar earner and perhaps go a long way toward dispelling mistaken views of Mexico as a slow moving manana country.

"The publicity campaigns suggest the current exercise will cause a great growth, but in reality will the games be a bonanza?," Banco Nacional asked in its monthly report.

The biggest gain could be in the tourist industry, the Banco said, with a 14 per cent tourism increase over 1967 although each Olympic visitor is expected to spend, $144 compared with the $200 spent by the average non-Olympic tourist.

LA President Predicts Baseball's Future

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Walter Francis O'Malley, who has an interesting theory as to why he has been called the most powerful man in baseball, also has an answer to those who view the future of the game with pessimism.

The president of the Los Angeles Dodgers and the man who pioneered big league baseball to the West prefaces his views with this observation:

"It seems that now in every business there is a tremendous amount of negative thinking and very little positive thinking, even in such matters as patriotism, religion, the family. It's a period we are going through of tear down, don't build up.

"It's a period of tenseness, assassinations, rapes, riots, looting, murder.

"Everything seems to have the people dejected and depressed.

"And until we break through, like we did after World War II, when all of a sudden we broke through the top of the world and said let's go to a restaurant, let's go to a movie, a hotel, let's travel, see America, let's do something....

"Until we get that feeling of relaxation from tension I think we'll have to suffer through all the negative thinking that is evident today.

"I don't see how baseball today can be considered to be in a sick condition when there are more cities that want franchises and there are more youngsters playing baseball than ever before in the history of the country.

"I think the future of baseball is pretty good. Pretty good."

O'Malley's remarks were in an interview in his spacious office overlooking Dodger Stadium.

Question: "Many have called you the most powerful individual in the National League, if not all baseball. Are you"

"The question put as it was has to draw this type of answer.

"If the allegation were true, I'm sure things would be a lot different.

"Personally I do not believe in expansion, I do not believe in divisional play, I do not believe in changing the tradition of the World Series, I do not believe in the free agent draft; many things like that.

"But I think the story gets around partly because I devote all of my time to baseball. Therefore I'm available to serve on more committees than some of the other men who have as their principle occupation their more important and much larger businesses.

"So I'm baseball all the time and if they need some one to go out and pull the weeds or plant a tree I'll take a shovel and do it if I have to.

"It does not necessarily mean that I agree with all the decisions the owners are making."

It took a unanimous vote of the National League owners to approve expansion to Montreal and San Diego.

Obviously it would have been advantageous for economic — as well as personal reasons — for O'Malley to vote against San Diego, just 130 miles to the South.

But he did not and actually fought for San Diego. And, as he pointed out, the same situation applied when the American League expanded to Los Angeles — and on to Anaheim.

The O'Malley critics, and he concedes he still has a few back East, can only take his word for his actions.

"I have a strong feeling that a vote should not be based on selfish reasons," he said. "You have got to look at it on a stndpoint of baseball generally."

He said he regards both Montreal, where he operated a club successfully some years back, and San Diego as good National League franchises.

E.J. "Buzzie" Bavasi, long time general manager of the Dodgers, is, with O'Malley's help and blessing, president at San Diego.

"San Diego is no longer simply a Navy town," O'Malley noted. "It has light and heavy manufacturing, aircraft and electronic industries. The population from here to San Diego is mushrooming.

"And Buzzie, I'm told, is gearing his operation to attendance of one million, not a million five or a million seven-fifty.

"Of course, I'm sure he hopes for a few 'honeymoon years' such as the Dodgers enjoyed when they came to Los Angeles."

Does O'Malley harbor any regrets about leaving Booklyn.

He answered quickly. "No. We have many nostalgic connections and many friends back there, but we are very happy in this charming city.

"We tried for 10 long years to acquire land, which we were going to pay for, to build a stadium, which we were going to pay for, all without success.

"When a high ranking official told us we 'didn't have a chance,' I told him goodbye."

O'Malley has high regard for baseball in Japan, a subject he has studied closely for 12 years. He said there are at least 100 Japanese ballplayers who could play in the major leagues here.

Economically, such as ticket prices, there isn't much difference between the Japanese operations and the U.S.

But, said O'Malley in a switch from general thinking, it could be that Japanese baseball people wouldn't be particularly interested in becoming a part of American baseball.

If they were, the Japanese could find no more ardent supporter than Walter Francis O'Malley.

Wimbledon Tennis Tourney

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LONDON (AP) — When plans were made for the first open Wimbledon tennis championships most everyone expected the sport's most prestigious tournament would be a field day for the pros.

Now, as a result of four open tourneys staged so far, including the upset-studded London Grass Courts Championships, Wimbledon, opening Monday, looms as a wide open event.

Five of promoter George MacCall's elite pro group of six men, including ace Rod Laver, and all four of the women in his troupe, already have been beaten by amateurs.

Laver, the left-handed superstar who had been made an even money favorite to take Wimbledon, was beaten in the London semifinals by Tom Okker, the vastly improved Dutch star who is a left-handed swinger, too.

To rub it in some more, Okker met Clark Graebner of New York, another amateur, in the London final. Graebner had knocked off pro Fred Stolle earlier in the week.

Also beaten by amateurs were Spain's Andres Gimeno, Australian Roy Emerson and Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles.

The Wimbledon seedings were made before the London tournament, and only three male amateurs made the list of 16. Manuel Uantana, of Spain, the 1966 winner, was seeded sixth, Okker 12th and Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., 13th.

Laver heads the seeds followed by Rosewall, Gimeno and Australians John Newcombe and Roy Emerson.

Newcombe is the defending champion. Laver won Wimbledon in 1961 and 1962, and Emerson was the champion in 1964 and 1965.

Other former champions in the star-studded field include Frank Sedgman, Australia, 1952; Lew Hoad, Australia, 1955, 1957; and Alex Olmedo of Peru and Los Angeles, 1959.

Of the four women pros, only Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., rates as a superstar and she has been beaten twice recently by Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., now the No. 1 American amateur. The other pros are Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, Ann Haydon Jones of England and Francoise Durr of France.

Mrs. King, Wimbledon winner the last two years, has been seeded first followed by Margaret Smith Court of Australia, Miss Richey, Mrs. Jones, Virginia Wade of England, Maria Buenoof Brazil and Australia's Judy Tegartand Lesley Turner Bowrey.

Miss Bueno won at Wimbledon in 1959, 1960 and 1964. Mrs. Court was champion in 1963 and 1965.

The pros will be shooting for $62,760 in prize money including $4,800 for the men's singles winner and $1,800 for the women's singles champion.

Olympic Cage Team Drops Russians

MINSK, U.S.S.R. (AP) — The U.S. Olympic basketball team defeated a Russian team 84-69 Saturday night in the opening game of an international tournament, Tass news agency reported.

The American team, coached by Harold Hunter of Tennessee State, led 36-30 at halftime.

Individual scoring figures were not available.

Pole Vaulter Sets Record

SMEDJEBACKEN, Sweden (AP) — Kjell Isaksson, the second Swedish pole jumper to clear the magic 16-foot mark, broke the national record by clearing 16-7 Saturday. The old record of 16-6 was held by John-Erik Blomqvist.

Amphicat

No spot is too remote for Amphicat. This wiry tiger with 6-wheel drive takes you through swamps, over sand, mud, snow and ice, even on the water to where the sporting action is. It's no pussycat in open country either. You can cruise along at 35 m.p.h.
Amphicat has a tough, high-impact body and welded chassis to take the hardest knocks. Here's a dream vehicle for the hunter, fisherman, beach enthusiast, or for the man who loves seclusion.
Come in today. Let us tell you more about America's most versatile and mobile vehicle — Amphicat.

It floats! Takes anglers to secluded areas, then becomes a boat.

Beach enthusiasts love its ability to take the steepest dunes.

Amphicat's sure grip on snow and ice makes it a favorite with ice fishermen.

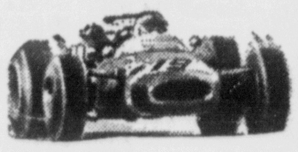
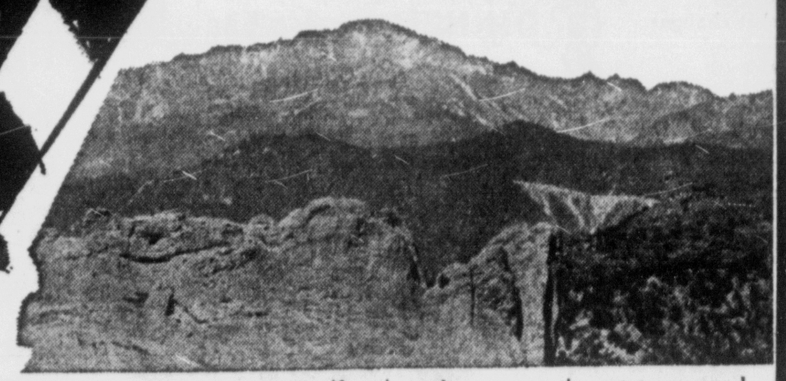
PONTIAC
GTO
OFFICIAL PACE CAR
1968 Pikes Peak Hill Climb





Over the years Pontiac has proven itself a champion . . . on the raceways, and on the highways, and city streets and by-ways. There's nothing quite like the Pontiac Wide Track drive. Try it before you buy any car! The wonderful Wide Track ride is superb . . . and Pontiac's low price will surprise you.

THE GREAT WIDE TRACK DRIVE IS ON...SAVE!
See a Wide Track man during our Wide Track Drive. Drive a champion and enjoy the savings. You'll be as proud of your Pontiac as we are of the Pikes Peak Hill Climb pace car.

NOT QUITE THE SAME

LONDON, Ohio (AP) — Roy McNeal, custodian at the Madison County Courthouse, caught a youngster red-handed after the lad had uprooted one tulip, trampled another and snipped off still another. He told the youth he would give him 48 hours to replace the three tulips or he would tell his father. When McNeal returned to the courthouse flower garden the next, he found the boy had replaced the three tulips with artificial flowers.

Demo Convention May Face Issue Of Mississippi

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Convention faces a possible replay this year of the bitter 1964 fight over seating Mississippi's delegation.

Lawrence Guyot Jr., chairman of the mostly Negro Mississippi Freedom Democratic party, said his group definitely "will send a counterdelegation to Chicago" when the convention opens Aug. 26 to contest the state's regular Democratic party for seats.

Guyot, in Washington with the Poor People's Campaign, told an interviewer that the regular Mississippi delegation was chosen under procedures which did not conform to national convention rules.

At the 1964 convention, Freedom Democrats contended they should be given the state's floor seats because Negroes were excluded from the processes under which the regular delegation was selected.

The credentials committee reached a compromise, after several days of wrangling, under which the Freedom Democrats were given two seats. These were in addition to the places accorded the regular state delegation.

At the same time, the committee recommended, and the convention adopted, a rules change specifying that in the future Negroes must be allowed to participate in selection of delegates.

Guyot contends this was not done in Mississippi. He said his position has the support of various groups in the state.

The Tax Foundation, Inc., estimates total taxes to be collected in fiscal 1968 by all levels of government will equal about $3,550 per family, up $134 from last year.

A TWEET LIFE

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The backyard of Grady Belk's home is a rainbow of color and a symphony of tweets. The 65-year-old retired carpenter has 500 parakeets in varying colors of bright plumage flutering about there.

Although he does sell some of the birds, he raises them primarily as a hobby. It costs at least $100 a month to feed his flock the mixture of millet, oats and other grains. "I don't make any money on the birds," he says, "but it keeps me from twiddling my thumbs since I retired."

Heroic Action Earns Officer Silver Star

"When I graduated from high school, I was disgusted with everything," said Lt. Duane E. Abbey of Ft. Carson. "I didn't want to go to college and nothing interested me. My father is a teacher, and he was anxious for me to complete my education, but I wouldn't do it."

Scorning further study Abbey, then 18 and just out of Rubidoux High School in Riverside, Calif., soon found himself in the Army. After completing basic training at Ft. Polk, La., he developed an ambition to become an officer.

The only member of his class in officers' candidate school who had never attended college, and the youngest, he made the grade through sheer intelligence and determination. "My aptitude scores were pretty high," he says modestly.

In early May 1967, the young officer arrived in Vietnam. He was a member of the 1st Battalion, 8th Artillery. Last January, while he was serving as artillery forward observer with C Company, 1st Battalion, 27th Infantry on a search and destroy mission, one of the company's platoons came under heavy fire from a well-entrenched enemy force.

Abbey left the relative safety of the command group and ran into the thick of the battle. When he realized that friendly and enemy elements were separated by only 25 to 30 yards—too little space to call in artillery fire — he began assisting casualties.

He gave first aid to the badly-wounded senior medic and made his way through intense fire to within 30 yards of enemy positions to treat and evacuate a wounded man.

The young lieutenant returned to the "kill zone" six times, through devastating fire, to evacuate wounded. When the evacation point came under fire, he began moving the wounded farther to the rear.

When medevac helicopters arrived, he supervised the orderly loading and evacuation of three lifts from the area.

Now at Ft. Carson as commander of Headquarters and Service Battery, 1st Battalion, 29th Artillery, Abbey recently received the Silver Star in recognition of his heroic action. He has less than 90 days remaining in the service.

Asked what he planned for the future, the young officer appeared surprised. "I'm going to college," he said. His tone implied "What else?"

Ray's Lawyer Not Aligned With Any Party

By LAWRENCE MALKIN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Attorney Arthur J. Hanes Sr., retained by James Earl Ray to defend him against the charge of murdering Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., told newsmen Thursday he is not allied with any group "right or left." But he would not say where the money to pay him will come from.

Hanes, a former mayor of Birmingham, Ala., arrived in London Thursday morning and said he would represent Ray if he is extradited.

He refused to say who would pay his legal fees, commenting, "I have faith that I'll get by."

Hanes successfully defended three Klansmen in an Alabama court three years ago against a charge that they murdered Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo during the Selma - to - Montgomery civil rights march.

The lawyer said he received a letter from Ray on June 14, six days after he was arrested at London airport, asking Hanes to represent him. He said he had never seen Ray and is still not certain the man held in Britain is Ray.

Ray is being held in the former death cell at London's Wandsworth Prison awaiting an extradition hearing next Thursday. A fugitive from the Missouri State Penitentiary, he is accused of the sniper slaying of the Negro civil rights leader at Memphis, Tenn., April 4.

Hanes said he will take no part in the extradition proceedings, and probably will not be allowed to see Ray until the extradition case is decided.

However, he hinted that he has already started working on the defense case. "Since I received the letter. . .I and my associates and investigators have not been idle," he said. He would not elaborate.

Commenting on the Ray case, he said: "There are no political overtones to it. I am not interested in any political ideology. I try a case on its merits."

Hanes' son and partner, Arthur J. Jr., is with him.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — Despite Eugene McCarthy's successes in the New York primary, he is still as far away from his party's presidential nomination as he was when Robert F. Kennedy was alive.

This is the conclusion of the politicians generally here as they study the voting results. In their opinion, there was major significence in what happened in New York, but totally unrelated to McCarthy's own campaign for the presidency.

The significance was in the extent of anti-administration sentiment displayed by rank and file Democrats. That same sentiment had been evident throughout the preferential primaries that began in New Hampshire in March and ended in California on June 4.

But in New York this sentiment was far more clear cut because the personality issue of Robert F. Kennedy was no longerinvolved as a confusing factor.

So, for the first time actually, Hubert Humphrey now must become thoroughly aware of the dimensions of the split in his party over the Vietnam issue primarily. It is now absolutely clear that the divisiveness among Democrats is deep and lasting.

What this means is that Humphrey still remains assured of the Democratic presidential nomination against his one rival, McCarthy, but must face up to the fact that in all probability he cannot be elected.

Certainly it now appears that there is a passionate anti-administration uprising in Humphrey's party that all his blandishments cannot likely suppress.

And it is clearly an anti-Johnson, anti-Humphrey revolt, not a pro-McCarthy movement, despite the Minnesota senator's efforts to twist election returns to make it appear so.

The shade of difference in the party split in New York, compared with California for example, was clearly due in part to the fact that with Kennedy dead, McCarthy was the only live anti-Johnson candidate left for the party dissidents to rally around.

The supreme question ever since this presidential campaign began has been the long-range significance of the Democratic Party split. Moreover, it has been hard to interpret, until New York, the way people voted in the various state primaries, especially those in which Kennedy and McCarthy were pitted against each other.

For example, in the June 4 California primary, Kennedy had 1,445,880 votes and McCarthy 1,309,726. Both were anti-administration candidates. But who knows exactly how many McCarthy votes there were actually anti-Kennedy votes.

Kennedy had always, since he entered the race after the New Hampshire primary of March 12, been considered the real threat to the Democratic Party "establishment." Hence, it was natural in California for Johnson-Humphrey Democrats to vote for McCarthy in order to eliminate Kennedy from convention consideration.

Some Kennedy aides have estimated that not more than half of McCarthy's vote in California was actually for McCarthy, the rest being an anti-Kennedy vote.

Yet McCarthy headquarters here have been pedaling the line since Kennedy's assassination that the combined Kennedy-McCarthy vote in California was wholly anti-administration. This made a very pretty statistic — 88 per cent of California Democrats against the Johnson-Humphrey administration.

Similarly, the McCarthy campaign camp added up the combined Indiana primary vote of May 7 to claim that the 530,000 votes cast for Gene and Bobby, as against 234,000 for the Humphrey "stand-in," Gov. Branigin, showed that Indiana Democrats were 69.4 per cent anti-administration.

If you were a registered Democrat in either Indiana or California and wanted to cut Kennedy down to size, wouldn't you be inclined to use a McCarthy ballot for that purpose?

Those should be sufficient examples of the extent the anti-administration vote was fuzzed up while Kennedy was alive. Almost any reading could be made of it. And Humphrey forces always have sought the bright side. So until New York it was possible to conclude that the percentage of dissident Democrats had been grossly overestimated.

There had been definitely a conviction that a real party unity problem existed. But there was also supreme confidence that Humphrey could pull the party together again. This confidence became even stronger as a result of Kennedy's tragic death.

Hence the dimensions of the anti-Humphrey, anti-administration vote in New York were not foreseen.

What can Humphrey do now? He must reassess again the pattern of his whole campaign, as he was first forced to reassess it after the Kennedy assassination. And unless he comes up with a new image, separated on a once-removed basis from the administration he has been part of and a cheerleader for, how can he be elected?

And Vietnam is the one issue on which he is most vulnerable so far as the anti-administration rank-and-file Democrats are concerned.

Realistically, about all he can look forward to without being an extreme optimist is being nominated by his party for President on a "caretaker" basis — with the responsibility of eventually uniting the party for elections past November 1968.

Venezuela Warships Nab Russian Vessel

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Venezuelan warships seized the Soviet ocean-going tug Idonobon Gromovoy, reportedly crammed with electronic equipment, after an "energetic chase" in the South Caribbean, Defense Minister Ramon Florencio Gomez told newsmen Monday.

Gomez said the tug was taken inside Venezuela's 12-mile territorial limit Friday and escorted to Puerto Cabello, 60 miles west of Caracas.

The defense minister said the tug, towing a barge-like craft, was spotted by a patrol boat off Orchilla Island, 100 miles northeast of Caracas. When the Soviets refused to heed the patrol boat's orders to stop and tried to flee, other ships were summoned. They forced the tug to change course outside territorial waters, Gomez said.

Wallace Blasts 'Trifling With U.S. Children'

By RED THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Presidential candidate George Wallace says he and the nation are tired of the federal courts "trifling with our children" and the ballot box is the only way to change it.

Wallace turned his Southern fund-raising campaign toward Mississippi today for the usual dinner, a rally afterwards and probably also a speech to the state legislature.

His one-day barnstorming visit Thursday to Baton Rouge, the Louisiana capital, included an address to that state's legislature. It was unquestionably the most financially rewarding stop on his 11-day Dixie tour.

His campaign fund netted an estimated $24,000 from the sale of tickets to the $25-a-plate dinner; another $23,000 from a luncheon attended by 23 contributors who gave $1,000 each; and an unspecified amount from followers who turned out for a rally Thursday night.

In addition, fund raising petitions were distributed at the dinner and rally to several hundred Wallace partisans, who promised to try to raise $1,000 apiece.

The former Alabama governor spoke at a high school football stadium to a cheering crowd estimated by police at 10,000. Near the flatbed truck trailer where he stood was a scoreboard which identified the field as the home of the Robert E. Lee Rebels.

"The reason I'm running for president," Wallace declared, "is because the federal courts have trifled with our children too long and have trifled with our other domestic institutions too long."

But he said, "We don't want to change the trends in the nation by assaulting the Pentagon or lying down in the streets. We want to do it at the ballot box."

He told the crowd, "If you vote for the national Republicans or the national Democrats, you'll be throwing your vote away because they don't stand for anything you believe in... the national leadership of both parties has supported the complete takeover of your schools."

It was the first speech for Wallace in an open air arena since Secret Service agents were assigned to protect him following the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

Wallace's campaign headquarters announced, meanwhile, that he will speak in Maryland and Massachusetts later in June. These are two of the states where petition drives are currently under way to get Wallace on the ballot for the November election.

Japanese Demand U.S. Remove Airbase

TOKYO (AP) — Demands to remove the American air base at Itazuke, a center of controversy following the recent crash of a U.S. jet there, were discussed by the Japan-U.S. joint committee on security today for the first time.

American officials agreed to study any concrete plan advanced.

The base became a subject of controversy when the fighter-bomber crashed into an unfinished building on the campus of Kyushu University, near the base in southern Japan. A Cabinet committee has recommended that the base be transferred to another location, and Fujiyama said the question of Japanese reimbursement for the cost of such a move is under study.

REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

BY WALTER TROHAN
CHIEF OF CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S WASHINGTON BUREAU

WASHINGTON — Vice President Humphrey is riding the horns of a dilemma — whether he should be ruled by his mind or his heart in his quest for the Democratic Presidential nomination. His mind tells him to continue to support President Johnson's Vietnam policy, but his heart tells him to return to the dovecote of his liberal friends.

Humphrey is under heavy pressure from many of his old associates who tell him the way to the nomination and the election is to change his stance on Vietnam. Richard M. Nixon is under the same kind of pressure in the G.O.P. camp, but is considered less likely to shift.

The vice president has a long record in the dove wing of his party. He has been deeply involved and in many cases in the van of all the liberal legislation of the last 20 years, from medicare to the peace corps. He was a founding father of the left-wing Americans for Democratic Action, although members of the organization turned his picture to the wall when he supported President Johnson on bombing and stepping up the war in Vietnam.

Over recent weeks Humphrey has indicated his heart may be changing. He has been insisting, almost with a note of urgency that, "I am my own man." Some see this as a return to "the old Hubert," the champion of the left.

Bill Moyers, former White House press secretary and now publisher of Newsday, Long Island newpspaer, predicts that Humphrey will soon "say publicly what he has been feeling privately" — that American military strategy in Vietnam is questionable, that a military solution is impossible.

If he should say it, the doves will cook the fatted calf and welcome him with open arms. But what will President Johnson say and what will those who see the new Humphrey as something of a conservative say?

Humphrey has the democratic nomination all but signed, sealed, and delivered, as it is. He doesn't need to shift position. Sen. Walter F. Mondale (D., Minn.) and Sen. Fred R. Harris (D., Okla.), co-chairmen of the United Democrats for Humphrey, say the former druggist, political science teacher has enough votes for a first-ballot nomination. To win the nomination 1,312 votes are needed.

The vice president had about 1,100 before the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D., N.Y.) and has since reportedly picked up considerable Kennedy strength. Humphrey's only rival for the nomination is the 1960 campaign chairman, Sen. Eugene McCarthy, a fellow Minnesotan. Most political observers agree that McCarthy hasn't much more than a prayer.

Those in the left wing of the party say that if Humphrey questions Vietnam policy, McCarthy's strength will melt away and the vice president will be nominated by acclamation. They also contend that the first of the presidential candidates to be a dove — Humphrey or Nixon — will be elected in November. Being a dove hasn't won the democratic nomination for McCarthy or the Republican nomination for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of Nelson Rockefeller of New York, however.

The doves say Humphrey wouldn't be really shifting position, that he would be merely returning to the political philosophy that he espoused until he joined the Johnson administration and had to subordinate his personal views to those of L.B.J. As the candidate assumed to have L.B.J.'s blessing, Humphrey was hailed as the great unifier of the party, that man who could bring the right and left wings together. Now, if he identifies himself with the left, he could lose much of the support he has gained, not so much before the convention as in the election.

Meat Processing Plants Condemned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department, acting under the new Wholesome Meat Act of 1967, has designated 20 processing plants as "endangering public health."

The department said Monday four of the plants—in Illinois, Michigan, Connecticut and Delaware—had been closed by state officials and fifth, in Nevada, was closed temporarily for a clean up.

Corrective action has been started in the other 15 plants to remedy the federal charges, the department said. It did not disclose the names of the companies involved or the specific location of the plants.

Reasons cited for the "endangering public health" designation included lack of sanitation, unsanitary handling of products, lack of insect and vermin control and improper control of inedible, diseased and condemned carcasses.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

ALIMONY ROAD TO JAIL

Sentenced to prison for failing to pay alimony, an indignant husband demanded his release on constitutional grounds.

"The Constitution forbids imprisonment for debt," he argued. "I can't be put in jail just for not paying the money I owe my ex-wife."

Nevertheless, the court decided to let the sentence stand. The judge said the husband was being punished not for failing to pay a sum of money but for contempt of court.

Although this distinction may not have satisfied the husband, it carries enough weight to be recognized in most jurisdictions. What a man owes his divorced wife is not a debt—such as you might owe the corner druggist—but a personal obligation growing out of the marriage relationship itself.

It is this obligation that a divorce court is enforcing when it orders a husband to pay alimony. And when he refuses to pay, he is defying a court order—and is therefore in contempt.

But to justify sending him to jail, there must indeed be defiance, not just an inability to pay.

Thus, a husband cannot be imprisoned if, even though willing, he simply cannot make the payments. Say a man falls behind in alimony because he loses his job and can't find another. In such circumstances, a court is not likely to send him to jail—even if his ex-wife wants to put him there.

What if the husband, although broke himself, has relatives who could come to his financial rescue if they so desired?

"Throw him in jail," urged one divorcee in court, "and his relatives will show up in a hurry with the money."

But the court refused to apply this roundabout pressure. The judge pointed out that in the eyes of the law, only the husband—not his relatives—had any duty to support her.

Furthermore, for a very practical reason, imprisonment is no longer used very often in alimony cases. The big drawback is that while the husband is behind bars, he is not earning any money.

True, his incarceration might give the ex-wife some sort of satisfaction. But it will not help her to buy groceries or pay the rent.

Former Viet Rebel General Gives Up

SAIGON (AP) — A former general under death sentence for trying twice to overthrow one of South Vientam's many military premiers surrendered Thursday, the official Vietnam Press Agency announced.

The fugitive, Brig. Gen. Lam Van Phat, appeared at the interior ministry with Sen. Tran Van Do. He was freed without bail being required pending a review of his case.

Phat is expected to get a new trial and to be acquitted. He was sentenced to death in absentia for leading two unsuccessful coups against the government of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh on Sept. 15, 1964, and Feb. 19, 1965. He had been in hiding since his second attempt failed.

Gen. Khanh was ousted by his associates in the military junta five days after Phat's second coup attempt failed. Khanh was last reported in exile in France.

Vista Grande West
Homes Built WEST of Meadowland Blvd.

We at Vista Grande are interested in you! We have at your disposal every assistance possible to make your new home purchase as convenient and easy as possible. Only at Vista Grande East or West will you find a builder with as much pride and confidence in his product to offer these exclusive features:

1. GUARANTEED REPURCHASE AGREEMENT
Young executives are always on the move with leading industries. If your company transfers you within 3 years a distance of over 100 miles, we'll buy your home back for exactly what you paid for it!

2. FINANCING
Never a problem at Vista Grande. As Colorado Springs largest new home builder we always have at our disposal the best available V.A.-F.H.A. or 90% Conventional. No running around on your part. We have it and it's just for you!

3. EXCLUSIVE
5-YEAR WARRANTY on all Vista Grande homes.

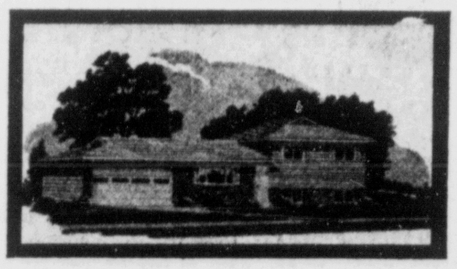
THE DIPLOMAT. (3 Br. Split level. Model 68-32.)
This home features an owner's suite with your own ¾ bath, two additional bedrooms and a complete bath on the upper level. The living room is inviting, separate dining room for formal entertaining and a conversation kitchen with Hotpoint self cleaning oven. In addition to all this, a relaxing family room on the 3rd level is included. A 4th bedroom, ¾ bath and even a 4th level may be added. A large single garage is included with the basic home, but a double may be added. Basic price only $20,600.00.



THE REGENT. (3 Br. Split level. Model 68-30)
Because the split level is Colorado Springs' most popular home style, we have added the Regent. Its excellent traffic pattern eliminates crossing rooms to enter another. The 3 large bedrooms and bath are away from the conversation area. You'll enjoy the living room, separate dining room and airy kitchen with Hotpoint oven and range. A recreation room with fireplace, another bedroom, ¾ bath and laundry room are also available. If you would like a double garage or even a 4th level, these may be added. Don't overlook the closets — they're great! Basic price only $17,750.00.

BE SURE TO SEE:
THE AMBASSADOR (3 Br. Bi-level) Basic Price $18,350.00
THE STATESMAN (4 Br. Colonial) Basic Price $23,475.00
THE EMBASSY (3 Br. L-Ranch) Basic Price $21,900.00

There is a Community Recreation Center in operation for the exclusive use of the residents of Vista Grande West.

Featured is a heated swimming pool complete with sun deck furniture and bath house. There is an adjacent tot lot for the toddlers and a newly added tennis court for your pleasure.

Remember you can buy a home in Vista Grande with complete confidence! Buy directly from Scurr Messenger and Assoc...the builder who knows Colorado Springs best!

If economy plays an important part in your home buying plans then Vista Grande East has what you're looking for! Don't let the low prices detract from the fact that all Vista Grande East homes still have the 5 year warranty and underground city utilities. Remember! All Vista Grande homes have attached garages and brick fronts to keep up property values.

SHOPPING
Audubon and Rustic Hills are neighborhood shopping centers only minutes away. Your own 32 acre VISTA GRANDE shopping center is now in the planning stage. Downtown's cosmopolitan shops are also within easy access to VISTA GRANDE.

SCHOOLS AND CHURCHES
Serving the children of Vista Grande are three of Colorado Springs' finest schools: Ulysses S. Grant Elementary, Emerson Jr. High School and Billy Mitchell Senior High School. Churches of all denominations are all within a relatively short distance. Several church and school sites have been set aside in VISTA GRANDE for future development.

BROADMOOR VA NO DOWN

This appealing and delightful home is located on a very quiet and secluded street. There is an entrance hall and charming living room with a fireplace. It is also carpeted and the picture windows are draped as in the dining room. The kitchen is large and has an electric range, disposal and dishwasher. This is adjacent to a large breakfast area. On this level there are 2 double size bedrooms, bath and a paneled den which would also make a charming boy's bedroom. Downstairs there is a huge family room, large bedroom, full bath and exceptionally large utility room. Also a very large hobby room. The patio is not only delightful but completely fenced. There is a double garage and ever so many more amenities I would like to show you. For an appointment call Louise Huebsch 635-3621.

Twin Goals Are Being Proposed By Humphrey

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey reopened his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination today and—without mentioning Vietnam—said the nation is challenged by a new world to re-examine its policies and priorities.

Humphrey called for dedication to twin goals of social justice and civil order and his remarks ranged from a demand for punishment of riot looters to a call for guaranteed decent jobs for all who will work.

"There is no choice today but to be tough-minded, hard-headed and fair-minded about stopping crime and violence in this country," he added. "We have to do both and as rapidly as possible."

Humphrey has been pictured by Republican as well as Democratic critics as a voice of the status quo, who is seeking the nomination through smoke-filled rooms without spelling out his views on Vietnam.

The question of Humphrey's views created a political tempest this week when Bill D. Moyers, former aide to President Johnson, suggested that the vice president had private doubts about Vietnam which he had never voiced in public.

Humphrey aides immediately denied it.

Outlining an agenda for civil order," Humphrey called for this program:

—An end to rioting in American cities, and added: "If there is looting and burning in the course of a riot it must be treated and punished according to the laws against stealing and arson."

—Stronger laws, local and federal, governing the possession of firearms.

—A massive effort to stop the drug traffic, including more enforcement agents, stiffer penalties and better programs of research and treatment.

—Establishment of Councils for Civil Peace organized at state and metropolitan levels including representation from racial, religious and economic groups as well as National Guard and law enforcement agencies.

—"A hard look at the effects of television on our children."

Fashion Comes To Indian Style In New York

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — With their men in Nehrus and with gurus pondering over their medallions women have had to come to the Indian thing too.

Larry Aldrich and his designer Marie McCarthy are offering a princely bit of mysticism opulent enough to awe a rajah and expensive enough to make him an ex-rajah.

"These are very wearable, if you can afford them," Aldrich said at the opening of New York Couture Groups weeklong preview of fall collections.

Actually, designers have been swiping the banded collars and fitted tunic length jackets off and on ever since Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her sister, Lee Radziwill investigated the exotica of India, thereby making it fashionable.

Still it was not until this year when men threw away their ties and ditched their double-breasted suits for these peaceable Indian styles that they really got worldly attention.

Ask Them Yourself

chief, U.S. Army Chaplain Corps.

How many Army chaplains are in Vietnam, and how are they assigned?—Bessie Lee Malone, Cherokee, Ala.

● There are currently more than 400 Army chaplains there. They are assigned on the basis of one per 750 soldiers. Chaplains serve with soldiers in all kinds of assignments and will be found where the action is because that is where they are needed the most. Six have been killed in action in Vietnam.

FOR AMY VANDERBILT

● The gentleman asks his wife what she wishes and repeats her order to the waiter, always referring to his wife as "the lady." It would be acceptable to use the lady's name in cases where the waiter already would know it.

FOR DAVID EISENHOWER

How did you meet your fiancée, Julie Nixon?—Evelyn Crane, Hollywood, Calif.

● We had met briefly in the White House and at the 1957 Inaugural ceremonies but did not become close until 10 years later when we enrolled in colleges only seven miles apart (Smith and Amherst). Early in October, 1966, Julie and I were invited to a Republican function but decided not to attend after consulting each other on the telephone. Julie was friendly and warm in our conversation, and from that point on we began seeing each other frequently.

FOR KEN MACKER,

president, Western Conference, North American Soccer League

Now that the two soccer leagues have merged, do you expect to show a profit this year?—J. M., Lowell, Mass.

● No, and possibly we won't make any money next year, either, but the groundwork is being laid for soccer to take off. Once the public is able to identify the players, I'm convinced we regularly will be attracting crowds of 20,000 and up.

FOR SHELDON COHEN,

Commissioner of Internal Revenue

When someone wins a large sum of money in a sweepstakes drawing, does the IRS contact him immediately?—Paul Tomka, Racine, Wis.

● No. The IRS rarely makes an on-the-spot collection of income taxes on gambling winnings. Such winnings are included as income on the tax return filed for the year. A taxpayer who has won a substantial sum, however, will most likely find it necessary to file a declaration of estimated income tax.

FOR DICK SMOTHERS

Does the symbol on the platform you stand on every Sunday night have a significant meaning?—Miss Debra Streb, Dalton, Ohio

● No. It's free-form style is indicative of the forward look of the show.

FOR JOE GARAGIOLA, "Today" show

You recently wore a hairpiece on tv. Do you plan to wear it when you are not working?—Jeremiah Henderson, Atlanta, Ga.

● I certainly do not!

FOR PATTI PAGE

As a mother, do you resent the fact that your work takes you away from home so often?—D. M. K., Lancaster, Pa.

● Yes. I'm old-fashioned. I still believe a woman's place basically is in the home. I realize, however, that my work and the absences from home it demands permit me to give my children (Kathleen, 6; Daniel, 4) many luxuries.

FOR DAVID O. McKAY,

President, the Mormon Church

To what do you attribute your 60 years of happy marriage?—Mrs. Vera Wake, Rupert, Idaho

● Marriage offers an opportunity to share in the love and care of children, the paramount purpose of marriage. Our happiness springs from the fact that we have had seven children, six of whom are living. These children and their children are our treasures of eternity.

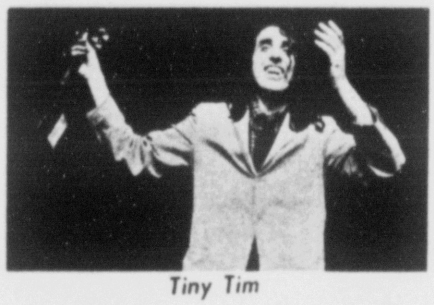
WHAT IN THE WORLD!

So Bad He's Good "Believe it or not, my dear, I don't mean my singing to be funny," quavers Tiny Tim, in the same falsetto that convulsed audiences on "Laugh-In" and "Tonight" and made him an overnight fad. Nicknamed "Braintree" as a child and once known as Larry Love, Tiny (a six-footer) says,



Tiny Tim

"When I sing 'Tiptoe Through the Tulips,' I imagine I'm a pixie in a garden filled with beautiful women—and not another man around." He began wearing his hair long back in 1953 ("People stared curiously at me.") and confides that he washes it every day. "I love to keep my body and soul clean," he says. As the title of his album puts it, "God Bless You, Tiny Tim."

Camp Checkup How safe is your child's camp? Among the things the American Camping Association looks for before it certifies a camp are: Is the site free from serious physical hazards (unprotected cliffs, swamps, dangerous waters, unfenced pool)? Is there one person who's responsible for your child's welfare at all times? At the waterfront, is there good protection?

Sweet Success The popular notio is that the closer a man climbs to th top of the business ladder, the clos he also gets to heart trouble. But new study by Cornell University 270,000 men shows that it's just not s At every age, from 30 to 64, manage and executives had lower rates of co onary disease than did workmen an foremen. There was also 30 percen less heart trouble among men with co lege degrees. According to the study college men are taller, slimmer, and, b age 55, have cut their smoking to abou half that of men without diplomas.

Campaign Tip With Rose, Ethel Joan, and assorted other Kennedys to back him, Sen. Robert Kennedy hasn't pressed sister-in-law Jacqueline to join the clan on the campaign trail. But political observers predict that, if Bobby gets the Democratic nomination for President, the emotional climax of his campaign will be a joint appearance with Jackie.

Slicked Up Eddy Arnold, one of the leading citizens in the Nashville Hall of Fame, bridles these days when you call him a "country singer." "I just sing love songs," he says, "and there's not much difference between city love and country love." Eddy has changed, so has country music. "It's getting citified," he says. "A modern country ballad is something like 'I Can't Stop Loving You.' That's a long way from the old 'It Was Sad When the Great Titanic Went Down.'"

BOB SEAGREN—
Our High-Flying Hope for an Olympic Rout

In a world of monastic athletes, this handsome vaulter swings from a catapult-like pole—and through a fun-filled life

By JACK RYAN

HANDSOME Bob Seagren, possibly the world's greatest pole vaulter, has a page full of records, but one he remembers clearly was a 17-foot-7-inch vault last year in San Diego.

"I was going with a girl then, and it was her birthday. Just as a joke, I told her, 'I'm going to set a record for you today.' I didn't really expect to, but it went right, and I did."

Was the girl properly grateful?

Seagren hems and haws and finally says, "I guess you could say so. At least I still remember that record first of all."

This week Bob Seagren is scheduled to try out for something more important to him than a record and even more important than a pretty girl. The high-flying hopeful from the University of Southern California will be vaulting at Los Angeles for a place on the U.S. Olympic team which will represent us in Mexico City in October.

U.S. Olympic fortunes are notoriously poor in winter Olympics, but with superb athletes in track and field—Seagren, miler Jim Ryun, shotputter Randy Matson—and even greater swimmers—Debby Meyers and Don Schollander—the summer Olympics should bring enough first-place medals to reverse America's gold flow.

All the athletes, of course, are dedicated, but Seagren's dedication stops short of the monastic regimen of, say, a Jim Ryun. "I like vaulting, but if I couldn't have fun, I'd quit.

"I get a lot of razzing at school about the way you magazine guys write me up as a playboy, always making sure my hair is just right even after a vault. I don't care too much—maybe it helps me in my social life."

Seagren, the 21-year-old son of a market-development executive for Pepsi-Cola, lives in a trophy-laden bachelor's apartment four blocks off campus. He is a little hazy about his educational goals—it took considerable prepping to get him into USC—and in talking about his future, he may fantasize a budding career in public relations, representing a U.S. sporting-goods manufacturer in Europe, or becoming a movie star. ("I haven't tested yet, but some people are interested.")

Seagren has been pointing his performances toward a June peak all year, although the way he paces himself makes physical-education experts shake their heads. Mornings are for class, afternoons for working out with USC middle-distance runners and developing further the amazing deltoideus and trapezius muscles in his upper arms and shoulders. Bob takes to the pole only a few times weekly in practice, then strictly for form. "My nights are my own," he adds cryptically.

On Fridays Bob usually is off by plane ("The hardest thing about being a pole vaulter," he laments, "is finding a cab driver who'll carry you and your 16-foot pole") to Albuquerque, New York, Philadelphia, or wherever there's a track meet. He may participate in a Friday night meet in Boston, take in the town from 11 to 2 or 3 a.m., then catch a morning plane to Los Angeles for another meet Saturday night.

"I'm young," he says matter-of-factly. "I can take it. When you are enjoying yourself, you can't burn yourself out."

His older brother Art started Bob pole vaulting. "Art would get the poles they use to wrap rugs around and vault from roof to roof. I followed. Once I missed a roof and caught a clothesline on the Adam's apple. Boy, I've had poles crack under me, and I've hit down hard, but I remember that jolt best."

Memories of the Seagren boys flying roof-to-roof almost convulses the amiable, uncomplicated youth in laughter. "Our neighbor had a pond in his yard, and I vaulted it one day. Art called out, 'Here I come, too.' I looked around just in time to see him sail right into the water. It was like a slapstick movie—he came up spitting mud, water, and goldfish. It's always been fun for us, not work, though there's plenty of that in getting in shape."

Every time Seagren breaks a record, another USC vaulter, Paul Wilson, tops it—until Seagren tops Wilson's mark. The same give-and-take situation used to exist between Seagren and John Pennell, who was his mentor and roommate until last year. Pole vaulters traditionally are the eccentrics of the track-and-field crowd, yet they seemingly are devoid of envy or jealousy. Seagren, Wilson, Pennell—and others—are almost rooting sections for one another's achievements.

"It's no fun without competition," Bob explains. "That's why I prefer the outdoor to the indoor season—there's more fellows competing. Paul and I run together weekdays and watch films of our jumps and point out each other's mistakes. Without the others, there wouldn't be much kick to pole vaulting."

The outstanding competition this week at Los Angeles should be enough "fun" even for Bob Seagren. A sometimes erratic vaulter, Bob is by no means a cinch to run away with qualifying honors. But beneath that easygoing exterior is a highly motivated young man.

"Vaulting has allowed me to see this country—and 12 others. And every time I come home to this country, I love it more. I sure want to be in Mexico City with our team and do a good job for America."

The second motivation is that Bob is going with a new girl—one without a single pole-vaulting record to her credit. ◆

High Prices...Repair Gyps...

Miss Furness, a door-to-door salesman has offered to fix my roof at a bargain price. Should I take him up on it?

Not without checking him out first. We've all heard stories of slick door-to-door salesmen who've unloaded shoddy goods or goods that never arrived on unsuspecting consumers. Of all of these hit-and-run swindles, the home-improvement racket is the worst.

Perhaps the man may offer you a special factory deal, a bargain price, or some similar gimmick. Often, halfway through his work, he will "discover" something else that needs fixing at an additional "bargain" price.

When he's through, it may turn out you've paid an exorbitant sum for shoddy improvements you really may not have needed in the first place. Or he may quickly sell the contract you've signed to someone else. When you complain, these new people tell you they're not responsible.

No doubt there are shady businessmen whom you have to telephone yourself or see in their own offices. But the door-to-door people seem to have the most offenders. That's why, before you sign anything, you should double-check with the Better Business Bureau and also compare prices with the established business people in your area.

What can I do if I think I've been swindled?

You should contact your local district attorney or the Better Business Bureau. You may not be able to get your money back, but at least you can help protect other people from the same frauds by alerting authorities.

The way the law stands now, these people can go on doing business even if you or the government has brought action against them. We have asked Congress to give the Federal Trade Commission new powers that will enable it to stop the swindles immediately, rather than having to wait while court action is pending.

Congress passed a "Truth-in-Lending" bill last month. Will this make shopping for money simple and safe?

Simple, yes. Safe, no. Whether it will be safe or not depends on whether people take advantage of it.

Briefly, it requires finance companies, banks, and other lenders to tell borrowers and credit customers of the dollars-and-cents cost of their loans. You can see in a moment what the credit costs are, and you can do comparison shopping. The bill also restricts garnishment of wages for debts and makes extortion by loan sharks a Federal offense.

Congress recently passed a Truth-in-Packaging bill, but when I go to the supermarket I still see so many different sizes of the same thing that I feel I need a slide-rule to choose. What's going on?

No wonder you're confused. We know that there are 57 sizes of toothpaste, 30 sizes of hair spray, and 200 sizes of paper towels. The Truth-in-Packaging bill hopes to end this chaos. The bill calls for voluntary standards to be set by business. When it was passed, two industries—the instant-coffee and instant-potato people—volunteered immediately to get to work on setting their standards. There are indications that other industries will follow suit.

The government would prefer voluntary self-regulation by business. But if it fails to act, then the bill calls for the Secretary of Commerce to advise Congress at the end of a year as to whether new legislation is needed.

I think the consumer should be told what a product will do, what it contains, how long it will last, and what it costs to operate. You should be told all the do's and don'ts that go into using the product. For example, the refrigerator people will tell you the total cubic footage of the refrigerator, but this doesn't take into account the special features that may take up some of this space. I think they should tell you the actual usable capacity.

We're working with industry to get them to provide this sort of reasonable information. They tend to hesitate, especially about giving the life expectancy of a product because this does depend on who uses the product, how they use it, and where they use it. But I think an educated guess, based on average usage, would be reasonable.

Why can't I ever buy an appliance and expect it to last at least until I've finished paying for it?

That's one of the most common complaints—and a fair one. The President has instructed me, the chairman of the FTC, and the Secretaries of Commerce and Labor to work with industry on solving this.

The major problem seems to be that, although almost every appliance comes with a warranty or a guarantee, they're written in such complicated language that consumers can't understand them. What we need are guarantees that are simply written, that say what they mean and mean what they say.

They should tell you exactly what parts are guaranteed and for how long. They should state who's responsible—the store or the manufacturer. They should tell you what the limitations are, such as accident, misuse, fire, flood, or act of God. A major washing-machine company recently has done just this and, to boot, it simplified the warranty into a letter that anyone can understand. We're hoping that other manufacturers will follow their lead.

When my nephew came home from Vietnam, he found that his auto-insurance premium had been raised because he'd been out of the country. Is this fair?

No, it's not. We are now undertaking a major survey of auto insurance, and there seem to be a lot of things that need looking into. The time lag between filing a claim and getting action is often terribly long. Some people are not paid enough for damages and injuries, and others seem to be paid too much. Too many people have too much trouble getting insurance at a decent price. There is discrimination against special groups such as returning veterans, clergymen, doctors, divorcees, young people, and minority groups.

CAN DO ABOUT

Nobody knows yet what the solution to the auto-insurance problem will be, but one suggestion that has been made is to make auto insurance more like fire insurance. If your house burns down, you don't have to find the fire bug and sue him or his insurance company. Instead, you carry your own protection.

With all the frauds and unfair practices that are going on are businessmen today more dishonest?

I really can't say because I wasn't working in this field, say, 20 years ago. But the market price is a great deal more complicated than it used to be. Though the frauds are often what make the headlines, my office is concerned with more than that. We're trying to make the market place a simpler place to deal in.

Take the question of fabrics. It used to be that if you bought a dress, you could tell by just looking what it was made of—wool, cotton or silk—and then you knew how to clean and care for it. Today there are so many synthetic fabrics that you can't tell what anything is made of.

Under Esther Peterson, my predecessor, a Fabrics Commission was set up to compile a glossary and guide for the care of all these fabrics. This information has been simplified and coded into labels that could be permanently sewn into every garment. Now the question is: will the apparel people use these labels on a voluntary basis?

How safe are the fish and poultry I buy?

There's no way of knowing, but a certain percentage is below standard. Fish is hardly inspected at all, and 13 percent of the total poultry is not Federally inspected. That's 1.6 billion pounds, which can add up to quite a stomach ache. Where there is state inspection, often only the plants are inspected, not the poultry itself.

We'd like Congress to pass a bill making fish and poultry as safe as meat, and such a bill is now in the hearing stage. In the meantime, you're probably safer sticking to the major distributors. You might ask your supermarket manager where he buys his poultry. If he gets it from out of state, then you know it has been Federally inspected.

Who's to blame for the grocery gap—the difference between what the farmer gets and what I spend at the store?

I don't know who the rascal is—or if there is one. But the farmers are not getting a fair price, and the consumer certainly is paying enough. We need a faster, more efficient way to get food to the consumer.

How can I protect myself against dishonest repairmen?

Nowadays, it's hard to find any repairman, much less a competent one. You have to hope that you find someone you like or who comes recommended by a friend. There is not so much fraud but rather too few people in this field. And that means room for incompetence. We are not considering legislation in this area so much as trying to help industry serve the public better.

I know that a Recreational Water Safety bill has been proposed. Does this mean I'll have to have a license to drive my own boat?

We won't know that until our study in this area is completed. But it is now all too easy to get in trouble with a boat. Anybody can get behind a wheel, and so we do need some safety regulations. Beyond this, we also need programs to remove dangerous debris from our lakes and rivers, safety patrols and inspections, and better testing of boats and safety equipment. A friend of mine, fed up with the space his lifesaving equipment took, tossed it all overboard—and it sank immediately.

I read that some color tv sets give off radiation. True? Are such sets still around in the stores?

It was found that certain color tv sets did give off radiation from the bottom of the set. The manufacturers recalled the sets, but did not get all of them back. And when the sets were adjusted, it was then found that the radiation came out of the sides of the sets, instead. In adjusting certain color sets, it seems that when you push up the voltage on one of the "gizmos," it gives off radiation.

How dangerous is this? It's hard to say. If a child is sitting in front of one of these sets today, we might have to wait 20 years to know what the eventual damage is. Of course, we don't want to wait. There should be standards to eliminate this threat.

The President has asked Congress to pass the Hazardous Radiation Act which would give the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare the power to set and enforce standards of safety and to require manufacturers to recall bad equipment.

I don't think so. In all cases, the government would prefer that industry solve its own problems. It's only where industry falls down on the job of self-regulation that the government has to step in.

Where possible, it should be left to the city and state governments, but there are some things only the Federal government seems able to handle. Take the Wholesome Meat Act that was passed last year. It came some 60 years after Upton Sinclair first exposed the conditions in the meat plants in his book, "The Jungle." The industry and the states had all that time to take action, but they didn't.

How do you work with business for self-regulation?

We meet with them constantly. We might say, "We feel such-and-such is a problem; what do you think you can do about it?" They are more than willing to talk because business is inordinately opposed to Federal legislation. So they will talk, and I believe they are making an effort in many cases to set up the needed reforms and standards by themselves.

The President has just appointed a Consumer's Lawyer. How will his office operate?

The job is so new that it hasn't taken shape yet. But two of the vital things he will do is to represent the consumer in front of regulatory agencies and also to file suits on behalf of the consumer.

In safeguarding his dollar, what can the consumer do?

Be careful. Take time when you shop; get educated about the market place. Food is always the focal point of the consumer's annoyance because it's so constant. You might buy a car and pay $200 more just because you like one better than the other. You make the decision only once. But think how many decisions you have to make to save $200 on food. You're a long time comparing labels to do that. You've got to be sensible.

Some time back, a group of housewives went on strike against a supermarket. How successful was that?

It was successful, but not in the way the housewives expected. The supermarket did reduce its prices for a while, but then it went right back up. But the housewives let the food people know they were paying attention and watching them closely. That's important.

As you began your job and started looking into the consumer field, what surprised you most?

When I began, I was a better shopper than I was given credit for being. So there weren't many surprises. The biggest surprise were the number and variety of problems in the field and the size and complexity of the market place.

Does the old slogan caveat emptor ('let the buyer beware') still hold? What obligation do I have as a consumer to be informed?

You have to do the best you can. You should pay attention to whatever information you're given. Read the instructions carefully and try to understand what the product will and won't do. Most importantly, you should give your business to the people who give you the best break. That's the name of the whole game. If you reward better practices, better service, and better information, then you're using your dollars where they count the most. ◆

Wallpaper Wizardry

By ROSALYN ABREVAYA

IF YOUR walls just sit there like Humpty-Dumpty, you have several alternatives. You can paint them, pop-poster them, picture them, or, more imaginatively, slip on a new geometric wallpaper—as we have in these three charming settings created by interior designer Nicholas Grande.

Papering walls may have started out with a messy history, but, oh, look at wallpapers now! The majority are plastic or vinyl-coated—thus washable—and the new strippables (they dry-peel right off) are heavier—thus scrubbable. Most are pretrimmed and prepasted, allowing women to wrap up a decorating job in a few hours.

Before you buy, measure your rooms. Figure 30 square feet of wall area to be covered by a single roll of wallcovering. Buy an extra roll if you're doing a closet or covering a small chest. Then watch your rooms wake up! ♦

PHOTOGRAPHS BY HANS VAN NES STUDIOS

Chests, Super Sturdy; closet ensemble, K-C Products; rug by Regal; wood hangers, Norwood; knitwear hanger, Charette.

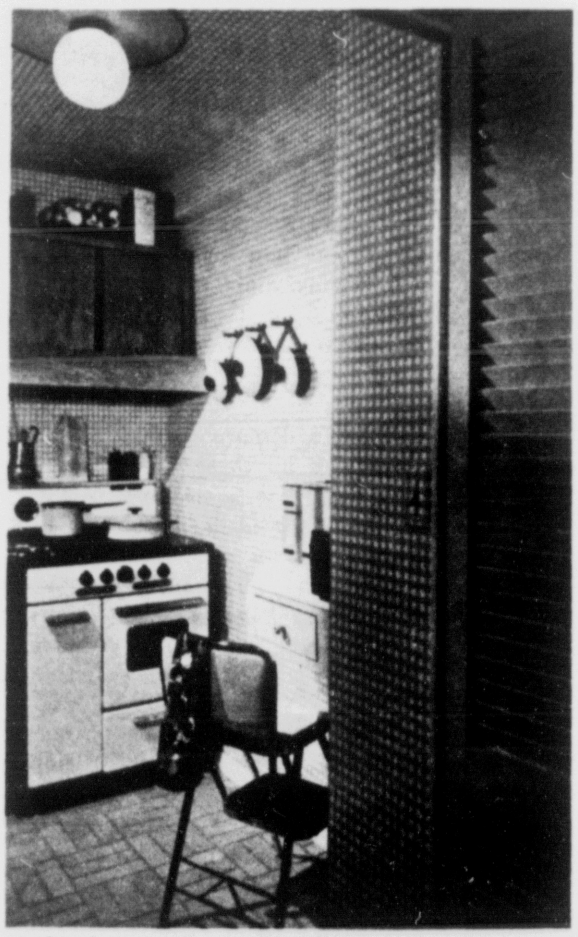
Towels, Callaway Mills; mirror, shelves, American Saint Gobain; cabinet, American Plywood; lighting, Progress; beads, Beadangles; toilet seat by Martin Garment Co.



A kitchen with casual country airs gets that way with Thomas Strahan's scrubbable checked paper, nifty globe fixture, new vinyl brick tile flooring, and colorful aluminum cookware. A built-in counter increases working space.

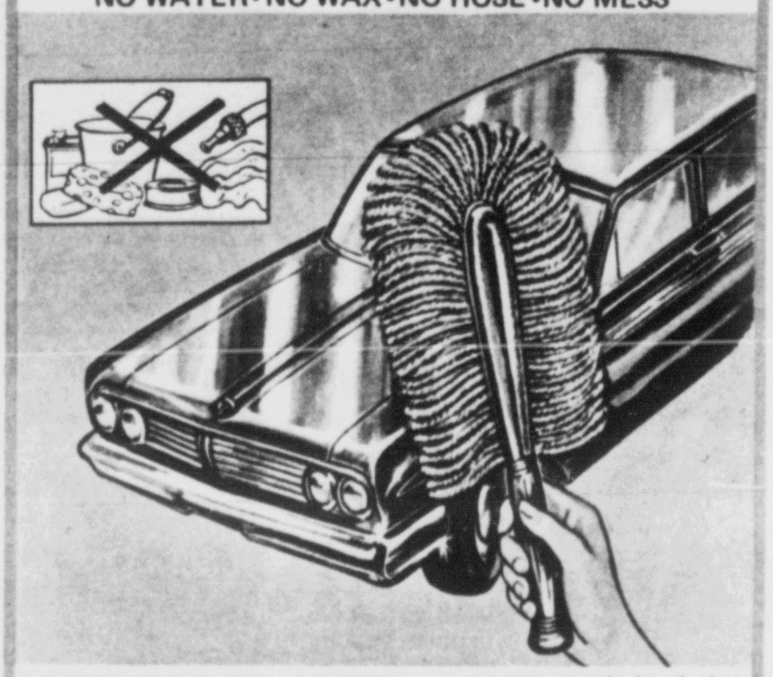
DRY-CLEAN YOUR CAR
A Sparkling Show Room Shine

NO WATER • NO WAX • NO HOSE • NO MESS



Concentrated cleaning and polishing action in a miracle brush that requires no buckets of suds, no wax to clean as it polishes your car. Make this test: run it over the car and watch the hundreds of fiber-ends devour the dirt . . . grime disappears . . . But there's more! It actually polishes as it cleans. Your car sparkles as if it had been polished for hours. And — best of all — there's only one step!

PROTECTS CAR — Reduce the danger of detergent suds eating car paint, eliminate the threat of rust. This is the world's safest way to keep your vehicle looking like new from the first day until the last day you own it. There's no abrasive action or repeated buffings to annoy the finish, no suds to corrode.

SAVES TIME — Takes only seconds where you used to waste hours. Time yourself . . . discover the new arm-chair method with Magic-Dri Brush. Perfect for people with better things to do than slave over a car when you can relax and drive.

PUT ON YOUR BEST SUIT . . . and clean your car with Magic-Dri. We guarantee that you won't — you can't — muss or stain your garment. All the dirty work is done by the miracle chemical in the brush. Deluxe styling with handle for easy use. Lasts for dozens of cleanings. For touch-ups order special Magic-Dri cloth, works on same principle. Measure 18" x 18", folds into little space.

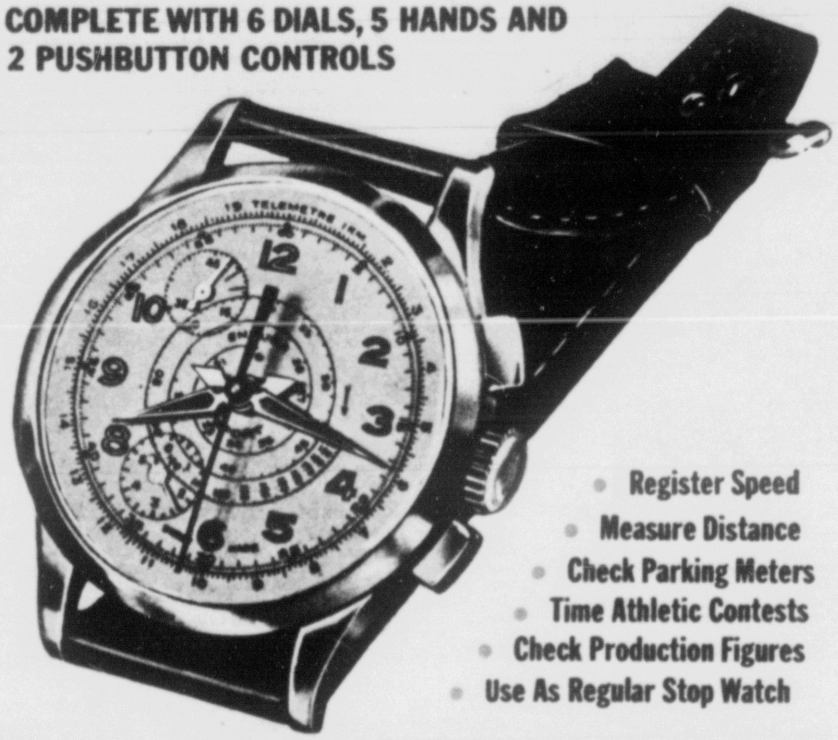
A Real Jewel Among Swiss-made Watches

WORLD FAMOUS Pilot's Chronograph $12.98

COMPLETE WITH 6 DIALS, 5 HANDS AND 2 PUSHBUTTON CONTROLS



- Register Speed
- Measure Distance
- Check Parking Meters
- Time Athletic Contests
- Check Production Figures
- Use As Regular Stop Watch

This is a gem, first made famous by World War II pilots who found it not only an absolutely accurate timepiece, but a piece of equipment more valuable than a boxful of instruments—and it still is. Whether you like to fly, or drive sports cars, record your average speed per mile, or time the number of beers consumed in an hour, this will do the job. All 5 hands are machine-calibrated in Switzerland where the complete works are neatly turned out in two different factories, then assembled in a third. It is shock-resistant, antimagnetic, has an unbreakable mainspring, big sweep second hand, luminous dial and hands, golden-finished die-cast case, and a leather strap. No matter how you look at it, that's a big hunk of watch for only $12.98. And it's fully guaranteed for 1 year! In every way, a solid buy!

4042X—Chronograph Watch $12.98

Summer Salad Buffet

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

■ Here's cooling and tempting buffet fare for a summer luncheon or supper. Include hot rolls and broiled tomato halves for the "something hot" on this pleasing and colorful menu.

Main Dish Macaroni Salad

Stand vegetable sticks such as carrot, zucchini, celery, and cucumber in mugs of crushed ice to accompany this pretty, pastel salad.

- 4 cups (1 lb.) elbow macaroni
- 1 can (12 oz.) luncheon meat, cubed
- ½ cup sweet fresh cucumber pickle slices
- ½ cup green pepper pieces
- ½ cup sliced green onion (including tops)
- 1 teaspoon Accent
- ½ to ¼ teaspoon tarragon leaves, crushed
- ½ teaspoon seasoned pepper
- Bottled French dressing
- 1 can asparagus spears, drained
- Crisp lettuce
- ¼ cup shredded carrot
- Green pepper ring

1. Cook macaroni in boiling salted water as directed on package; drain, rinse, and drain again.
2. In a large bowl, toss the cooked macaroni, luncheon meat, and next six ingredients with ¾ cup of the salad dressing. Cover and chill thoroughly, at least 2 hrs.
3. Pour about ¼ cup of the salad dressing over drained asparagus in a dish. Cover and chill.
4. Line a large salad bowl with the lettuce, turn salad mixture into bowl, and garnish with the shredded carrot and an asparagus bundle (the marinated asparagus in the green pepper ring).
5. Serve with additional dressing and deviled eggs. 8 servings

Cucumber-Pineapple Cocktail

Put 2¼ cups (1-pt. 2-oz. can) chilled unsweetened pineapple juice, ¾ teaspoon seasoned salt, and 1 cut-up seeded pared cucumber into the container of an electric blender. Cover and blend. Serve in low 4- to 6-oz. glasses. Score and thinly slice cucumber. Pull the stem end of a small sprig of watercress through the center of each slice; float in each. About 3 cups

Lemon Cloud Pie

- 1 baked 9-in. pastry shell
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon (1 env.) unflavored gelatin
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 5 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- ½ cup water
- ½ cup lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- ½ teaspoon vanilla extract
- 5 egg whites
- ½ cup sugar

1. Blend in the top of a double boiler ½ cup sugar, the gelatin, and salt. Gradually add a mixture of the egg yolks, water, and lemon juice, stirring constantly.
2. Continue to stir and cook over boiling water until gelatin is completely dissolved and mixture is slightly thickened.
3. Remove from water and stir in the lemon peel and extract. Cool slightly. Chill until mixture begins to gel (becomes slightly thicker); stir occasionally.
4. Beat the egg whites until frothy. Gradually add ½ cup sugar, continuing to beat until stiff peaks are formed. Turn slightly thickened gelatin mixture onto beaten egg whites and gently fold together. Turn filling into pastry shell.
5. Chill until firm; garnish as desired with lemon. One 9-in. pie

Chocolate-Coconut Shell

- 2 sq. (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons hot milk
- ⅓ cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- ¼ cup flaked coconut, toasted
- ¼ cup corn flakes

1. Heat chocolate and butter or margarine in a small heavy saucepan over low heat, stirring until well blended.
2. Stir the hot milk into the confectioners' sugar; blend into the chocolate. Mix in the coconut and corn flakes evenly.
3. Spread on the bottom and sides of a buttered 8½x1¼-in. pie pan. Chill until firm. One 8-in. shell

She is always well groomed. Her hair is clean and worn in a style that suits her, not the latest fad. The same is true of her clothes.

And of course she uses Tampax tampons. They keep her fresh and free to be active every day of the month.

Tampax tampons are made of pure surgical cotton. And they're worn internally so our confident young woman never has to worry about odor or bulky pads and belts.

NO BELTS
NO PINS
NO PADS
NO ODOR

She can swim, play tennis, dance . . . do almost anything she cares to, confident that Tampax tampons will keep her confident.

I Flew the Atlantic—Solo!

By SUSAN OLIVER

The Atlantic conquered, Susan is preparing for a dangerous trans-Pacific flight.

Susan Oliver is best known to tv viewers for her lengthy guest appearance on "Peyton Place" and to movie-goers for such films as "Butterfield 8." Her most recent movie is "A Man Called Gannon." Born in New York, educated at Swarthmore and in Tokyo, she holds five point-to-point air speed records.

SLOWLY MY single-engine plane climbed up from the granite peaks of Narsarssuak, the Greenland fjord. Above me, the sky was overcast. I seemed to be trapped between them. I had to find a hole to get through.

When I finally did, I lost all ground references. I had no navigation because the radio ship's radar beacon, way out in the Atlantic, was out of commission.

At 13,000 feet, I had to rely on sheer dead reckoning for the next four hours, hoping that I was compensating correctly for the wind as I headed for Iceland across the vastness of Greenland.

I was flying solo, yet I was not really afraid, although once I was so scared of flying, I took the train wherever I went.

There were good reasons for me to be scared, too. It all dates back to my flight in a Boeing 707 nine years ago—a jet that took a 30,000-foot dive suddenly, which nobody expected to survive.

Until then, I had accepted flying like most people. True, three times my mother, an astrologer, had cautioned me not to get on a plane. And each time she was justified. The first time my plane had lost two engines in a violent storm. The other two times I took her advice and stayed off the planes. Both crashed. Thereafter I always checked with her—except for that fateful flight from Paris to New York.

Next to me on that flight was a Hollywood-type character, tall, conceited, handsome. I didn't like him. Suddenly, for no apparent reason, the plane went into this terrible dive.

The "G" forces pulled my head forward until it felt like it would break off. My eyes and teeth felt like they were being pulled out. Like everybody else, I was sure we were going to die.

People began to scream, and the strapping young man next to me screamed loudest of all. I don't know how long the dive lasted. Maybe no more than three minutes. It seemed like an eternity till the captain finally pulled out of it.

We flew for another half an hour until we made an emergency landing in Gander. None of us felt like getting on the relief plane they sent for us, but somehow we did.

On the final lap of the flight—from Gander to New York—we lost our oxygen supply. And when we landed, we were told about another plane that crashed in Long Island Sound just hours before. I'd had it with flying!

For two years after that, except for one flight to New York which I slept through, I was too terrified to get on another plane. As a result, I lost out on a lot of acting parts.

Then one night I went to a night club to see Pat Collins, the well-known hypnotist. I didn't know that one of my friends had told Pat about my fear of flying. When she saw me, she offered to help me get over it.

She did nothing jazzy. Just sat me down, hypnotized me, and said, "Susan, you will remember that you used to love flying and that you used to feel safe."

Two days later I got a call to fly to Texas for a tv show appearance. I was excited when I got on the plane. As we picked up speed heading down the runway, I had a feeling of exhilaration. My fear of flying was a thing of the past!

Then, about three years ago, a friend invited me to fly in his private plane. But those small planes didn't appeal to me, and it took months before I finally agreed to go.

I was scared at first, but the day after flying with him I found myself signing up for pilot instruction. Two months later, after soloing, I got my private license.

The idea of flying to Europe started a year later. I was studying Russian at the time and a friend suggested, "Why don't you fly to Russia?" I said, "Sure, why not?"

When I started to check into it, I found out that while a few women had flown single-engine planes across the Atlantic before, none had ever done it under the observance of the National Aeronautic Association, the only agency that could certify any speed record.

In my naiveté, I had no idea what was involved, such as survival training, familiarity with special compasses, how to use an automatic pilot and other special equipment.

For weeks, pilot friends of mine helped me to learn to fly by dead reckoning. They took me out over water, took away my instruments, made me get lost. Then I had to find my way back. They simulated all kinds of emergencies.

Many tried to discourage me. I was warned that even today few people go in single-engine planes across the Atlantic and that, being a pilot for such a short time, I was an idiot to plan it.

With all the training I did the few weeks before my flight, I still had only 15 actual instrument hours to my credit and scarcely 500 flying hours altogether. I found it tremendously complicated to take off from a big airport like LaGuardia. I'd been given certain clearances, and they were amended just before I took off and then changed again. It's easy to get confused!

But what a wonderful feeling as the plane lifted off at last, heading for my first stop—Moncton, New Brunswick. The flight in the single-engine Aero Commander 200 took me on a 6,269 mile half-circle, from LaGuardia to New Brunswick, Labrador, Greenland, Iceland, Scotland, and into Copenhagen. The estimated flying time was 22 hours and 25 minutes, but due to inclement weather, the flight took a week because I had to wait four days for the weather to clear up. The actual flying time was about 25 hours.

There were some frightening moments other than my climb out of the Greenland fjord. The most rugged part of the trip was the leg between Iceland and Scotland. When I took off from Reykjavik, the plane's door opened. The noise was simply horrendous, but I didn't want to go roaming around the cockpit to pull it shut.

I also encountered icing. I had no choice but to drop below freezing level. The ice sounded like a machine gun when it broke off the propeller and hit the windshield.

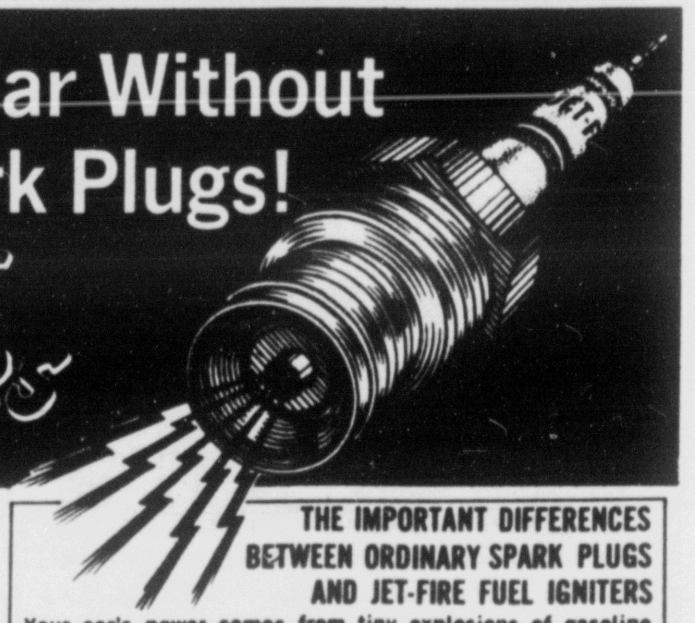
The trip's climax was my arrival in Scotland. It was night and raining hard. They had bagpipes waiting for me, and when I jumped out of the plane, three policemen "arrested" me for not having the right papers. Luckily it was just a gag. There was only one disappointment about the trip. My visa to Moscow didn't come through.

My first reaction after I got back back home was, now that I've done it, I'll stick to knitting.

That feeling didn't last long. I am studying charts of the Pacific now. After all, I already speak Japanese. ◆

NOW! Run Your Car Without Conventional Spark Plugs!

NEW JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS



Pat. No. 2809580

Will deliver up to 30 more horsepower, and 5 more miles per gallon!

THEY NEVER WEAR OUT YOU'LL NEVER CLEAN, ADJUST OR REPLACE PLUGS AGAIN!

- get up to 5 more miles per gallon of gas
- add up to 30 more horsepower to your engine

Spark plugs are obsolete! Now there's a far better way to run your car.

With conventional spark plugs, only a fraction of the fuel that enters your cylinders is turned into power. The rest escapes through your tailpipe as unburned vapor. That is because their spark is so narrow – only 35-thousandths of an inch wide – that it cannot possibly ignite all the fuel mixture in the cylinder. As plugs get older, their sparks get narrower and less efficient till they have to be replaced.

New Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters do a far better job of turning gasoline into power. Instead of a narrow spark, they send out a wide swath of flame that "walks" across a semi-conductor tip, fanning out in all directions and exploding far more fuel in the cylinder.

Proof That You Get Up To 30 Horsepower More

Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters look like spark plugs merely because they have to be screwed into the spark plug socket. But what they do is far different. Here's how to prove it:

1. Run your car till it's fully warmed up.
2. Stop on a perfectly level stretch of road.
3. Put the car in Drive (1st gear with manual transmission), and see how fast the car rolls at idling speed.
4. Remove plugs and install Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters (a 10-minute job).
5. Now see how fast your car rolls at idling speed. You can expect it to go 4 TO 6 MILES PER HOUR FASTER without touching the gas pedal — dramatic proof that Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters increase engine RPMs by 100 to 150 with no increase in gas consumption. (At high speeds, RPMs increase by 300 to 350.)

So, first thing, you can reduce the gas flow by adjusting the idling screw, and start saving money before you've even driven a mile!

(At the same time, you can make your air-to-gas mixture leaner. Fuel Igniters require only a 15:1 ratio instead of the conventional 9:1. It's a simple adjustment that you or your mechanic can make in one minute. It provides even greater economy.)

Start driving and you'll notice even more improvement – up to 30 more horsepower of acceleration power, climbing power, and passing power. All this while burning less gas!

THE IMPORTANT DIFFERENCES BETWEEN ORDINARY SPARK PLUGS AND JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS

Your car's power comes from tiny explosions of gasoline vapor and air in your cylinders. The bigger the explosions, the faster you go.

SPARK PLUGS
NARROW SPARK

CONVENTIONAL PLUGS explode this mixture with a spark jumping across an air gap. The spark is just 35-thousandths of an inch across – not wide enough to explode all the fuel in the cylinder. Unburned gas escapes through your exhaust. In time, the electrodes become eroded and caked with carbon. The gap widens, the spark gets narrower, you lose more power, waste more fuel . . . and finally have to replace your plugs.

JET-FIRE
FUEL IGNITER
WIDE SWATH OF FLAME

JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS use no sparks. Instead a fanning swath of flame walks across a semi-conductor bridge from one electrode to another, exploding far more fuel, getting far more power. There is no gap that can widen, and carbon deposits actually improve performance. They do not have to be adjusted or replaced – ever!

TESTED AND PROVEN BY IMPARTIAL TESTING LAB!

An independent, completely impartial testing laboratory evaluated new Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters in actual road tests. Using a new 1968 Pontiac Tempest, they made repeated runs at various speeds, first with conventional plugs and then with Fuel Igniters. Their documented conclusion: "The Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters show an increase of 16% in mileage performance at all speeds and develop higher horsepower in the engine." The name of this famous testing laboratory and a copy of the complete, revealing report is available upon request.

NO REPLACING OR ADJUSTING EVER

The more you drive, the better your Fuel Igniters perform. They don't become eroded, wear out or require adjusting. And carbon build-up – the natural enemy of old fashioned plugs – actually makes fuel igniters perform better. Carbon becomes an additional carrier for the igniter's big jet flame.

So there you have a third saving. One set of fuel igniters will last the life of your car!

Invented To Save Air Force Lives — Now They Can Save You Money

Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters were first developed to save airmen's lives. During World War II, there were times when more men were killed by spark plug malfunction than by enemy action. A failure-proof replacement was needed, and Fuel Igniters did the job. Both the Navy and Air Force have approved them for jet engine use.

Now at last they have been modified for automobile use. They won't save your life, but they can save you big money – up to $100 a year with ordinary driving.

Some day, all cars may come equipped with Fuel Igniters like these. But why wait when you can install a set yourself now. Just mail the coupon with the make and model of your car, and we'll rush you a set with full instructions. Just $12.80 per set of 8, $9.60 per set of 6.

Save $100 a Year With Jet-Fuel Igniters!

If you drive 15,000 miles, chances are you can easily save:

- $50 by switching to regular gas.
- $40 on your better mileage.
- $10 by not replacing plugs.

Agents wanted for all territories in U.S. Write for full details about this big money-making opportunity.

GLITTERING LAS VEGAS:

Family Fun in the Town That Never Shuts Down

But the family is taking over the daytime action.

The big gamblers are still there, but the city's image is changing: now it's "come—and bring the kids"

By BEN MATTHEWS

THE LAS VEGAS legend still exists of little old ladies cranking the arms of slot machines, of "high rollers" at the dice tables and roulette wheels, of millions of lights and miles of beckoning neon signs.

For Las Vegas is first and foremost the world's biggest gambling machine, and it is gambling that has turned this dry, once forbidding desert into a glittering oasis that drew 14.5 million visitors in 1967. It is gambling that makes it possible—even necessary—for each of a dozen superbaroque hotels to offer the world's greatest bargains in big-name entertainment.

To keep the guest rooms filled and the guests close to the action, a typical Las Vegas hotel has an entertainment budget of $100,000 a week. The flashing signs that proclaim the superstar in attendance cost up to $1 million. At the same time this summer you will find Broadway's "Fiddler on the Roof," the Folies Bergères and the Paris Lido shows, Ella Fitzgerald, Red Skelton, Phyllis Diller, Milton Berle, Roger Williams, Eddie Fisher, Connie Francis, Kay Starr, and dozens of other stars playing the Strip. The most it would cost you to see the show is a $6 or $8 dinner—about a third of the price of such an evening in New York, Miami, or San Francisco.

The old Las Vegas attitude used to be: never let the guest outside. Once inside one of its lush palaces, time stopped. The great casino lobbies were cunningly constructed so that no sunlight seeped in. Even now no clocks are visible; no croupier wears a watch. Breakfast is served 24 hours a day, and bedrooms have sunproof shutters to keep out the blaze of day.

But in 1959 Las Vegas opened its great flying saucer of a Convention Hall and a new kind of tourist began coming—the conventioneer and his family. Hotels, becoming aware that you cannot fill 25,000 tourist beds with just "high rollers" and little old ladies, began to let sunshine leak in. They built swimming pools, tennis courts, and golf courses—there are 10 18-hole layouts patching the desert with green. The newest slogan is "come—and bring the family."

Several hotels have added nursery and baby-watching services. And one adventurous young couple just opened a facility that could be a pattern for resort complexes everywhere. Sy and Lenette Ogulnick, both former schoolteachers, have built a $300,000 Children's Center only one mile from the Las Vegas Strip.

They have a 9,000 square-foot multipurpose dining room, auditorium and gymnasium, a heated swimming pool, tennis courts, athletic fields, and a woodland camping site.

There are dormitories for boys and girls—age range from 6 to 16. The Ogulnicks will pick up children at any Las Vegas hotel and keep them for the day—from 8:30 to 5:30 or on a full room-and-board basis. Day camping costs $10, overnight $20 or $120 a week.

The Center has a faculty of teachers and advanced students from Southern Nevada University who are ready to tutor children in subjects that may have given them trouble during the school year or to teach them guitar, tennis, skiing, riding—anything the child wants.

For families who want to play together, Las Vegas is a hub for excursions to Lake Mead, formed by the towering arc of Hoover Dam, the highest in the Western hemisphere. The lake has a 500-mile shore line and is a haven for waterfowl. Rocky Mountain sheep, deer, and coyote can be spotted from the shore. There is no closed fishing season—in fact, fishing is legal night and day, and 600,000 fish were taken last year.

There are a dozen marinas on the lake, and boats can be hired for water skiing, fishing, or exploring such fascinating desert-rock formations as Iceberg Canyon, Napoleon's Tomb, and Swallow Cove.

Only an hour farther away are Zion National Park and Bryce Canyon, two glories of the American West, with cliffs, buttes, and mesas as spectacularly colored as the Grand Canyon.

If conventions and the family have wrought one significant change in this desert city, a more dramatic change could be in the offing. Howard Hughes, America's mysterious billionaire, seems to be buying up Nevada. Quietly, from his headquarters in the Desert Inn, he has purchased 14 percent of Las Vegas' hotel-and-gambling facilities for upwards of $150 million.

He also has bought the nearby Krupp ranch, Thunderbird Field, tv station KLAS, the Taylor ranch, Alamo Airways, and untold stretches of prime land along the Strip. He plans to build a monorail to serve his empire on the Strip—and Hughesland may soon make Disneyland look like a county fair by comparison.

Visualize then, if you can, Las Vegas 1975—with its monorail down the glittering Strip, the desert converted to green with new irrigation projects, families on vacation—and, of course, tireless little old ladies with paper cups full of coins in their left hand and a strong right hand on a one-armed bandit. ◆

How We Can Spot Tomorrow's Killers

Childhood clues can single out potential murderers, says this sociologist, and give us time to curb their violence

By DR. WILLIAM McCORD with Charles Remsberg

Member, President's Commission on Violence; Consultant to the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders; Professor of Sociology, Rice University

AN ENRAGED Minnesota farmer shoots his wife dead and sets fire to their house, cremating their four children.

In a Michigan mining town, a middle-aged janitor, who seemed to be "an all-right guy," grabs a high-powered rifle and suddenly kills seven townspeople.

Once every 48 minutes someone in the U.S. commits murder. Yet as different as all the killings appear, the crimes have a single common denominator that makes them doubly tragic: virtually all could have been predicted years before they happened!

Studies which I headed a decade ago produced guidelines by which violent criminals of the future can be detected with almost absolute certainty in childhood. The "predictability factors," if coupled with an imaginative program of counseling and treatment, could in all probability be preventing much of today's violence. Yet, ironically, these findings are nowhere being used in any anticrime effort.

My findings actually got under way at Harvard University years before I became a sociologist. In 1935, Dr. Richard Clarke Cabot, a professor of social ethics there, recruited 1,000 boys from the slums of Cambridge and Somerville, Mass., for an anti-delinquency experiment. The youngsters were either eight or nine years old and represented a racial and ethnic cross-section. None had yet acquired a police record.

In the opinion of teachers, ministers, and others who knew them, half of Cabot's group were boys who would eventually "go bad." The other half were considered to be intrinsically "good" boys.

For several years Cabot arranged for half of the "good boys" and half of the "bad" to receive regular medical care, tutoring, supervised recreation, and such luxuries as summer camp. The rest continued to exist in an unaltered slum environment. By the late 1950s, it was time for a followup study. Cabot had died, so I was asked to determine what had become of his boys. Eventually we tracked down 920. Since the 1930s, we found that 40 percent had run afoul of the law. And two things were evident:

First, those who had compiled police records had come equally from the "good" and "bad" groups, as had those who had never been arrested. Second, the special attention given to half the boys had had no deterrent effect.

As we analyzed their personal histories, however, an interesting pattern emerged. Based on detailed reports, we rated each subject's childhood background on a number of criteria:

What was each parent's attitude toward him? Rejection? Erratic affection? Genuine love? How was he disciplined? Physical abuse? Loss of privileges? Were the same standards of behavior consistently enforced or was an infraction punished sometimes and ignored others? How did his father and mother act toward each other?

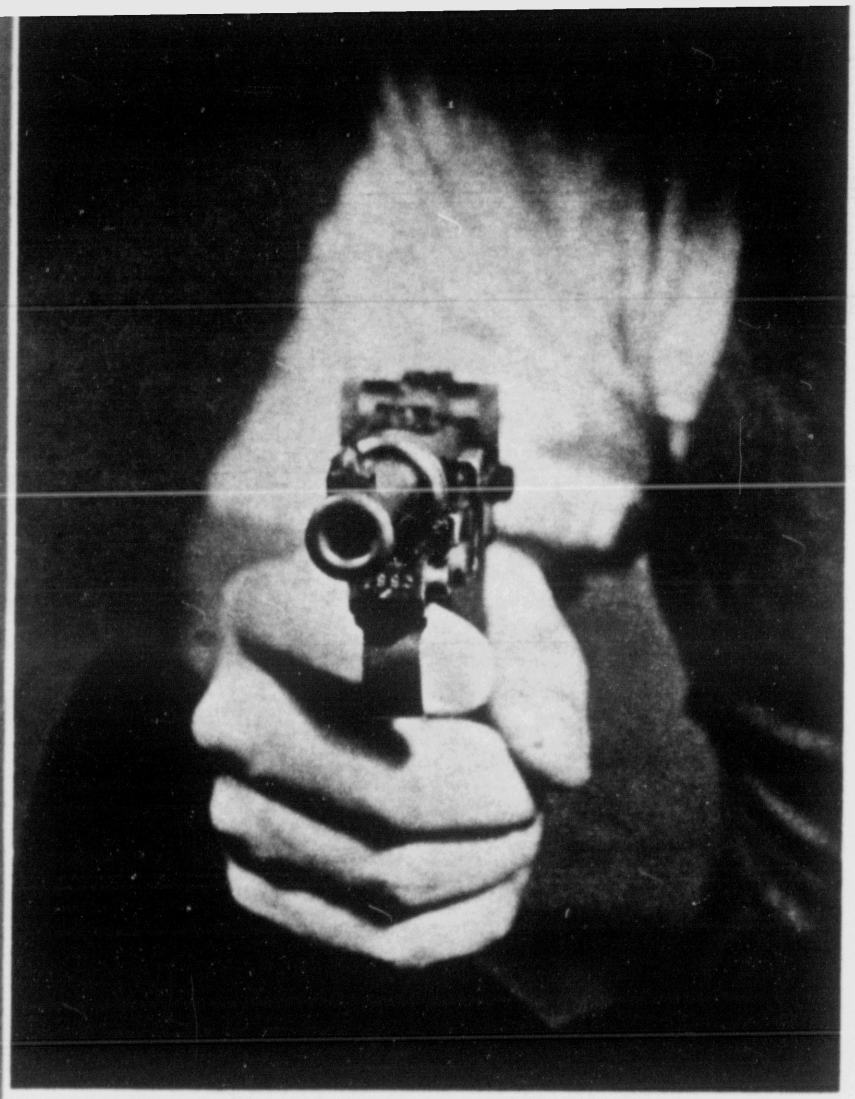
Our subjects who had committed murder or assault with intent to kill (there were 14 of these) all received the lowest rating possible in each of the categories. In other words, they had been thoroughly rejected by both mother and father; the enforcement of behavior standards had been inconsistent; the usual discipline against them had been physical cruelty; and their parents clearly had despised each other and had shown it by physically and verbally abusing each other numerous times.

A young man I'll call Eddy Wood typified this unique group. His father, an alcoholic who was himself an ex-convict, ignored Eddy completely except to beat him in erratic displays of discipline. On the rare occasions he was home, the father also beat Eddy's mother in the boy's presence.

Eddy's mother admitted she didn't like Eddy as a boy and couldn't help showing it. Eddy compiled a minor police record and openly admitted hating his mother and all women. When he was 20, he picked up a girl and killed her.

What is particularly compelling is the fact that the same kind of rock-bottom family background showed up for all the violent criminals—even though their individual personalities and their specific crimes differed widely.

It is easy to understand why. For one thing, a youngster in such an unhappy home learns to view the world as a threatening place in which he has to defend himself from attack. His first view of human behavior is of violence. Both parents tend to be highly aggressive, and they teach the child, at least implicitly, that one can express violent tendencies without inhibition. As a means of self-preservation, he may adopt a facade of mildness.



But in reality he feels an intense inner rage against his parents and, by extension, all human beings, too.

Some people may wonder why the offspring of a given family may turn out radically different —may come to include, for example, a killer, a nonviolent criminal, and a person who avoids lawbreaking altogether. I did find such families in my study, and the explanation for them is a simple one: parents rarely raise all their children in exactly the same way.

One family I studied had two boys. The older was treated like a female—given dolls and dresses, for instance—by the mother, who had wanted a girl. She rejected her second son altogether. The father ignored his first-born and abused the younger. The parents fought violently themselves. Today the older boy has never committed a violent crime—but is a homosexual. The younger is a convicted murderer.

The point is that I feel we could be predicting tomorrow's killers with the same degree of confidence that a physician can predict that persons exposed to infected mosquitoes will contract malaria.

With our crime rate booming, it seems imperative that this knowledge not be allowed just to gather dust in a sociologist's files. If a sufficient public cry were raised, funds would be allotted by Government and private foundations for putting this data to work, at least in experimental pilot projects.

Initially, perhaps, the home life of a youngster could be thoroughly investigated the first time he runs afoul of juvenile authorities. If the ingredients for future violence were unearthed in the child's environment—in other words, the low rating in each category of our scale—he could then be legally removed from his home.

In a small, special boarding school (not a reformatory or juvenile institution in the traditional sense) he could be placed in an atmosphere of love, kindness, and fair and consistent discipline and be in contact with a large number of adults who are the exact opposite of his parents. Treated early enough, I believe he could be remolded for a lifetime of nonviolent behavior.

When we have on one hand mounting violence and on the other a formula that opens the way to detecting the potential perpetrators of violence yet to come, how much longer can we really wait? ◆

Girls! A Fabulous Figure The 6 Second Way!

It is almost like a miracle. You can actually lose flab around stomach, thighs, waist, hips, neck, face and not move out of your seat. Unbelievable? New scientific tests show that you get faster and better results from Isometrics, the new method of exercise. Another astounding fact about Isometrics is that you do each exercise only 6 seconds a day. No special equipment is required, or trips to gyms, playing fields, swimming pools or bowling alleys and you can concentrate on any part of the body that you are interested in controlling.

DESIGNED BY EXPERTS

The series of exercises in Isometrics — The Static Way to Physical Fitness were prepared under the supervision of Victor F. Obeck, Professor of Physical Education and Director, Division of Athletics, New York University and Isadore Rossman, M.D., Medical Director, Department of Home Care and Extended Services, Montefiore Hospital, New York.

HOW-TO-PHOTOGRAPHS

A MUST FOR DIETERS

You will still need Isometrics even if you have decided to reduce solely by dieting. Because when the fat is gone there will remain layers and layers of loose, flabby, unattractive skin that had been stretched out by the fat. Miracle Isometrics tightens and restores the firmness to the skin and eliminates the undesired flabbiness. Isometrics does it in only 6 seconds a day. Convince yourself. Mail the coupon and try Isometrics for 10 days. Unless you get the desired results, return the book and you will receive a full refund of the purchase price.

MORE RIDING COMFORT THAN RADIAL TIRES

More Mileage, Strength and Traction Than Conventional Tires . . .

The new Riverside® GLASBELT TIRE

2 fiber glass belts stabilize the tread with a tensile strength greater than steel
So stable, the tread won't squirm like it does on ordinary tires. So it wears longer. Up to 40% longer than the same tire without these belts. All that strength holds the tread open. Lays it down flatter. Socks it to the road.

2 plies of nylon cord for high speed dependability
